RAIN GREETS QUEEN MARIE IN NEW YORK

DRIZZLE DAMPENS EVERYTHING BUT SPIRITS OF VISITORS

CHEERED BY HUNDREDS AS SHE REACHES PORT

Battery Crowded For Near Glimpse of First Queen in U. S. for 7 Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Queen Marie of Roumania and her royal party stepped onto American soil at the battery today in a drizzling rain which dampened everything but the spirits of the smiling visitors and the cheering hundreds who crowded the great square for a glimpse of the first queen to visit America in seven years.

Protest Filed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—A protest against alleged exploitation of the United States government by Queen Marie of Roumania, was received by Secretary of State Kellogg from C. C. Mooney, managing editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, today. Mooney is understood to have charged the queen or her associates with the government official reception for alleged commercial aggrandizement. Secretary Kellogg declined to publish Mooney's telegram or to comment on its contents.

It is pointed out that international necessity requires the queen be received with all the honor and dignity the national capital affords, but the fact that the queen was turning the adventure to her own advantage by making a newspaper syndicate her mouthpiece was not lost upon government men. Nor had they seen with pleasure advertisements exploiting her coming presence at the Philadelphia Sesqui-Centennial.

Local Officers Issue Warning After Number of Disturbances Here

Following the arrest of nearly a dozen persons over the week end for drunkenness, disturbing the peace, and other infractions of the law, warning was issued this morning by local officers that drastic steps will be taken to enforce the law if necessary.

Five persons were taken into custody Saturday night by police, and four more Sunday night. Several automobiles, which officers suspected of being used to transport liquor, were investigated, and evidence that liquor had been in them was found. A number of persons were arrested for disturbing the peace.

"I would just like to say that no one can think he is going to 'take charge' of the town," said Chief of Police J. E. Wilson. "Some of them got pretty rough Saturday night. I don't want to mention any names, but the police department and the Sheriff's department are going to handle this situation."

Deputy Sheriff Gilstrap and State Ranger Smith were abused by a party of five men in an automobile near the railroad station after they had investigated the automobile and found evidence that liquor had been in it. The automobile was searched downtown and later when the occupants of it saw the officers

SHOW INCREASE IN COTTON GINNED IN TEXAS THIS SEASON

Adverse Weather and Unfavorable Prices Cut no Figure

DALLAS, Oct. 18.—Cotton ginned in Texas prior to October 1 shows an increase of 162,094 bales over the corresponding period in the previous year, despite adverse weather and unfavorable prices for cotton in 1926, according to figures announced by the United States Department of Commerce today. The total bales for this year were 2,044,944, compared with 1,882,850 in 1925.

Offers Cotton Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Plans for withholding 4,000,000 bales of cotton from the market this fall in order to boost cotton prices, was presented to the Cotton Committee today by C. W. Kilgore, of Raleigh, North Carolina, and Oscar C. Johnson, of Memphis, Tennessee. Johnson said if cotton was brought to 15 cents a pound, planters would break even, except for interest on borrowed money.

"Ample credit and sufficient warehouse facilities are plentiful to make this plan successful,"

10,000 BALES OF COTTON CROP IN COUNTY HANDLED

More than 10,000 bales of this year's cotton crop has been handled through Marshall, it is shown in reports of the cotton handled by the public weigher and the Marshall Compress.

J. P. Womack, weigher, said this morning he had handled 4,650 bales of the county crop, while announcement was made last week that the compress had handled 5,716 bales, making a total of 10,366. Mr. Womack estimates that he will handle at least 7,000 bales more of the county crop.

These figures do not include the cotton produced in the county and handled through points outside the city.

FISH CUT UP AS FLOODS CONVERT CORN INTO HOOTCH

Residents in Chariton Valley Call It An "Atmospheric Jag"

MACON, Mo., Oct. 18.—Fermented corn, an after product of high water in this county, is reported to be developing qualities that make strong men jump up and crack their heels together when they pass through the water-soaked fields. Residents in the Chariton Valley call it an "atmospheric jag."

