By Precious Ngwu

About The Author:

Let me cut to the chase... Precious Ngwu by name and really I don't think that I need much of an introduction here but for what it's worth, let me put up my little profile here.

I'm an 18 year old kid (just turned 18 on May 15, 2011) and a detonator affiliate marketer from Nigeria and I have been on the internet for 3 years since 2008 till now and I have dedicated most of time to studying, practicing and perfecting my SEO techniques

I have written few online marketing reports and have featured in some top notch videos in search engine optimization where I have exposed some core secrets on how you can test the edge of Google and have total domination over your competitors and the best stuff is that most of techniques are automated and can be easily and cheaply outsourced so you really get to do no serious work here.

My methods and steps are very extreme and it always scares the traditional affiliates but for those who are ready to control Google, what I do is exactly what they are always looking for and trust me... things are not really sitting well between me and some of my buddies cos they are feeling so betrayed that I'm exposing their #1 ranking secret edge to you (now, you will stand a fighting chance with them), they hate this.

Don't look at me...

I can't just make up something like that (if I was making it just for you to buy my course, I will just be putting it up on the sales page and not here)

I'm serious about it... this course will open up your eye to real SEO and by the time you must have finished it, you will definitely agree with me

So, relax and sit back cos I'm about to get you all jaw-dropped...

About This Course:

In this book, I have unveiled the core secrets behind building a successful autopilot affiliate site that will dump-found your competitors in less than 2 weeks and at best, you can start seeing results in less than 5 days (at least... I have gotten fast results like that a couple of times).

Seriously, between me and you... when was the last time you built a site that got ranked as #1 on Google for your keyword and making you the kind of money you want?

I guess the answer is NEVER and for some guys, they might have just gotten lucky once to see one of their 100 sites ranked at #9 for the keyword they are targeting and they are all feeling lucky and jumping up about it...

What if I told you that you just don't have to keep getting lucky, I mean how will you feel if I can actually give you a proven formula to getting consistent #1 ranking for each site you build starting today?

I know you can't even bet on that but before you go 50% down this course, you will start to believe me and worst case scenario you will get a first page ranking in 2 weeks after reading this course or ask for your refund

I'm not going to write 244 pages full of garbage and things that doesn't work but you have to promise me that you will forget about everything you think you know about dominating Google...

After all, they haven't even worked for you since those years you started using them, what makes you think they will work now...

Miracle?

It just doesn't work that way buddy; you gotta have something solid...

Introduction:

Hey... finally, let me tell you this “welcome to the Google Detonator course”.

I want to thank you for downloading this course, I’m very glad that you are about to read this book because you are going to discover every single lie the gurus have told you about search engine optimization and how you can start building your sites with authority.

Short story of my life: Funny enough that I’m going to start this paragraph like this “in January 2011, one of the most successful affiliate marketers from Singapore that I’m quite close to told me this on Skype... (Precious, do you even know that your success online was nothing short of against all odds)”

Here is why: In 2008 I got admission into the college to study my chosen carrier but I was flat broke and I didn’t even know what to do to keep up like buy some clothes at least, worst... I didn’t even have any minor job that I could do to earn few bucks like most people do but to cut long story short, I started online marketing as a 14 year old kid with less than $17 to my credit and worst of it all, Nigerians are banned on registering on some the major IM sites like clickbank, paypal and about 90% of the stuffs I wanted to earn from were not available to Nigerians.

But just after 3 years, here I am popping a black Cadillac, my wrist iced with a 7k time piece, comfortably around 20K a month with over 50 sites ranked #1 for the keyword I’m targeting and it’s just like everything I touch turns to gold, I mean I can literally build sites and start my count down on the day I will be ranked #1

It’s like a dream come true but they is a lesson to be learned “if a black kid who his country is rejected in about 90% of the places you can make money online could make it then you too can”

It's all about...

Mindset!

This is something that every successful person on the internet will tell you, it's obvious you know, if you want something you have to be focused and don't let anything side track you.

This is the biggest problems that most newbies face and that's the exact same reason, most of them will go on and on for years without making any money, they want to become a professional telemarketer online and just one day, he reads Ewen Chia's fast track cash and sees how you can money in article marketing then he jumps into it without even mastering telemarketing and just next month, he gets enough money to buy Brad Callen's SEO course then he will jump into SEO

You keep trying everything you see online, the result is that you will never master any of them and of course, you will never make any money.

You need to understand that to make money online, "focus" is everything.

I mean you can't just keep jumping around like that on the internet like a Catholic priest without a parish...

"Have you ever seen any college student studying medicine who switched over to civil engineering after 2 years and then again to business administration?"

The result is that you will never graduate nor have a profession just like that on the internet, you will never master the secrets of any niche nor make any money from it...

Worst case scenario, you will tell me that "time or money" is the problem, but from experience I have found out that neither time nor money is an obstacle that can stop someone from succeeding online.

Remember, I started out flat broke with less than $17 and also I have to attend lectures at the University while I try to get my shine on online...

The fact is that if something is really important to you and you are really focused to get it, time or money won't stop you “Tell me, have you every stopped using the bathroom just because you didn't have time?”

Ryan Smith (A real estate mogul) said...

“All of you who think that money is keeping you from becoming wealthy. Well, tomorrow I'll bring my checkbook. I'll write out a one million Dollar check to anyone who could bring me a profitable deal”

All that is stopping you is your own mindset and focus. You need a plan!

I'm afraid that I can't go on and on telling you about people that money or time never stopped from building their business empires

What of the New Orleans born rapper, Bryan Williams a.k.a Birdman. The CEO cash money records (YMCMB), he didn't start out on a platter of gold back in 1990 but today, that guy is driving some of the world costliest toys, wearing 1.5 million dollar iced wrist watches, 142k rings, 100 carat diamonds, private jets, yachts with multi-million dollar businesses here and there.

If you want to get your money right and big, you got to get your mindset right and have big focus first....

Most of you have created mindsets that help you live in fear of what Google will do to your site for every other backlink you get.

Well, I got news for you... this course is only useful to those who are ready to test the edge of Google, those who are really willing to go extreme in doing those things that you've been afraid to try, those stuffs that the gurus have warned you never to try.

Let's see if I can get you thinking right... how do you like these results?

Account Balance	$4773.00	Sales	211
Earnings this period	$3602.70
Earnings today	$122.30	Payout	$9120.00
Visitors sent today	213
Sales made today	9

Well, that's the results I get from using the GD system (Google Detonator), so even if you don't want to listen to me, I will advise you to listen to those results because I'm pretty sure you like them and will want to get them.

Clearly... that is an 18 year old kid doing around $20k per month (in exact, I make within $14 - 20K every month) using a complete autopilot system that pulls in free traffic in excess of over 1,000 visitors a day from Google.

Trust me... it doesn't get any better than this. Once you have a focus, a mindset and the GD system in your hands, every other thing becomes easy.

Getting Started

Warning: Google Detonator actually took me close to 6 months to finish, I started putting everything together in January and it's everything in my 3 years of Google ranking experience. My point here is that you may see some screenshots that are dated February, May, March and what not... it doesn't matter because my method works consistently and I'm still using it till now and bear in mind that I used my worst sites as examples here.

Now, let's get started...

Remember what I told you in the beginning...

The two things that are stopping you is neither money nor time

It's your mindset and focus that have been stopping all this while...

And I'm going to help you get rid of those fears the gurus have impacted in you only if you help me but if you think the name "Precious Ngwu" is not so popular to your ears so why they heck should you be listening to me...

Well, tell me how it's been working out for you all those years you've been listening to the big names in the industry, it's time to step up, think of this as a little bit of change

Or just call it "trying something new"

The truth is that I could care less of what you think right now as far as you start using my techniques to kick some butts after you've finished it.

Just keep thinking of getting consistent #1 ranking in less than 2 weeks for every new site you build, I think that should be enough to carry you on.

Side note: for the purpose of this course, I will advise you buy a brand new domain to try out my method so that you don't mix things up.

Remember, if you want to make money from SEO

“It's #1 or nothing else”

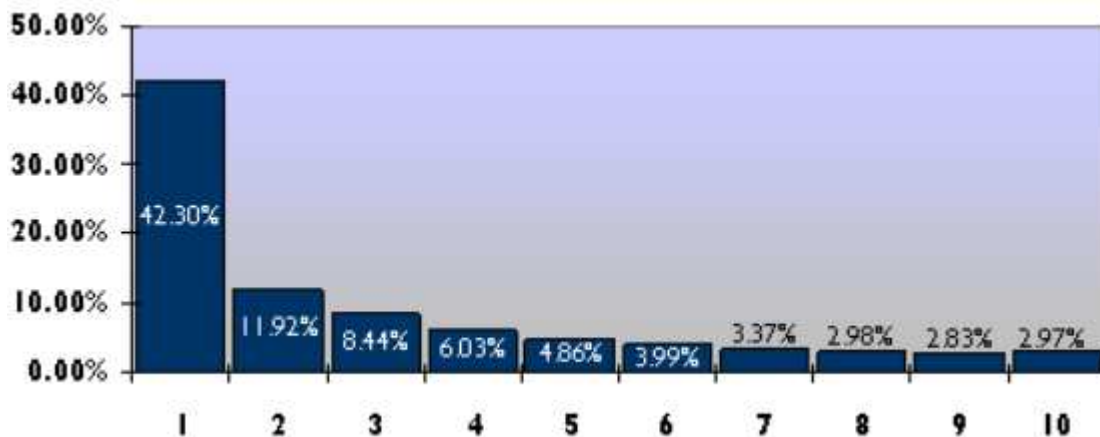

Yes, every other is crap...

In football, you are either the winner of South Africa 2010 world cup or not Really, the difference between #1 and everyone else is huge and trust me, if you build a site and you don't get this position, you will be kicking yourself later in the butt and asking why you wasted so much time

For those of you that think getting on the first page is just fine, it's not OK at all. Let me show the first page click-thru rate chart...

Click-thru rate for top 10 SERPs

You see, the #1 site gets 42.30% of the total search engine traffic of any keyword.

This means that if your keyword is getting 15,000 searches per month, the site ranked #1 will steal away 6,345 why the remaining 9 sites will be sharing 8,655 and at most the site ranked #2 will be getting 1,788.

C'mon... that's just like the icing on the cake and it gets even worse when you rank #3 or lower.

So, are you ready for such a disappointment or are you ready to get your shine on?

And don't forget, when you rank your newly built site #1, you will knock someone's site off the position and they are not happy about this so they will have to fight back. This is called competition so better get used to it cos it happens every now and then....

I know the gurus have told you that they is just about unlimited traffic and unlimited money for everybody on the internet

That's a fat lie

Here is what Mike Burngasser said about that...

"It's just another means of prepping you and getting you excited just long enough to buy the next great course that will finally make you rich"

That guy is on my top 10 list of one of the guys you should really listen to cos he is one of the few guys that will tell you the real truth about making money online even though he is not a millionaire or guru.

So, forget all those crap you've heard about unlimited money on the internet, they is less than 100 billion dollars flying around each year and the big guys like Google, Apple, Yahoo are already taking the big slices and just few hundred millions are left for over 50 million estimated online earners and the big guys are walking away with bigger slices like 10 million each year.

The truth is that they is just few hundred grand lying around for newbies each year and the earlier you realize that getting that #1 position is the only ticket to get listed on the wish list of people that will profit from the internet this year, the better and easier this is going get for you.

So... shit me not!

Really, you might not wanna hear this...

“Making money on the internet is not hard but it’s not as easy as you the gurus will always make you think”

Probably, you might have noticed it yourself too but you are just waiting for another guru to release some new automated software that will tell you that making money online is just in 3 clicks “Install – Configure – Activate”.

Tell me, when was the last time that those automated money machines released every now and then by the gurus actually made you serious money (just be sincere with yourself)

I guess NEVER

Boy, the money game is not Disney land where everybody wins, this is real and you have to work real hard to prove that you competitors are all losers before you can become a winner

But no matter how hard it is, it’s still far way better than sitting 8 hours in the office of a 40K job per year waiting for your boss to come yell at you.

Once you have that mindset and focus of becoming #1, the next thing is...

Pick your search engine right

And when it comes to search engines...

"You only have one choice. Google. Everything else is garbage"

Believe it or not, I could care less if Yahoo, Bing or AltaVista exists online and if you think I'm lying about this, go to Yahoo and Bing and search for the keywords I'm ranked #1 on Google for, you will see that my sites are hardly seen on the first page of their SERPs.

In fact, I don't even know how to get ranked in any other search engine other than Google.

"And yes, it's like the whole system is rigged"

Getting ranked on Yahoo or Bing have absolutely zero impact on the money you will make online so why waste your time.

As of 2010, Google dominates the search engine industry with 86% market share with over 1 million other search engines sharing the remaining 14% of the market share, I don't want to get into detail about this so if you want to know more about this then Google it.

So, if you've been jumping up that one of your sites is ranked #1 on Yahoo and you are still wondering why the site is not getting traffic or making any money then you will realize that you've been an idiot all those while.

So, the mindset and focus here is simple...

“Aim for #1 on Google or nothing else”

Seriously, forget about those your 1 million ways to make money online and those your 141 strategies to generate massive traffic to your website, they don't work, they have never worked and they will never work.

I've read several traffic generation courses online with 12 modules and wow! That's like 12 different ways to generate traffic and 12 different ways to make money online.

The truth is that they don't work... those courses are just about those guides that will lead you about 50% halfway and hang you out to dry while you are prepped for the next massive launch that will finally make you rich online.

Just to cut all these short and get right into the main deal, here is my secret...

“Pick one thing and do only that. Nothing else”

It could be...

- Search engine optimization

- Google adwords
- Online survey
- Facebook ads
- Fanpage marketing
- Youtube marketing
- Telemarketing
- Twitter marketing
- List building

It really doesn't even matter what you do, what matters is being expert in your own craft and this could even take years for you to completely master it and be a big time money mogul in the niche but it will make the whole idea of making money online a lot more easier and when you master your niche, the profit is endless, you will could have a lineup of people ready to pay you $5,000 each to have you talk in a 3 hour seminar just by sending out one single email or publishing one stupid video.

I can tell you that there is no branding bigger than this...

I think you now get the whole idea of being a god of your own world or if you still don't get it, you can walk right into the football field and tell C. Ronaldo, "hey man... bring it on, I'm good at 12 different sports". After being dribbled to fart by your age mate, I'm sure you will get the whole idea clearly.

Right now, I'm going to take you through the whole step of building your profitable Google detonator site. I want you to listen to my advice and watch my steps carefully and once again, for the purpose of this I want you to buy a brand new domain name so that it will stand out from all the other sites you've been building.

Picking Your Competition

Simply what you call picking keywords or products and whatever the heck you may call it, I choose to call it “picking your competition” because it makes me feel close to getting the results and kind of reminds me of what’s ahead of me for every other keyword or product I decide to target.

If you want to be very successful in picking keywords and well performing products, forget all the barriers the gurus have placed for you.

I know they’ve told you stuffs like...

Don’t target a keyword that is getting less than 3,000 searches a month and don’t target any keyword getting huge searches like 60,000 searches because you will never rank.

Don’t promote products that their gravity is not up to 30 or something like that...

Don’t target a keyword with more than 100,000 competing pages and 10,000 competitors in quote

Promote products that only payout at least 60% or $20 to affiliates

Only target buyer keywords

“All lies”

These crazy rules are just set up to stop you from testing online success. Well, good for us that like living on the edge. I know it’s crazy living on the edge but these rules are even crazier and trust me, they can go on and on until your head spins out of control

In 2008, when I was still listening to all those guru craps, I will ditch lectures and sit down for hours on the computer researching keywords that will match those criteria

I will sit up to 16 hours on the computer trying to find a perfect keyword that will fit into those rules and before I will get up soaking wet, my armpit smelling from sweats that dried off and here comes the knocker, one big acute headache hits me at the angle 90 of my skull and worst, this same thing goes on and on for days without finding any good keyword per se the gurus.

If you doubt me, I can get you one of my pictures those days, you will see how I looked like an old fart, sometimes... I will even cry and hate everybody around me like as if they were the cause of my problem but the irony of it all is that the gurus were actually the real cause of my problems

Don't get me wrong, they get most of their stuffs right but if you want to stick to their rules, you will definitely go crazy.

By the way, let me ask you a question...

What if you found a good keyword getting up to 15,000 monthly searches with low competition of 6,000 in quote and 38,000 in broad but the product you are targeting pays only 7% in commissions, what will you do?

I mean these rules are just too crazy and the truth, they are simply set up to stop you from succeeding but if you are ready to go over the edge and test the limit to see for yourself how the other world of internet profits looks like instead of waiting for a guru to tell you then we are on the same page and success is not far either way.

Let me prove to you how wrong they are...

Golden Rule #1: Only pick keywords that are around 3,000 – 12,000 monthly search a month.

Well, watch me go against this their #1 golden rule when I picked a keyword getting 90,000 searches per month (crazy, huh?)

Find keywords
Based on one or both of the following:

Word or phrase (one per line)
caralluma actives

Is it just me or are the gurus totally wrong about this one?

Ditch that their 3,000 searches per month fallacy, low volume of search doesn't necessary mean less number of tough competitors.

Golden Rule #2: Only pick products that their gravity is about 30

Well, you will get stuck at clickbank because of this rule and remind me again that if the gravity is not up 30, you won't get any commissions.

Unfortunately for the gurus, markethealth.com and moreniche.com care less about gravity the way I do. Worst case scenario, markethealth.com will label some of the products "hot", I bet some of the gurus are really pissed at the owners of that network.

The gurus will surely hate this one...

By the way, gravity only means the number of people promoting the product, it doesn't necessary mean the product converts well.

Golden Rule #3: If you target keywords that have up to 1 million competitors, you will never get ranked.

I can imagine many people getting pissed off right now but I don't really care about all those their massive SEO conspiracy cover up that has blinded you for years.

Boy, you need to open up your eyes...