There is no question about the odor from the water-logged fields. One can detect it a long way off, and a "light feeling" supplants it on closer approach.

Victor Groves, who lives in the valley of distillery odors, reports that a fisherman told him he had seen two large catfish emerge from a cornfield, climb a telephone pole and try to arrange telephone wires torn down by the flood.

Dispute at Waskom Results in Stabbing

Fields was given first aid by Dr. Vaughan, of Waskom, and it was said that the wounded negro will recover if no further complications set in.

Reed made his escape and has not yet been arrested.

Mrs. Chitwood will broadcast every afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, from the Houston Post-Dispatch Station KPRC, 296.9 meters. Those who tune in will find the program an interesting and instructive one.

NEGRO WOMAN SAYS SHE SHOT HUSBAND IN SELF-DEFENSE

George Jordan, a well known negro living in the western portion of the city, just off Houston Avenue towards Morgan Planning Mill, and his wife, Lena Jordan, got into an argument Saturday night, about midnight, just after Jordan came home, and the affair ended in Jordan being shot twice with a .38-caliber pistol, which caused his death in a few minutes.

The Jordan woman stated that her husband came home about midnight and commenced to fuss with her. She alleges that he opened his knife and started after her saying that he was going to kill her.

She ran and secured a pistol and opened fire at him, one shot taking effect in the right side of the head, just above and a little behind the ear, and the other in the left leg.

The knife, open, with which it is alleged that Jordan was trying to kill his wife, was found lying on the floor beside the dead body.

The Jordan woman states that she did not intend to kill her husband.

Half-Million Dollar Mark Passed in Building Here During the Present Year

With the $500,000-mark having been passed in building permits issued so far this year, construction is proceeding at a steeper pace and in considerably greater volume than in 1925, it is shown by building permits records of City Building Inspector C. G. Lancaster.

The total value of permits issued this year up to October 15 was $506,094, as compared with the total for the same period last year of only $452,642. Since the entire value of 1925 permits was only $568,291, indications point to a record volume of permits here this year. By the comparison it is shown that the value of permits up to October 15 this year was $52,452 more than for the same period last year.

October building probably will approach if not set a record for volume of permits this year, as the total already is $37,816. Permits have been issued for two large buildings, the automobile display and garage building at West Houston avenue and North Fulton street, being built by Dr. Galen Eads, at a cost of $17,500, and a store build-

TEXAS BANKER GAVE WARNING ABOUT COTTON

Urged Last Spring in Interest of Sound Economics to Reduce Acreage

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Oct. 18.—Predictions often come true. Judge M. H. Gossett, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, last spring warned Texas cotton growers that increased cotton acreage probably would result in lower cotton prices. He urged them, in the interest of sound economics and as a basis of solid individual development, to grow less cotton, and more feed and food crops.

A number of half-renters, disaffected from that point of view, have abandoned their cotton crops in that section because, it is asserted, of the low price of cotton. One farmer who rented on halves, the advice gave, gathered nine bales and had only $14 left over as his part of the proceeds. Disappointed at the not results of a year's labor, he began picking cotton for other farmers and in two weeks made $120.

"An average bale," the report said, "at present prices brings about $70. The half-renter's share is $35, of which he must pay $22.50 for picking and $7.50 for ginning, a total of $30, which leaves him only five dollars a bale for his own labor, to say nothing of the cost of chopping and poison for insect pests."

The correspondent who outlined this situation predicted that "these conditions are certain to bring about a big reduction in acreage of cotton next season and drive many farmers into other work."

Tenants who give a third and a fourth of the proceeds to the land owners and farmers who own their own land can overcome the situation by practicing diversification and living at home. But since cotton is the only cash crop—for which there is a certain market—farming generally will be unprofitable unless a fair price is received for the staple.

The correspondent did not say what he would regard a fair price, but the record shows that cotton classed at middling sold in Houston for a shade better than 13 cents early in October this year, while the same grade brought slightly better than 22 cents on the same date in 1925.