Golden Rule #4: Only promote product that pay up to 60% or $20

Unfortunately for those internet daddies that set these rules, markethealth.com pays their affiliates 50% and even better $45 on flat CPA sales and worst, moreniche.com pays their affiliate 30% and some products there just pay only 15%

And by the way, did I even tell you that I'm an Amazon affiliate and over there, you get to be an 8 percenter as they pay their affiliates only 4 - 8% on sales and I make good money there. Most affiliates are earning 5 figure monthly passive income from Amazon.

Golden Rule #5: Only target buyer keywords

Come again please, could you define what you mean by “buyer keyword” to me?

If you want to check whether a keyword converts, then spare some green papers and send adwords traffic there.

Now, talk about the rules of exact match domain names, don't compete if you see Wikipedia there and all these crazy rules that only keep you from trying but don't get me wrong, you still need to know your limit.

Don't say that Precious said you should break all the guru's rules then you go and build www.sevenrivers.com to target keywords like wedding rings.

They are companies that own that keyword (limitless SEO budget) and they are willing to do anything it takes to keep it that way but if you try, I will see you swimming in the seven rivers you built, it will be like an endless competition and you will definitely get tired and drown in your own river and then you will realize “what a waste!”.

Don't let that happen to you, the worst thing that could happen to you is realizing that the time you spent online was a waste. Trust me, I know... 2008 was a waste for me too but I'm glad it happened to me and hope you learn the real truth from it.

Just so you know, there are some really bad products and bad keywords out there that when you pick them, they are just bad luck to business but I'm just telling you that there is no barrier or limit that you can't break as far as you have the real idea of what you are doing, it may only take time.

But you have to be sincere to yourself, that you see Brad Callen's site ranking #1 for “dog training” doesn't mean you can do it too, for one... you don't have the same SEO experience with him nor do you have same SEO budget with him.

By the way, you need to understand that search engine optimization is NOT exactly 100% free, it's a one-time investment. I know you've heard that organic listing is free which is quite true but it will be better to hire someone who will use xrumer to build you 50,000 forum profile backlinks cos doing it manually yourself can take years if you work 4 hours per day on it and it's really back-breaking and remember that less than 3% of those links are actually indexed, it's definitely not worth your time.

Talk about the videos, I'm not even handsome enough to make a muscle building video talk more of a beauty video so I prefer to outsource beautiful girls and hard ripped guys to get the job done.

So, if you are really ready to start getting consistent #1 ranking on each keyword you target, just get ready to spare few bucks and here is the sweetener, unlike before that I spend about $250 - $500 on SEO per site. I now spend less than 50 bucks and even get my rankings faster than before (See the link building detonator to see the trick that I personally use for building cheap links that gets me consistent #1 ranking).

But first, you need to learn how to pick your competition.

When it comes to picking my competition...

"I approach it in 2 different ways"

- Direct keyword approach
- Product focused approach

These 2 ways are just the 2 simple ways I use to find real good keywords that I use.

In the direct keyword approach, I just use the Google keyword tools and research till I find a good keyword I can dominate easily then I go through Amazon, Clickbank, Moreniche or Markethealth till I find a product that suites the keyword while in product focused approach, I do it the other way round, go to affiliate networks and find good performing product first then type in the name of the product into Google keyword tool and pick a keyword of that product that I can easily dominate and target it.

I have read a couple of courses that will teach you different ways to pick up keywords but the truth is that most of those keywords you will pick will have really low volume searches just like they will have extremely low competition, this is very common in the Yahoo Answers method of picking keywords and even the Compete.com method.

Don't get me wrong, the keywords are going to be good but the problem is that while they are still micro niche keywords for building Google Detonator sites they will be getting like 320 monthly searches, those who have used Yahoo answers or compete.com to find their keywords will know what I'm talking about.

Some people might otherwise call them "long tail keywords" but between me and you, they are not really worth setting up a site for but they are really great to use in writing new topics on your massive sites like if you are the owner of www.techcrunch.com or www.russiandigitals.com.

So, for the purpose of this course... just forget about those particular keywords and your methods of finding them or else you might be kicking yourself in the butt later.

"Understand that direct keyword and product focused approach of picking your competition are completely 2 different entities"

I mean why they may have few things in common, you don't approach them with same ideology or you may fail

All through 2009 – October 2010, I was using the direct keyword approach to pick my competition and when I find a good keyword then I will find a good product that will convert well for that keyword.

You can notice this in some of my sites, and they really perform very well but sometimes when you find good keywords, they might be no exact match products for them, like my site at puppy leash training sites, they was no exact match product on clickbank for leash training puppies. So, I had to start promoting a general dog training product with the site and later switched to selling dog leashes as Amazon affiliate on the site which converted far way better.

But that's not really the reason why I stopped using direct keyword approach to picking my competition.

The truth is that I found out it was harder to find quality keywords with low competition and it also takes time plus other stuffs that made me stop

“But luckily this time, I didn't break any golden rule... lol”

The problem is that direct keyword research is a little bit more complicated and trust me, if you are really looking to making money online easier then forget about it except if you have real idea of what you are doing in keyword research but as a newbie who is still trying to get his shit together, it will be easier for you to use product focused research to find low competition keywords that will convert very well.

Direct keyword research works very well but I always preferred all my games difficulty level to be on “easy mode” and I just do same thing as an affiliate.

“So, I chose the product focused approach as my way of picking my competitors and it's been a lot more easier for me ever since”

That's why you see consistent #1 rankings ;)

So, you want steady #1 spot every 2 weeks then follow my advice on this.

One secret of winning games in the casino is to never allow the games to pick you. You should be the one to pick the games, choose whom you are going to play with and choose the playing field, that's a recipe for winning.

And funny as it is, its same thing online, you pick the product, you pick the keywords to target and you pick whom your competitors are going to be and that's a recipe for winning the SEO game.

This is exactly what product focused approach of picking your competition does for you and that's why I chose it because with the other method, the rules will change and it will be the other way around

The affiliate SEO game just got easier boy, so smile ☺

And here is the icing...

I found out that if you use product focused approach to pick your competition, you will be able to pick extremely low volume keywords getting only about 1,000 local monthly searches that will convert and make more money compare to keywords you choose from the other method that is getting up to 6,000 local monthly searches.

At first, I couldn't figure out why but after sometime, I discovered that most keywords found on the direct keyword approach belong to a group of people who are searching for free information and might be turned to buyers later if you hired a great copywriter to write your articles.

But the keywords found on the product focused approach belong to a group of people who are already prepped buyers ;)

Isn't that freaking amazing?

I mean you wouldn't expect the conversion rate of la ink tattoos to be same with how to leash train a puppy

Nor would you think same of caralluma actives to getting rid of bad breath

In the product focused approach, your visitors already know about the products but may be sitting on the fence on whether to buy it or not and they are just looking for someone to say the word “I like this product, I have been using it and I highly recommend it” once you say it, they hit the order button immediately.

In other words, I call them already-prepped buyer.

“So, I guess the real question is:

Will you rather have visitors that you are going to spend hours teaching and trying to convince just to checkout one of the products you are promoting

OR

Would you prefer to have already-prepped buyers who are just waiting for you to say the word and they will hand you your due commission”

You see like I told you, to win in this game... you need to put yourself in a position where you will be the one to choose the game, chose whom your competitors are going to be and chose where you will play the game.

“You see, the whole system is RIGGED”

You are either winning or losing in this game (this is no Disney land).

How are you going to feel if I could show you something that would put money in your pocket and every now and then for life?

I bet you would date me if I was a girl, lol.

Well, you don't have to cos for 1, I'm a guy and for 2, I have the most beautiful girl in the world to my credit ;)

So... here it comes.

“How I pick products and keywords that gets me consistent #1 ranking and guarantees steady flow of money into my account”

Let me let you in on a tiny secret first...

Successful business moguls know ahead of time how much their business empire will be making them if they dominate their competitors.

And knowing how much you will make from each product before you start promoting it is just another recipe for winning the game.

The truth is that getting ranked #1 has a big difference from getting a steady flow of cash into your account.

“What if I told you there is a secret formula to knowing how much you will make from each product you are promoting?”

Well, don't sweat it cos that's exactly what I'm about to show you right now...

Side note: before you go any further, install and configure the SEOQuake add-on on your Mozilla Firefox browser (very important), click here to install it now.

First, let's go over to moreniche.com and pick a product.

Ok, we have the clearpores.

Now, I head over to Google keyword tool

(Always remember to use the exact match instead of broad match or use the 2 of them once and too, ignore that competition column, its total crap)

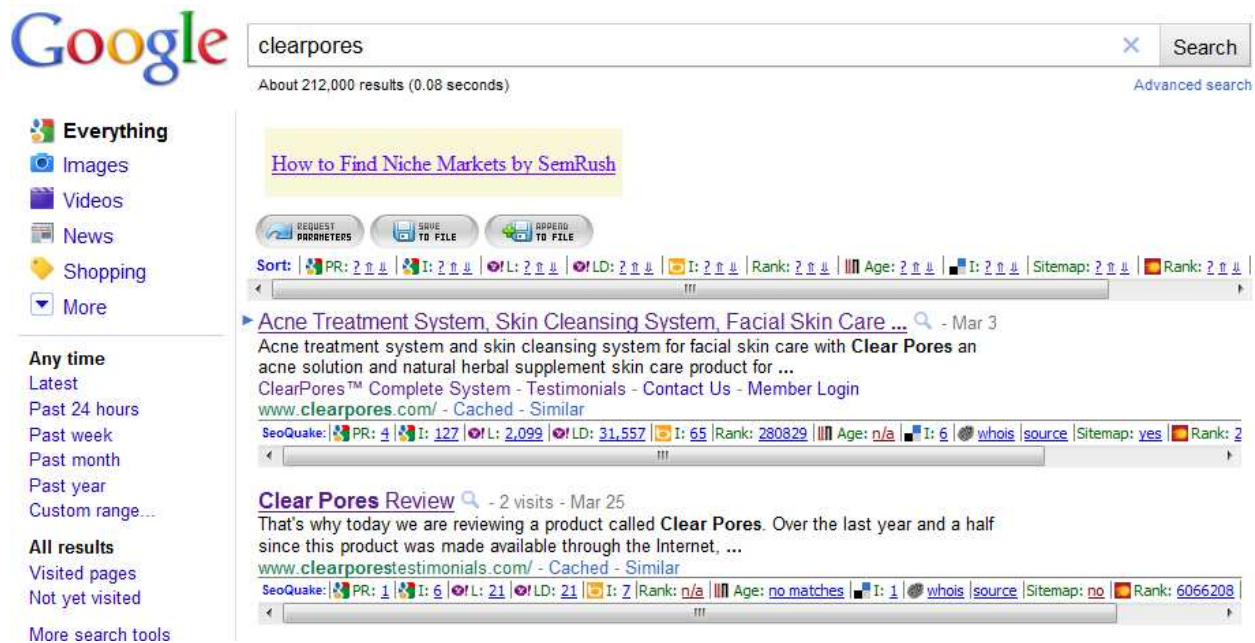

Always select "Exact", it will give the real amount of searches each keyword is getting

After staring at the keywords that popped out for several minutes, I will pick "clearpores" then I head over to Google.com and search for clearpores.

I could stare at Google results for hours trying to figure which of the position I could get for that keyword, I mean just with your marketing mind, you could easily dictate the power of sites ranking on the first page and know how many days it's going to take your outrank them and also which position you could be able to get but having SEOQuake add-on will cut down those few minutes and also make your guesses more absolute.

So... here is the return result for my keyword with SEOQuake analysis

Looking at the SERPs, I could rank #2 for that keyword.

Ok, I probably see which position I can dominate now...

The next thing will be to pull out my profit calculation table

Exact Local Monthly Search: 1900
Click-Through rate (#2 listing): 11.92%
Conversion rate: 2%
Commission per sale: $15

The money is in the numbers...

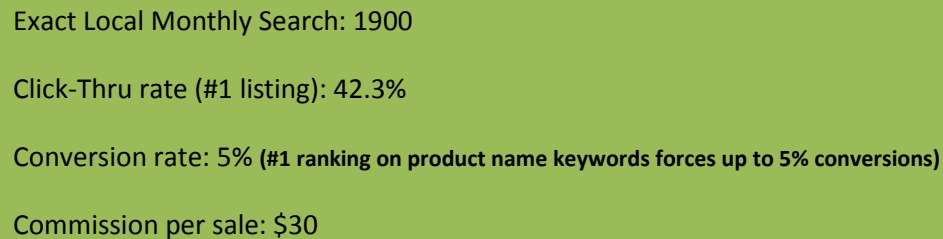

So, let's compute this stuff and see how much we will be making monthly

$1900 \times 0.1192 \times 0.02 \times 12 = \135.888 per month

Seriously, I can't retire on a 815.328 per year salary though you could build 300 sites like that and retire on a 150K per year salary but my advice, don't bet on that.

But if you could rank #1 for that same “clearpores” keyword.

Exact Local Monthly Search: 1900

Click-Thru rate (#1 listing): 42.3%

Conversion rate: 5% (#1 ranking on product name keywords forces up to 5% conversions)

Commission per sale: $30

$1900 \times 0.423 \times 0.05 \times 30 = \1205.55 per month

You see the big difference, when you rank #1, you make $1,205 and at #2, you make $135. I told you difference between #1 and others is huge.

But the problem is that I can't rank #1 for “clearpores” and it's obvious that ranking at #2 isn't going to make us rich except if I can find some LSI keywords that I will rank for too if not then I can either narrow down to a keyword like “clearpores review” or find another product.

“It's always good to know how much you will make ahead of time... that's being ahead of the game”

I told you, it's one of the recipes for winning the game.

Well, say we pick another keyword like “clearpores review”

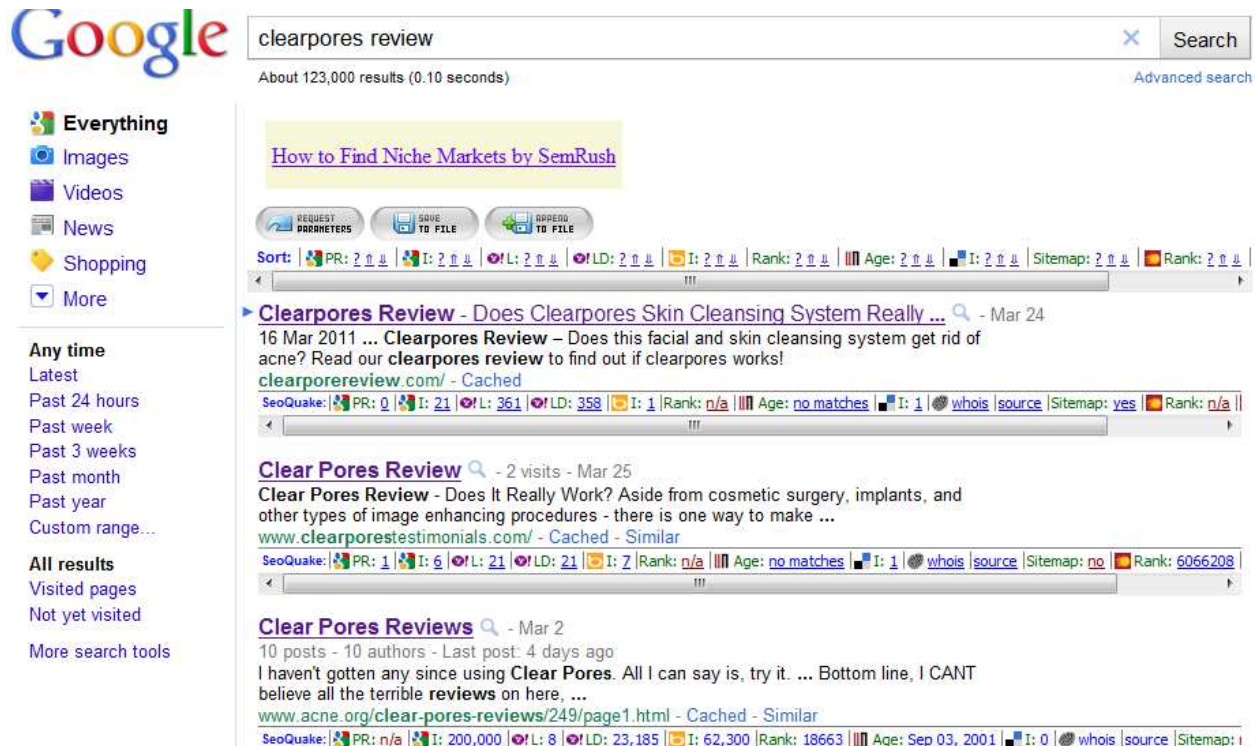

Put it into that Google keyword tool and see what turns out

After watching and seeing the monthly searches and the competitors on Google, I didn't even know what to think again

It's like every affiliate marketer was hovering around the keyword

And hand me that my SEOQuake tool again

Oh! I see they are afraid to go the limit I'm willing to go to secure that #1 position so that means I can comfortably nail the #1 position.

So, I pull up my profit calculator again...

Exact Local Monthly Search: 720

Click-Thru rate (#1 listing): 42.3%

Conversion rate: 5% (#1 listing forces up to 5% conversions)

Commission per sale: $30

$$720 \times 0.423 \times 0.05 \times 30 = $469.53 \text{ per month}$$

That's a fair amount of money to make from one site per month that will take you less than $50 to build.

And I can even comfortably retire building sites like that. But the question is can you keep that #1 position and what if your site is so ugly that your conversion rate drops to as low as 0.2%.

It happens, it has happened to me and this usually comes with the theme territory, your content, how you place your ads and more over how good the sales page of the product you are promoting.

These are some of the other micro variables you need to put into consideration when picking a product and when setting up your site and luckily for you, I'm just going to help you through that.

So, right before you pick your game (pick a product), you need to know if it's really worth your time.

How do you know this?

They are a lot of tools out there that claims to help you on this, if you are using market samurai, they will ask you to check the OCI of the keyword you've chosen and those on clickbank, they will ask you to use gravity and signup with some automated sites that will tell you whether a product is good to promote or not.