Cotton Market

Fifty bales of cotton from the surrounding country arrived in Marshall today and were classed by cotton classes Charles H. Welsh and sold to local buyers.

Cotton sold from 10 to 11 1-2 cents here today, one bale of extra staple bringing 12 cents.

The market closed 15 points down this afternoon.

The cotton grade has been going down here on account of the rains last week, making picking very slow.

There has so far been about one-third of the crop picked and marketed in Marshall that was grown in Harrison County, there being a total of 10,000 bales sold here up to Saturday night.

TESTIMONY IN ROAD MATTERS CREATES STIR

STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT FIRST TO BE QUESTIONED

NAME OF FERGUSON IS MENTIONED OFTEN

Story of Alleged Surreptitious Exchange of Money Marks Opening

By United Press.

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Sensational testimony, in which ex-Governor James E. Ferguson's name was mentioned and the story of alleged surreptitious exchange of money today marked the opening of the probe by the House Investigating Committee, created at the present Texas Legislature.

The State highway department was the first to be questioned. W. G. Hill, Auditor, the first witness who checked depositories for the Highway Commission, told of handing Eugene T. Smith, then secretary of the Commission, but recently appointed chairman, $250 wrapped in newspapers.

J. D. Windor, Belleville road contractor, who followed on the stand, told of being "invited to bid" for road contracts by James E. Ferguson, who said "we are going to charge you 10 per cent."

"I walked out of the office," Windor said, and added that he told Ferguson he had never done anything like that. He said his testimony would cause him great financial loss.

In his testimony, Hill said his commission was to be $20 a day and his assistant's $15 a day, with all expenses.

Hill said E. T. Smith kept putting him off on the grounds that payment of expenses was not contemplated at that time.

Later, Hill said he went to the Highway Commission, with $250 which was wrapped in newspapers. Smith was not there, and Hill said he phoned to his home, saying he wanted to see him. Smith said "come out," Hill testified.

"Was yours an honest account," asked the attorney. "Yes sir, I paid the $250 to get my money as I needed it badly," the witness said.

"I want you to make some money," Jim Ferguson told me, and if the road supervisor gets too hard on you or wants too much, let me know, and I will have him removed," Windor further testified. "Ferguson said that he wanted me to have this work, but we are going to charge you 10 per cent." This was in reference to bids in Val Verde, Burnett, Llano, Mason, Kendall and Kimble counties.

W. T. Montgomery, San Antonio road contractor, stated witness for Attorney General Dan Moody in the latter's suit against the Hoffman Construction Company, is among the witnesses and is to testify before the Investigating Committee this afternoon. Sensational testimony was given by Montgomery in the Travis County situation some months ago. It is expected that he will be questioned on this testimony when he appears before the probing committee.

Further testimony by Windor was that another job was in sight, "and my brother said that we could get it if we would send some money."

"Do you know of your own knowledge that 10 per cent was paid for any of the maintenance contracts?" Windor was asked. "Not of my own knowledge, but that it was generally understood that they could get the contracts by paying for them," he replied.

Charges Bribery

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—J. D. Windor, highway contractor of Belleville, today told the House Investigating Committee that for $7,500 to be delivered in five and ten dollar bills, James Ferguson offered in April 1925 to obtain for him the maintenance contracts in five counties.

Windor said only he and Ferguson were present when the former governor made the offer which Windor termed "an attempt to bribe me."

HAVE A CAMEL IS MUSIC TO YOUR EARS

Camel is totally different from any other smoke. . . . It's more than a cigarette. . . . A lighted Camel is smoking enjoyment realized—the closest thing to the perfection of taste this old earth ever knew.

Camel's popularity has no equal. Camel demand exceeds any other cigarette preference ever known. To say "Camel" is to ask for the world's most popular cigarette. And to light a Camel is to taste the best.

For there's a solid reason back of the fame and the enjoyment of Camel. Quality. Camels are rolled of the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos money can buy. . . . Blended for mouthless taste and fragrance.