All those things are just going to make you crazy...

The only thing that will tell you whether a product is going to convert very well and bring in sales is YOU.

All the other stuffs are just garbage.

They are just some automated software built by someone with a whole different mindset to yours, does the software get into the minds of visitors to know whether they will buy or not?

Absolutely NO!

They are just crazy number variables and the longer you stick with them, the easier it will be for you to fail.

“Excuse me, but mindless searching is no market research”

The longer you depend on those toys, the longer you are going to stay online without making any money because they will always lead you to the wrong products and wrong keywords at the wrong time.

Here is what I do.

When I pick a product from an affiliate network, the first thing I do is visit the website of the product and after staring and reading that whole crack for endless minutes, I can be able to smile and say...

“Yes, this guy is going to make me money”

And I do this in any network I promote products on.

The reason is this...

I put myself in the shoes and the mindset of the buyer (which those toys you use can't do for you), I watch the images, videos, proofs and read every single thing on the site and if it sounds convincing enough for me to buy, I will know that someone out there who is in real need of this product will also buy it.

But if I go to the site and nothing sounds interesting, intriguing and above all, so capturing that I will want to hit that money button, why do I have to assume that another person will buy it and will it even do me any good wasting my time to promote it.

It's like a mind game, to succeed you need to get into the mindset of the buyers and know what they are thinking.

“But don’t get hung up on conversion rate, marketability value and don’t even expect to retire on one keyword”

If you get hung up on all the “what ifs” accompanying conversion rate and marketability value, your head is going to explode and you will end up starting up nothing this year because these “what ifs” can take you on and on for months without finding a keyword that will fit in perfectly into all the “what ifs” going on in your mind.

They are only 3 variables you should keep in your mind.

- Exact local monthly searches
- #1 ranking on Google
- Commission per sale

Once you build your business with these 3 recipes, you are already winning the game.

So, picking your competition, huh?

You do realize that search engine optimization is a game, right?

And you do realize that you need to pick only the games you can win, right?

So, how the heck will you even know the kind of game you are going to win?

Ok, I’m going to show you that in a split second.

You’ve installed and configured your SEOQuake add-on, right?

Remember that the number of websites competing for a particular keyword doesn’t matter (don’t pay attention to that crap).

What really matters is to know the SEO power of the sites ranked on the first page especially the site ranked as #1 for that keyword.

And you do this with the help of SEOQuake and SEO Spyglass which are free tools.

So, if I pick the keyword “clearpores review” (this was before I built my site on the keyword).

Go to Google.com and search for a keyword.

You see that SEQuake add-on below each of the sites appearing on the Google results.

SEOQuake gives you all the details

Note: "LD" means backlinks on that domain while "L" means backlinks on that page

The first thing I will check is the domain name, page rank and backlinks of the site ranked #1 and if after looking at it, I know that I can't beat it then I will forget that keyword and find another one immediately.

That is exactly what happened when I searched “clearpores”

The site ranked #1 was www.clearpores.com (the official site), with PR4, exact match domain name, domain aged since 2007 and over 32,000 backlinks and in just a split second I knew I couldn't outrank that site for the #1 position for “clearpores” then I dropped the keyword immediately.

I hate fighting battles that I know I won't win, I don't know about you.

Don't get me wrong, it's not that you can't outrank a PR4 site, a site with exact match domain with over 32,000 backlinks and 4 years of the big G's trust to their credit but coupled with the fact that it's the official site and targeted on that keyword too, it's obvious that winning such a war will be hard and you need to ask yourself if it's really worth it.

And from far away down here in Nigeria, I could smell something fishy and I know that these guys have been there for a long time and they are willing to do anything to keep it that way for life so why fight it?

With that site at #1, everything else didn't matter to me. I knew immediately that I had to find another keyword...

So, back to "clearpores review"

First focus your attention on the #1 and see the vulnerabilities the site (others are just minors), if the #1 is not strong enough then it's obvious that others are clearly not strong.

Let's get a close zoom view of the site ranking #1.

Page rank: it's easy for Matt Cutts to say on video that website page rank doesn't matter but it's not practically very easy to outrank a PR5 site on #1 except if the page is not exactly targeting the keyword. It's no news that a PR0 site is easily outranked compare to a PR3 site targeting same keyword, so take note of this though it might not really count sometimes cos I have outranked PR2, PR3 sites with my PR0 site in less than 5 days but this will depend on other variables.

Domain or page: www.clearporesreviews.com and www.articlebase.com/201942/clearpores.html doesn't have same power. The former will outrank the latter so take note of what the site ranked at #1 will have.

Keyword presence: "Clearpores review – find out if clearpores really works in our review" and "Find out Clear pores skin care works" doesn't have same power. The former will outrank the latter because it has the keyword in quote in the title of the site and same thing applies to the description.

Backlinks: This ranking factor seems to have the most potential effect. I will still explain it in the presence of SEO Spyglass (the lower the number of backlinks, the easier it will be to outrank it).

Just take time to run these numbers in your head before you begin so that you don't go into any competition blind.

Note: never forget to calculate your top 10 competition average PR

Start Building

I could go on and on like this throughout the next 50 something pages trying to tell you how to pick your competitions and picking only the ones you can win but the truth is that it won't just make it any easier if you don't start building...

You will get a whole better idea about the whole game once you start playing it (theories will just get you suckered up).

Once you use the product focused approach to pick your competition and you found a good keyword with low competition that you can rank #1 for, the next thing you should do is to go and get a domain name and preferably the exact match domain name for that keyword should be the best option.

But wait!

The problem is that sometimes the exact match domain name for the keyword might not be available, so will you drop such a pretty keyword because of that single reason?

Absolutely NO!

Well, Welcome to the Death of Exact Match Domains::: Cheating Google in Their Own Game

It can be so frustrating knowing the power that exact match domain possess in search engine ranking but not being able to tap into it because of that some losers have bought the domains before you.

I know this cos I have dropped some top notch keywords that could be easily making me over 1k per month because of this exact same problem until I found a way out.

Yes, I finally found a way out of this hell and cheat Google in their own game, isn't that amazing boy?

I call it "the death of exact match domain names"

I discovered this secret after throwing away so many good keywords just because I couldn't nail their exact match domain names even adding (-) didn't solve the problem.

So, one day... a revolution changed everything

I found a very good keyword getting 14,000 exact local monthly searches and I could rank #1 for that keyword in less than 14 days but all the exact match domain names have been taken even down to the .us, .tv, .co.uk and .info domain extensions.

And adding "-" to the keywords at different points possible couldn't solve the problem but I couldn't just let go of the keyword so I had to figure something out.

Yeehah! I removed one character from the keyword and the exact domain name was available and I went for it, finally... when I got ranked. I noticed that Google still gave me the credit due for exact match domains.

And ever since then, I have been using the trick.

Take a look at my site with the advantage

Caralluma actives - <http://carallumaactive.net>

I think you are getting the whole picture of what I'm talking about, so if you were targeting something like "how eztenzer works", you could use a domain like www.howezenzerwork.org and you will still get same exact match domain name advantage like others.

Set up the GD site

I bet you are already feeling like a winner right now but if you don't start building, you may not get any close to winning the competition.

Warning: It's going to get a bit more complicated from here on because once you get started the SEO clock will start ticking for your site. So, listen to every damn thing I will tell you right now.

To get started, install wordpress on your site using fantastico from your hosting cpanel. If you don't know how to install wordpress using fantastico on your cpanel then watch this video.

I could care less how you install your wordpress or the details you used but only 2 things matters to me and they are Your Site Title and Your Site Description.

Site title and description matters a lot in search engine optimization and once your site have failed on these 2 counts then your site have completely failed. So, you need to get them right to help focus your site in the right direction.

Site Title: the title tag is the highest weighted Onpage SEO factor and too, the title tag will show up in Google listing so you need to get it right not just for search engines but also for the visitors to increase click-thru rate.

There are 2 best options for getting your site title right and they are the: exact match title, front loaded title and branded title. Personally I go for the exact match title and front loaded title options and I have found them to be the best for the sake of search engine optimization.

Exact match title:

Keyword to rank for: leash training puppies

Site title: Leash Training Puppies

Front loaded title:

Keyword to rank for: caralluma actives

Site title: Caralluma actives – Does Caralluma Weight Loss Pill Work?

Remember that Google will take only 74 characters from your site title before cutting off the rest so you need to squeeze your title not to be longer than that but for SEO purposes, 60 characters is the recommended number of characters for site title so get used to it.

Site Description: the Meta description tag is just another strong Onpage SEO factor that you must consider seriously and once again, Google takes 160 characters before they cut off the remaining. So, whatever you are going to write to describe your site make sure that it's within the range of 160 characters.

Best way to format your description.

Just like in your site title, always start with the keyword in quote in front of every other thing, so learn how to get your priorities straight (it matters a lot if you are serious about winning the SEO game)

Example:

If you want to rank for: leash training puppies

A site description like this “I’m Ken Robs, an expert dog trainer and on this site, I’m going to teach how to start leash training your dogs and your puppies” won’t just cut it.

You might think it’s ok but when the competition gets tough, you are off the race man.

So, make a site description that will be started by your keywords and also in quotes too (its same secret that the site title uses too).

So, if I'm going for a keyword "leash training puppies"

A site description like "leash training puppies is a tough task but I will teach you how I do my dog leash training and how you can start leash training your puppies at home" will certainly get your priorities straight.

But sometimes when I'm thinking of writing a site title or site description that will start with my keywords and in quotes too, my head will start spinning out of control...

Trust me... I know how hard it can be to figure it out sometimes.

But I'm all about solving you SEO problems so I got a solution for ya...

You see the little trick?

I needed to come up with a unique site description but I can't just figure out how to use "caralluma actives" to start a unique description so I figured out a format to take care of it.

"Your keyword – the rest of the description here"

"In this game, your money comes first"

Back to getting your priorities straight

Be aware that "leash training puppies" and "leash training your puppies" are not the same. They are 2 different keywords even though they can serve LSIs to each other, be able to tell Google the one you are targeting by using it to start the title or description and in quotes too.

That is...

Don't give me something like

Clearpores Skin Care Review as a title when you are targeting “clearpores reviews”.

But these crazy SEO rules keep changing so much that anything can happen any day.

Once you get them right and installed... the SEO clock begins to tick!

Fire up your plugins

This is the first thing that you must do once you finish installing your site. I will give you a list of the top notch SEO plugins I use that help me get my consistent #1 ranking.

Plugins:

- All in One SEO
- MaxBlogPress Ping Optimizer
- SEO Pressor
- Google XML Sitemaps
- Robots.txt PC
- Gocodes
- Yawasp

All in One SEO Plugin: this plugin is one of the most important plugins you will come across in Onpage search engine optimization. In fact, it's always the first plugin I usually install just after I finish installing my site and best of it all is that it's free though there is always an option to upgrade to a premium version but I have been using the free version and it's been working out pretty well.

You might have heard of so many other plugins that do the same thing with all in one SEO especially the platinum SEO plugin which is like a direct competition to the all in one plugin and I bet they are really good too but my advice, just stick with this one (I can bet my next money on it).

Next, move to the configuration phase of the plugin

A screenshot of the All in One SEO configuration page. The page has a light gray background and contains several settings. At the top, 'Plugin Status' is set to 'Enabled' with a radio button. Below this, 'Home Title' is set to 'Leash Training Puppies' with a red text overlay 'Enter your Site Title'. 'Home Description' is set to 'Leash training puppies is a tough task but I will teach you how I do my dog leash training puppy at home' with a red text overlay 'Enter your site description'. 'Home Keywords (comma separated)' is set to 'leash training puppies, leash training puppy, leash train a puppy' with a red text overlay 'Enter your site main keyword and 2 - 3 LSI keywords'. 'Canonical URLs' and 'Rewrite Titles' are both checked with checkboxes. 'Post Title Format' is set to '%post_title% | %blog_title%'. 'Page Title Format' is set to '%page_title% | %blog_title%'. 'Category Title Format' is set to '%category_title% | %blog_title%'.

Plugin Status: ☒ Enabled ☐ Disabled

Home Title: Leash Training Puppies Enter your Site Title

Home Description: Leash training puppies is a tough task but I will teach you how I do my dog leash training puppy at home Enter your site description

Home Keywords (comma separated): leash training puppies, leash training puppy, leash train a puppy Enter your site main keyword and 2 - 3 LSI keywords

Canonical URLs: ☒

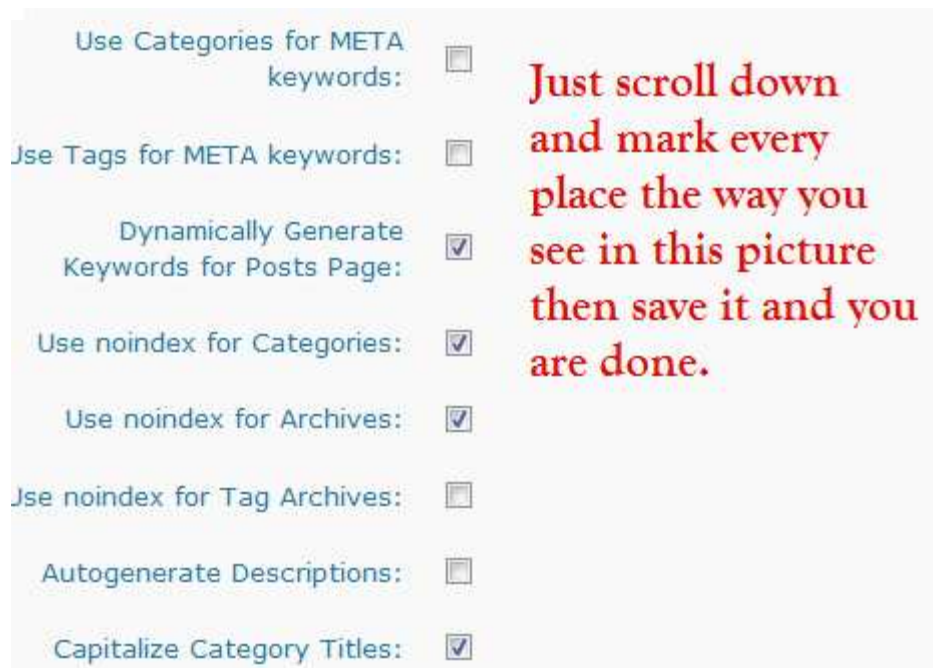

Rewrite Titles: ☒

Post Title Format: %post_title% | %blog_title%

Category Title Format: %category_title% | %blog_title%

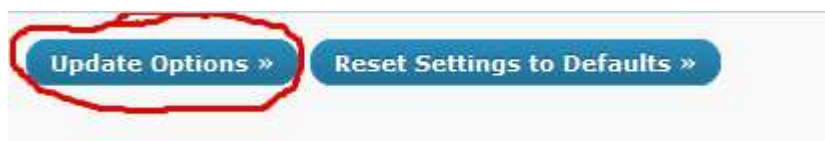

After this, scroll down and ignore every other place except the place I will show you in the screenshot below.

- Use Categories for META keywords: ☐
- Use Tags for META keywords: ☐
- Dynamically Generate Keywords for Posts Page: ☒
- Use noindex for Categories: ☒
- Use noindex for Archives: ☒
- Use noindex for Tag Archives: ☐
- Autogenerate Descriptions: ☐
- Capitalize Category Titles: ☒

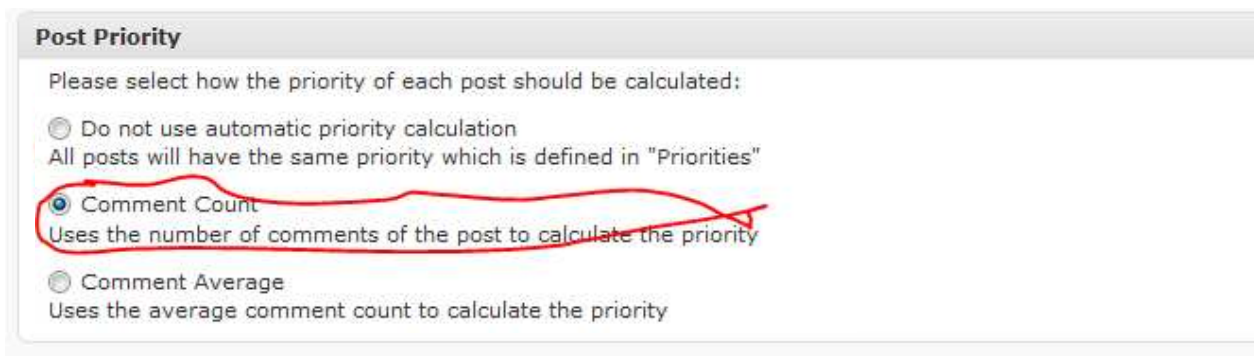

Then scroll down and hit the “update options” button and you are done.

Google XML Sitemaps: This is just another great search engine optimization plugin and I seriously love this one cos it saves me a ton of work in creating and updating xml sitemaps for all my sites, it should be the second thing you should install once you’ve got that your little monster up and running and it’s free too.

Next, scroll down until you reach the “post priority” section

After this, move down to the “sitemap content” section and check the boxes just as you see in the screenshot below

Sitemap Content

☒ Include homepage

☒ Include posts

☐ Include following pages of multi-page posts (Increases build time and memory usage!)

☒ Include static pages

☒ Include categories

☐ Include archives

☒ Include tag pages

☐ Include author pages

Further options:

☒ Include the last modification time.

This is highly recommended and helps the search engines to know when your content has changed. This option affects all sitemaps.

Then configure the “change frequencies” section as you see in the screenshot below (very important).

Change frequencies

Note: Please note that the value of this tag is considered a hint and information when making decisions, they may crawl pages marked "yearly" more frequently than that. It is also likely that crawlers will ignore unexpected changes to those pages.

Configuring this section the way you see it here will ensure that Google bot visits your site every single day and this will in return ensure a static #1 position and your website is crawled and cached every day.

Then finally configure the “post priorities” section then you save.