If you could know how mild and mellow a smoke can really be, just treat yourself to a pack of Camels. Once you know what these words mean, they're music. . . . "Have a Camel!"

Realm of Sports

John Carr, president of the National Professional Football Association, is a cottonseed. The little town of Carr, Texas, is the home of the Carr family, who have produced the new golf champion of the eighth corps area, Lieutenant C. A. Quall of the Texas National Guard.

Six years ago in Canton, Ohio, a group of men interested in professional football organized a national league with Carr at its head. It was a "thank you" job to begin with, and Carr did not want it. He felt it would be better to devote his time to earning a living as a traveling salesman. But he was prevailed upon to accept. He drew a salary for the first year. But after that, the league started to grow, and Carr began to devote more and more of his time to its affairs.

Two years ago, professional basketball backers, seeing the success of the football organization, made Carr a proposition to organize a similar league of basketball teams, and offered him the presidency of it. That, too, has boomed, and last summer, when the Columbus basketball team was struggling in the throes of the worst slump in Association history, its owners decided to make Carr the president.

In 1924, when Carr was president of the Ohio State League of professional basketball teams, it had a record for sending players to the majors. Billy Southworth of the Cardinals, who clinched the second game of the recent World Series with his homer, was one of them.

Hardest Scholastic Captain
Friends of John ("Tiny") Moore believe he is among the largest high school football players in the country.

Moore, who is the captain of the 1926 Elkhart, Kansas, team, normally weighs 300 pounds, is six feet two and one-half inches tall and is 20 years old. Just now he weighs only 295 pounds, having lost sixteen pounds while working in harvest fields this summer.

John requires a size 48 pants but even that size fits him so tightly that none last a whole season.

Golf On The Plains
The oil field and cattle country of Northwest Texas and the Panhandle is perhaps the last section where one would expect to find golf courses. Yet every city of consequence sports at least a nine-hole links.

The greens often are cottonseed. The little town of Carr, Texas, is the home of the Carr family, who have produced the new golf champion of the eighth corps area, Lieutenant C. A. Quall of the Texas National Guard.

Almost everything in football are topics of conversation when gridiron officials, in the big conferences are returning home after a game.

Here is one anecdote:
In a game some ten years ago between two mid-western teams, the referee penalized one side because a player touched the ball before it was put into play. The point was questioned and several years later the coach asked the player, by that time a business man, whether he really touched the ball.

"Well, I've said I didn't for so long that I just can't remember the feel of that ball anymore," was the response.

Bridge Founder Versatile
The man who discovered bridge was a champion in several other sports before he finally became a master of the cards in his own game.

Bridge is the vocation and avocation of Sidney S. Lens but he has been a bowling, checker and ping pong champion, and once annexed the tennis title of the Whist League. Golf and poetry even now hold more fascination for him than cards.

The popular American card game, in which Lens has won 30 trophies and 522 medals, was born in India, while he was searching for the origin of the "rope trick." The latter he found only a myth, but he did discover bridge.

Whist had been played for generations and was the reigning favorite of British army officers stationed in India. It required four

MRS. BATES' SONG OF LOCAL INSPIRATION

Of the many delightful and beautiful song compositions of Anna Craig-Bates which have received the approval of eminent musical educators and renowned artists, her negro spirituals have been the subject of the most frequent comment, winning for the composer written testimonials of unqualified praise. The fact that inspiration for these compositions was found right here in East Texas, in the most familiar surroundings, must be a source of gratification to Mrs. Bates, as well as of special interest to all residents of this section of the state.

Especially well liked and commended by the critics has been Mrs. Bates' song "When Death Comes, a Creeping," a negro spiritual which is to be a feature of the program Thursday evening, when the composer is to be presented in concert with Miss Lorene Prange of St. Louis by the Stephen F. Austin Parent-Teachers' Association. In speaking of the song, Mrs. Bates said that the theme from which it was developed was suggested to her three years ago, when she heard a negro farm hand at Rosborough Springs whistling early one morning, on his way to the fields with his plough. She realized at once that there was an unusual theme, but it was with difficulty that she obtained the words of the song, and the finished composition was made possible only through patient persuasion, and much re-writing.

Dr. Thomas Tapper, world renowned teacher of harmony and counterpoint thought so well of the composition that he accepted the dedication, and Charles Wakefield Cadman after hearing it sung said, "I especially like the negro spiritual, it shows striking originality, quite native in its origin." Sigismund Spaeth, New York critic, author of the much talked about book, "The Common Sense of Music," who in musical affairs always speaks with the weight of authority, wrote the composer after hearing it sung, "I was particularly interested in your arrangement of the negro spiritual, which shows refreshing spontaneity and sincerity." Clyde Witlock, Texas musician, praises in unmeasured terms the quality of Mrs. Bates' work, saying of the spiritual, "You have achieved a result that is pure art."

Other songs composed by Mrs. Bates have been accepted and sung by well known artists, including Yvonne de Treville, Maggie Teyte, Helen Stanley, and Frances Ingram. "Light," a very beautiful and harmonious setting for Bourdillon's familiar poem, De Treville declared to be one of the loveliest in her repertoire. "Love's Hour," one of the first of the composer's songs to be published is dedicated to and sung by Maggie Teyte.

an interesting collection of autographed letters from many internationally known artists and writers, among them one from John Maschfield, written from Boar's Hill, Oxford, in which the poet gives permission to use his lyric "Sea Fever," for a song. "To My Valentine," a poem by Glen Ward Dresbach, well known Texas poet, has also been given a musical setting by Mrs. Bates, and the song has been sung on the concert stage by Helen Stanley.

From her girlhood the composer has been an integral part of the musical life of Marshall, her home city, and while she is written about and spoken of in the outside world as "Anna Craig-Bates, Texas composer," she will always belong peculiarly to Marshall, for here she has done most of her original work, and here she continues her work under the stimulation of local inspiration.

My three favorite cup cake recipes

I am sure you will find these cup cakes a dainty treat for Sunday supper desserts or when a few good friends drop in for luncheon or tea.

I make them with Crisco, the pure, snowy-white, vegetable shortening, and hardly anyone who eats them can tell they are made without expensive butter.

My first recipe

Cup Cakes

1/2 cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups flour
1 teaspoon vanilla

2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk

Cream Crisco and sugar. Add beaten eggs and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Add vanilla and beat thoroughly. Pour into greased muffin or cup cake pans and bake in quick oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes.

This recipe makes 15 to 20 cakes.

Filled Chocolate Cakes

1/2 cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups milk
3 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 1/2 cups flour
2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Cream Crisco and sugar together. Add beaten eggs and mix well. Cook the milk and chocolate, cut in pieces, over a slow fire, stirring until thick. Cool. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with the chocolate to the first mixture. Add vanilla and beat thoroughly.

Bake in small, greased cup cake pans in a quick oven (425 degrees F.) 15 to 20 minutes. While hot remove a square from the top of each cake and substitute a marshmallow in place of the cake removed. Ice with boiled frosting.

Filled Cup Cakes

Follow recipe for Cup Cakes. When cool split in halves crosswise and remove portion of the cake. Fill center with stiffly whipped cream, flavored and sweetened. Put halves together and ice all over with Creamy Chocolate Frosting.

Creamy Chocolate Frosting

1 1/2 cups milk
4 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
Few grains salt

Cook milk with chocolate, cut in pieces, over a slow fire, stirring until thick and smooth. Add sugar and cook again until very thick, stirring constantly. Cool and add vanilla and salt.

Boiled Frosting

3/4 cups sugar
1/2 cup water
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cook sugar and water together, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Boil without stirring until the syrup forms a soft ball when tested in cold water (238 degrees F.) Pour over the stiffly beaten egg whites and beat constantly until the mixture holds its shape. When cool add vanilla.

QUEEN Marie is scheduled to land in New York today. For no reason at all she will be given a bustling reception with the streets crowded and officials bowing and scraping. There will be much ado.