Priorities

- 1.0▼ Homepage
- 1.0▼ Posts (If auto calculation is disabled)
- 0.7▼ Minimum post priority (Even if auto calculation is enabled)
- 0.5▼ Static pages
- 0.3▼ Categories
- 0.3▼ Archives
- 0.3▼ Tag pages
- 0.7▼ Author pages

After configuring this section, you can hit the Update options button to save your settings

PC Robots.txt: many of you probably know it as just simply robots.txt, it really does a piece of work in optimizing your site for search engines and it works hand in hand with Google xml sitemaps (it's also free).

Gocodes: Tell me how you feel about links like this:

www.markethealth.com/MLK127JH. I bet they are really gross, right?

Well, guess what? That's not only to your visitors, search engines hate them too. You ever heard of search engine friendly urls? Well, that link is not even close to being friendly and so does every other affiliate link you paste on your website and although you might feel that since they are not pages on your site, they don't have any effect but they do both to your visitors and to the search engines.

And Gocodes is going to make it better by making you some better links that might look like this: <http://yoursite.com/getyour/freetrialnow>.

Now you configure your trigger. The trigger normally appears immediately after your site domain and you can use good CTR terms like recommends, buy, go, try, visit for this section and also select the “Nofollow” option.

A screenshot of the 'GoCodes Settings' form. The form has a title 'GoCodes Settings' with a wrench icon. It contains two main sections. The first section is 'URL Trigger' with a text input field containing the word 'recommends'. Below the input field is a description: 'Change the /go/ part of your redirects to something else. Enter'. The second section is 'Nofollow' with a checkbox labeled 'Nofollow GoCodes' which is checked. Below the checkbox is a description: 'Adds a nofollow into the redirection sequence.' At the bottom of the form is a 'Save settings' button.

To customize your links

Add GoCode

Redirection Key	<input type="text"/>
	The text after /go/ that triggers the redirect (e.g. yourblog.com/go/thekey/).
Target URL	<input type="text" value="http://"/>
	The URL you wish to redirect to. "http://" is required.
Count hits?	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> track the number of times this redirect is used.
<input type="button" value="Add Redirect"/>

Redirection key: this will appear after the trigger. For example, if I enter “golfexecutive” here then my new link will become:

www.mysite.com/recommends/golfexecutive.

Target URL: this is your actual affiliate link or the long link you are trying to shorten and make friendlier.

Count hits: select this option if you want Gocodes to count the number of people that clicked on your affiliate links.

Yawasp: It’s simply a free plugin for stopping spam bots and spam comments on your site just like akismet plugin too but I prefer to use this one and don’t ask me why cos I don’t even know.

SEO Pressor: this is a very powerful premium Onpage SEO plugin and if you are really serious about getting a content out there that will draw Google to your site then you seriously need this plugin. This plugin is the real stuff to weigh your SEO score for every other stuff you are pushing on your site, I mean as a search engine optimization expert, you can do a simple mind work and see if your content is ready to grab the big G’s attention for #1 position but it’s not bad to have someone that will be more accurate. I highly recommend that you get this plugin installed on your site. If you don’t have it, click here to buy it (it’s very powerful).

I will show you how to use it when we get to writing contents for your site.

MaxBlogPress Ping Optimizer: A great premium search engine optimization plugin that prevents excessive pinging on your site otherwise known as ping spamming which is a serious SEO offence and considered black-hat. It also pings your site and its contents when appropriate. Click here to you install the plugin on your site.

In the section below, enter your ping list which is the list of ping servers it should update once you update your site, I attached my private ping list (Private Ping List) together with this course.

“Done with those? C’mon... let’s get friendlier here”

Not just to the big G but also to the guys that are going to help us get a fat check at the end of the month

See... if I wanted to visit back your site, I wouldn’t remember this www.yoursite.com/mysites/2011/07/03/p27 the way I will remember www.yoursite.com/my-site-contents.

It’s not just easy to memorize but it’s also cool.

But that's really not the reason...

The plain fact is that the link structure of wordpress is not search engine friendly, you need to be able to customize your link in such a way that once Google sees it, it will be able to dictate what your site or page is about.

I mean a link like www.preciousngwu.com/weight-loss-pills could easily say out loud that this page is for weight loss pills compare to how www.preciousngwu.com/p128 will say it.

You get what I mean?

You need to customize your link structure to fit.

And you do that through the permalinks section, let me show you how.

When the permalinks section opens, just select the "Custom structure" option and enter `"/ %postname%/"` in the box just as you see in the screenshot below then save.

Permalink Settings

By default WordPress uses web URLs which have question marks and lots of numbers in them, however permalinks and archives. This can improve the aesthetics, usability, and forward-compatibility of your links.

Common settings

☐ Default

☐ Day and name

☐ Numeric

☒ Custom Structure

Don't Steal
my Niches.
Find Your Own... lol

Above all, avoid "Siloing"

Siloing, I believe is one of the stupidest move you will ever make in SEO, it won't lead you anywhere in SERPs other than failure

The idea of siloing is just as stupid as it sounds, so stop siloing your website, always stick to `"/%postname%/"` permalinks custom structure for your site instead of using some other stupid custom structures like `"/%category%/ %postname%/"` and the rest of those stupid link structures.

The craziest thing about all this is that if you ask one of those guys doing this who feels they know the A - Z of SEO why they are siloing their site this way...

Do you know what they will answer?

It's obvious, here it comes... "So that Google doesn't penalize you for not putting the article in the right category"

Trust me, those guys that will tell you this doesn't get consistent #1 ranking on Google the way I do (I know it and they know it).

If Google penalizes sites for not siloing, thousands of sites will be dead by now

Tell me... does Google penalize Techcrunch.com or Ezinearticles.com for not putting their articles in the right categories?

I bet Ezinearticles.com should be dead by now because of links like this:
<http://ezinearticles.com/?Dont-Make-These-Common-Internet-Marketing-Mistakes>

But they are not...

Google can't actually quantify whether topics is related and they can't know what your site is talking about except if you tell them. So, why waste a lot of time you could have used to convince Google to rank you #1 for a specific term in siloing?

And the cool thing is that all these problems can be solved once you use the “/%postname%/%” custom structure.

So, you can now have straight search engine optimized links like this:

<http://laintattoos.net/best-la-ink-tattoos-for-hot-girls/>

Once Google sees this link, they will understand one thing;

This are article is talking about “best la ink tattoos for hot girls”

Instead of wasting time stupid siloing only to end up with some cooked shit that looks like this...

<http://laintattoos.net/best-tattoos/girls/best-la-ink-tattoos-for-hot-girls/>

This will even make it harder for Google to get to the root of your article before deciding on what to rank you for

And it gets even worse when you have something like this...

<http://laintattoos.net/2011/03/girls/best-la-ink-tattoos-for-hot-girls>

So, avoid this entire link siloing crap.

The end game: it will take you longer time to rank.

“Remember this, if you make things easier for Google in return, they will also make ranking easier for you”

So, just keep everything simple and cool.

Before, I go further in this course... let me treat a rather pressing topic that most search engine optimizers ask.

Your Website URL and 301 Redirects

Do you believe that...?

<http://laintattoos.net>

<http://www.laintattoos.net>

Are all same websites in making but considered as 2 different websites in search engines?

Believe it or not, man that's the drill and that stuff will screw you big time if you are not careful (at least, it happened to me once or twice)

And it gets even worse when I tell you that...

<http://laintattoos.net> and <http://laintattoos.net/> are not same or <http://www.laintattoos.net> and <http://www.laintattoos.net> are not same too.

I know you could easily say you agree in the first section because the other has “www” while the other one has no “www” but the in the second section, you are stuck at figuring out the big difference, huh?

That trailing slash in front of one of them is the big difference.

But the funny thing is that each of those links you click will lead you same website but to Google, they are not same.

Why so?

Relax hommie, I don't even know why myself, I just know that it's like that and by the way, that's not even the big question...

Coz the real big question is....

"Where have you been sending all those links?"

I want to make the answer really very simple here, so don't ask me much questions about this place cos it's not my turn-on either.

When you build a site and you have some www.preciousngwu.com

Sometimes, people might link to <http://preciousngwu.com>, another time to <http://www.preciousngwu.com>, another time to <http://preciousngwu.com/> and just like that.

And just splitting your links into 4 places "real bad"

Worse yet!

You could be murdering your site slowly by linking to different versions of your site yourself.

I know this because it has happened to me in one of my sites:

<http://sixpacksinsixweeks.com> (one my failed site).

I purchased 7 different backlink packages from different companies and in some, I gave them <http://sixpacksinsixweeks.com>, some <http://www.sixpacksinsixweeks.com> and worse, I even gave out those with trailing hash.

When they delivered and I waited for a month and I didn't even see up to 20 links in a 30 something thousand backlinks I purchased then I started checking up stuffs to know why.

Then I discovered the worst.

The story: I went back to Google keyword tool to know the search volume of this keyword and calculate my expected profits to know if it will still be economical to buy more backlinks.

I discovered that I've been wasting my time all along...

What a knocker?