There is no reason why America should become so excited over the coming of a reigning monarch. We feel quite sure that she will not be very different from the thousands who will greet her. However she is a queen.

Because she is a queen, there are lots of little things we would like to know about her. Things that we have always thought should go with all regular queens. Things we have imagined, visualized.

In fact, we have had our own private conception of what a queen should be. It seems that the picture was created during the story-book period. There are red robes, a crown, a scepter, and beauty. Somehow or other, there should be a huge mass of long hair.

We have already been told that the coming queen lacks the long tresses. We would not expect to see the red robes. We know there would be no crown or scepter. We are skeptical about the beauty. Anyway we would like to see for ourselves.

There is no reason why Queen Marie should be given an ovation when she lands at the Battery on Manhattan today. There is no reason why there should be large crowds, but if we were there we'd go and see what she looks like.

THE Evening Standard, an afternoon paper in London, carried a criticism of the attitude of several Europeans in regard to the debt question. It has been the habit in Europe to blame America for wishing to collect the money which various European nations owe her. The countries blame the United States for economic difficulties in Europe. The real cause of the economic evils is in the expenditure of large sums of money on armaments. If races were not being held to see which nation can get the greatest supply of unnecessary armaments, America might be paid. Then there would be no debt question over which to quarrel.

No one likes a debt collector, but it hardly seems possible that foreign nations should expect America to forego her debts merely because they are spending their money foolishly.

The criticism of the London paper should be greatly appreciated in view of the fact that America has not lately been given credit for anything good.

COMMENTS ON LIFE

The truest wisdom, in general, is a resolute determination.—Napoleon.

Heaven's eternal wisdom has decreed that man should ever stand in need of man.—Theocritus.

AND SOME HUMOR

Sweet Young Thing: "Why do they have knots on the ocean instead of miles?"

Skipper (sarcastically): "Well, you see, they couldn't have the ocean tied if there were no knots."

AND SOME VERSE

Sundays

They handed me a lump of clay, a shapeless thing:
"This is your life," they said, "to fashion as you will."
But I was never very good at sculpturing,
I had no teaching, ever, and I have no skill.
And so, I hand the clay to you, who are more fit,
Some day, perhaps, to make a lovely thing of it.

TAX SURVEY

BILL VETOED
BY GOVERNOR

By United Press

AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—The Senate concurrent resolution No. 10, providing for a survey to be made by twelve persons, three of whom are to be members of the Senate, three of the House and six citizens who are not members of the Legislature, was vetoed today by Governor M. A. Ferguson.

The reasons given by the governor for vetoing the bill were:

"This is the creation of another board, authorized by law to spend $10,000 of the people's money in the next three months, to study taxes.

"The time is too short to expect anything to be accomplished by the board," the governor said.

Planes Reduce the Mennae of Disease

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Oct. 18.—

The menace of epidemics, which in the past have claimed many victims in Alaskan villages before medical aid could be obtained, has been eliminated to a large extent by the advent of commercial aviation to the northland.

The ships of the air have not replaced the dog team, for ordinary purposes, but where speed is essential, the planes have a field all to themselves.

Much of the vast interior to Alaska has been opened up to air travel by the establishment of landing fields from Port Yukon to Nome. Twenty-five fields will have been constructed by this winter with appropriations made by the last territorial legislature.

Fairbanks from which planes operate to the outlying districts, is but nine days distant from Seattle by rail and water. Most of the interior mining camps and trading posts are inaccessible in summer except in some cases by circuitous water routes. In the winter they may be reached by dog teams.

were elected: W. W. Heartill, mayor; John N. Coleman, recorder; N. A. (Bob) Searcy, city marshal; Herman Kretz, treasurer; Aldermen—wards one to four inclusive, T. A. Elgin, J. H. Callaway, Henry Taylor, R. L. Jennings.

Live Oak county voted last week on the prohibition of the sale of liquor in the county. Reports from there say the election was carried by the advocates of temperance.

Note the last word—"temperance." As was asked a few days ago, what has become of the temperance work-ers? Have they been swallowed up by the army of prohibitionists?

Prussian's Horse Meat
Consumption Great

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—More horse meat is being eaten in Prussia today than at any other time in history, not excluding the war period when horses were slaughtered because there was little other meat available.

The Ministry of Agriculture reports that the increased consumption is not due to a great relish for horse steaks, but to distressing of horse flesh increased 20 per cent. this year over the corresponding period in 1925.

POSSIBILITIES IN DAIRYING INDUSTRY CONSIDERED GREAT

Under the regulation provided by the milk grading ordinance, which is a standard throughout the United States, the dairying industry of Harrison county has become one of the most highly developed enterprises in this section.

The ordinance has been in effect in the city sixteen months, and during that time the result has been to place the dairies of the county, as well as the milk produced, among the best in the country. Not only has a better quality of milk been produced, but a much larger market has been created as a result of it.

The daily production of milk in the county is now 1,100 gallons. There are 23 dairies in operation, utilizing 460 cows. The dairies range in size from ten to 60 cows. Of the total production 200 gallons is now sold in Shreveport, the remainder being sold retail locally, or else wholesale to bottling and pasteurizing plants.

"The production of milk of the county should be doubled easily," said Dr. A. W. Dunn, city food inspector, and veterinarian in charge of enforcement of the milk ordinance. "It is only a matter of getting dairymen interested in the local territory, and they are rapidly becoming interested in it. Within the last few days a number of farmers have told me they are going to quit cotton raising and go into the dairying business."

"When the market at Shreveport is fully served there are a number of other cities that are bidding for supplies, and the market is almost unlimited. One thing about dairying, the price of milk is always steady, production is always certain, and a market is always certain."

The price of milk being sold to Shreveport interests was increased this week from 30 cents to 32 1/2 cents a gallon. The milk is sold in Shreveport on the gallon basis, the butter fat basis having been abandoned. The market was opened on July 3, and it is believed that it will increase steadily from now on.

The milk grading ordinance was enacted at the instance of Dr. Dunn. Inspections of dairies and herds are made at least once a month by Dr. Dunn to see that all provisions are met by dairymen. The ordinance sets up a standard of grades for raw and pasteurized milk, ranging from Grade A to Grade D. The grade is determined by the bacterial count, Grade A having not more than 50,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter, Grade B having not more than 100,000, and so forth. The ordinance also sets up a standard for dairy equipment, specifying the type of utensils and the manner of handling the milk.

The ordinance was worked out by Federal authorities, and is used in practically all states. It also provides that cattle must be given the tuberculosis test, and that persons employed in the dairies must possess health certificates. Dairying in Harrison County so far is for the greater part a sideline to those engaged in it. There are few who are in the business solely. It is this fact that shows that the industry is yet in its infancy. Few of the dairymen produce their own winter feed, pasturing their herds in the lowlands where grass is luxuriant in spring and summer and buying their feed in the fall and winter. The cost of entering the dairying business is considered not very great when the possibilities of it are taken into consideration, it is pointed out. The average herd is from 20 to 25 cows. These can be bought generally at $50 a head, making the cost of herds approximately $1,000. Barns can be built at $200 up. At least one dairy barn in the county was built at a cost of $5,000. Equipment is not considered an enormous expense. Therefore, it may be seen, the expense of entering the dairying business is not prohibitive. The dairying business most lucratively begins after operation is begun, the labor and feed being the principal items. The impetus recently given dairying in the county has resulted in a large number of inquiries to local dairymen and officials concerning the possibilities from dairymen in other localities.

TAKES HER DOG TO LINES LONDON, Oct. 18.—The average English society woman's love for her pet dog is proverbial, but it is not often they take them into the realms of sport.

Lady Derby, however, is perhaps an exception with two terriers of which she is particularly fond. An enthusiastic golfer, Lady Derby takes them to the course on a lead and when wielding the club hands the dogs over to the caddy. The shot made, the Lady again takes the dogs until it is necessary to drive or putt.

Ravages Wrought By Constipation Appalling!

Constipation is a bad habit—a dangerous habit! Constipation is probably the origin of more sickness and disease than all other causes combined.

Professor Foges, of Vienna, says—"It is the most prolific source of disease." And other authorities declare that nine out of every ten persons are slowly poisoning themselves by letting CONSTIPATION continue.

Constipation can easily be stopped! But you can't do it with ordinary methods. Salts, oils, castors and such things only irritate part of the intestines and partially clean them. KLOK-LAX, on the other hand, clears and cleans out every inch of the twenty-eight foot drainage canal, including the stomach, upper and lower intestines.

STOP CONSTIPATION. And KLOK-LAX is so easy and pleasant to take—just a tablet with a swallow of water at 9 to-night. No nausea—no griping—no time lost. Then, tomorrow, with your system thoroughly cleaned out of all poisons and wastes, you feel bubbling over with energy and vigor.

KLOK-LAX is the new improved method of overcoming constipation. Contains ingredients now recognized the world over for completely cleaning out the entire intestinal tract.

Everybody is using KLOK-LAX. And with poisonous wastes cleaned out, they find headaches gone, skin cleared up, with a hearty appetite—Taste and breath sweet and clean—and, instead of that foot dragging, sluggish feeling they stomach, upper and lower intestines are active and alive.

Coal Experts From Germany to Attend Pittsburgh Meeting

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 18.—The Germans, considered the world's leaders in coal research, will send their leading scientists to America to describe their discoveries.

This step in international cooperation will be taken at the conference on Bituminous coal at the Carnegie Institute of Technology on November 15 to 18, President Thomas S. Baker announced today.

Dr. Friedrich Bergins and Franz Fischer will represent Germany at the meeting. They are the inventors of processes considered the most promising of all the methods so far devised for the production of fuel oil from coal.

Foreign leadership in coal research is explained by the fact that America has a wealth of petroleum resources, while in Europe there is little natural petroleum under the ground, and the possibilities of using coal have therefore been carefully investigated.

President Pushes Button to Light Street in Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—The famous White House button, which opens exposition gates and unveils statues, gave Thursday night to State Street, Chicago's retail thoroughfare, the world's brightest mile.

When President Coolidge pressed a button in Washington turning on $100,000 worth of street lights, erected by State Street merchants, he set in motion a three-night carnival celebrating Chicago's acquisition of the brilliantly illuminated avenue advertisement of the mercantile houses lining it, which do an annual retail business of $450,000,000.

The new lights, stretching from the Chicago River to the lower end of the business district, on Van Buren Street, give color to the career of Chicago's most historic street.

The order went into effect today on the Twentieth Century and the Southwestern Limited. It will apply to all Pullman cars as soon as the system can be extended.

Special Guard For President's Son in College

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—President Coolidge Friday assigned a secret service man to protect his only son, John, who is attending school at Amherst.

"Bid Ed" Staring, a Kentucky Colonel and personal body guard for the last three presidents, was selected for the task.

It was said to be the first time that a president's son has been so looked after. It was explained, however, that the statutes require that the secret service shall look after the welfare of the president and the members of his family.

Staring will live in the same house with the young man and accompany him to his classes. He will also keep a watchful eye on his companions to keep him from getting into boxing exhibitions as he did last year and also stop any hazing.

French Women Now Drink More Liquor

PARIS, Oct. 18.—French women are taking more and more to alcohol while the men are cutting down their consumption of wines and liquors, Professor Marcel Labbe, distinguished French physician, reported to the Academy of Medicine.

"The cocktail has a large share of the blame," Dr. Labbe said. "It has become quite the usual thing for women, even the working class, to have their noonday cocktail or aperitif. Port is the favorite variety."

"A few years ago hospitals had few cases of disease due to strong drink among women. Now they occur in alarming numbers, while on the other hand the number of men suffering such disease is steadily decreasing."