Here is why, I realized that before I built the site that I didn't even check the "exact match" search volume of the keyword to know the real value of what I'm expecting and when I did, it was.... just forget it cos it sucks ☹

I hate losing man...

The screenshot shows the Google Keyword Planner interface. The search term 'six packs in six weeks' is entered. The results table shows a massive discrepancy between global and local search volume.

Keyword	Competition	Global Monthly Searches	Local Monthly Searches
six packs in six weeks	Low	12,100	6,600
[six packs in six weeks]	Low	140	-

Red handwritten text and arrows highlight the discrepancy:

- Red text: "Seen what I mean, before you target any keyword... always get the 'exact match' and compare to be sure of what you are doing."
- Red arrows point from the text to the 'Global Monthly Searches' and 'Local Monthly Searches' columns.
- Red text below the table: "The exact value of this keyword is a fat mess"

I just sighed and dumped the site cos it wasn't even worth my time but any day I have time to waste, I might go check out the site and see if I can rank it for another keyword but God knows when.

Just forget that stupid site; let's get this 301 redirect done here hommie.

So, how do you avoid your links from being sent to different places or worse, get penalized for duplicate pages.

Simple, we will redirect all our links to one version and when it comes to that, I always preferred to redirect my links to the <http://leashtrainingpuppies.org/> and <http://laintattoos.net/> version of my site because of 2 reasons.

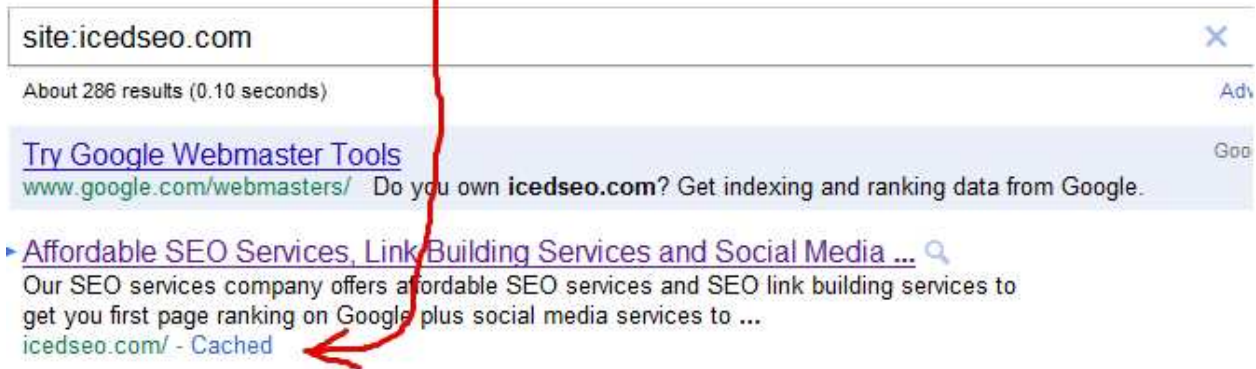

1. If you use fantastico to install your site, it will only work this way. Everything else won't work.
2. It's the new turn on for search engines, once Google indexes your site whether you've redirected it or not, they will always pick that version of your site.

And if you think that it happened like this because the site is wordpress and installed with fantastico then I've got the real eye opener for you

My new SEO company's website. Full traditional HTML site. Not yet redirected.

So, are you getting the vibes?

Crazy thing, sometimes Google might even be merciful to redirect it for you but I wouldn't count on that.

So, just do it yourself.

Redirect the WWW to Non-WWW version with the trailing slash

You can do this by telling Google which one to rank you for

Google Webmaster Central Canonicalization Description

Google Webmaster Tools Preferred Domain Help

Then add this code in your .htaccess file to make it work.

Options +FollowSymLinks

RewriteEngine On

RewriteCond %{HTTP_HOST} ^www\.(.+)$ [NC]

RewriteRule ^(.*)$ http://%1/$1 [R=301,L]

Always save a copy of your original .htaccess file before fiddling with it.

After you are done with this, you can rest up a few minutes

But remember about that SEO clock that is ticking on your site, I think it's still on.

So, don't rest just yet... you need to give Google something to chew on and think about while you go back to rest and get the weapons you will use to send your enemies to hell ready.

I mean just give them something worthwhile why you prepare for the main competition ahead, Google appreciates this much and they often repay this favor with a #1 ranking.

So, what will you give them...?

It's just 3 things and Google will start having a crush on you

Have you ever experienced Google's crush?

I mean these guys will be totally insane and obsessed with your site, that's what every SEO guy out there prays for but only a few of them will ever have the mercy of getting it in one out of their hundred sites.

But what if I told you, I have a formula to get consistent Google crush on all your sites?

Well, don't sweat it cos that's exactly what I'm about to show you right now boy.

Man, Google couldn't be so cheap. I never even thought they were so easy to get.

Here is the check list of the 3 things to do...

- Get your very first stupid content out there just for indexing
- Webmasters master Google
- Then get indexed and get huge in one night.

Your first stupid content: This stuff is very important so that once your site starts indexing, the first content Google will cache will be targeted on your keyword and this gives them something to think about while you prepare. Here is an example at <http://bad-breathremedies.com>, one of my sites that I am planning to rank in mouth hygiene niche (smile & talk in confidence).

This content is mainly search engine focused and not necessary to convert visitors and it's really very short just within 50 – 200 words is ok, you can even include affiliate link here especially if it's a product review site.

Just change that first “Hello world” post from wordpress and replace it with this or delete it and post a whole new one.

Here is just how you write it your first stupid content...

Side note: in this very stupid content that you are just putting out for ranking, don't use the main keyword you are targeting as the title of the post because you will need it in making one of your major posts but make sure that the keyword is included fully in the title.

Finally, it will look like this...

Clearpores Review Coming Soon!

March 3, 2011 by Julia Fonn

Hi guys, thanks for checking out my clearpores review site, my name is Julia from Beverly Hills, Los Angeles. I have used so many other skin cleansing and acne treatment product but when I stumbled on the clearpores in a media advert, I was kind of reluctant to try it because it promised so much that I was afraid it won't live up it's promise and I didn't want to apply anything that would damage my face.

But when my friend Mike told me about the success of the skin cleansing product with his wife, I decided to give it a try using their 90 day free trial and after about 3 weeks of using clearpores, I saw a massive improvement on my skin and all the acne blemishes on my face started disappearing, I was so pleased with the product that I decided to setup a site and tell my friends about it.

So, please visit back soon and in my clearpores review, I will show you how I totally got rid acne within few weeks, for the mean time.... you can also take advantage of the clearpores 90 day risk free guarantee and try the product.

A LITTLE ABOUT ME

Hi, my name is Julia Fonn but just call me Julia. I live in downtown in Los Angeles. I do modeling for magazines and

“In case you are still wondering what to write on your first stupid post, I think I have just written it for you”

Just look at the 2 screenshots, I hope you can see the contents clearly and you know the one that best defines the type of detonator site you are building then just copy the contents and use it on your site.

You can tweak it a little bit to suite you and also make your own content 100% unique which is important too but if you already have your first original content for the site then just post it ins.

Ok, once you are done with this, you should move over to the second step.

Webmaster Google: this is not really a must do cos once your site is well optimized Google will pick it up but remember what I told you earlier that if you make work easier for Google they will also return the favor by making ranking easier for you.

So, try to make work easier for them by adding your site to their database instead of waiting for them to come and pick it up themselves.

First, go to <http://www.google.com/addurl/?continue=/addurl>

URL: Enter your website

Comments: Enter your main keyword

Optional: To help us distinguish between sites submitted by individuals and type the squiggly letters shown here into the box below.

honi

Enter the verify code

Add URL Then hit this button

After that, go to the Google webmaster tools at <https://www.google.com/webmasters/tools>

If you don't know how to add your website to Google webmaster tools, watch this video here or read this article here.

Once you've added your website and verified it in the Google webmaster tools, the next step to take which will make sure that all your contents are indexed, crawled and cached thoroughly is to add your website sitemap.

If you don't know how to add your website sitemap to Google then watch this video here or read this article here.

Once you are done with this, you will now move to the last step that will get Google really obsessed with your site.

Get indexed and huge tonight: I'm sure you've heard of link popularity a couple times if not every time you here about ranking in Google. Link popularity is one of the major search engine optimization steps that will ensure you secure the #1 position easily.

Understand that link popularity is not exactly same as backlinks, while popularity won't be accorded as vote of backlinks to your site they ensure an improved SERP ranking by telling Google how huge your site is.

If you want your website to be indexed fast, trusted and respected in search engines, you need to increase your link popularity and like I said earlier, it's not exactly getting backlinks, instead you get links from high PR trusted sites. When your site is submitted to them, they will create a statistics page with your site details and link back to your site. Some of those sites include cubestat, websitecalculator, alexa and a lot more, they are easily referred to as whois sites and statistic sites.

Submitting your websites to them will ultimately increase your link popularity and Google addiction overnight on your site, they are really good and you should use it more often.

I use a major service on Fiverr to increase my website's link popularity massively by submitting to over 40,000 whois sites, the service is very good and I recommend the seller, the seller will also give a little onpage SEO run down of your site which I find helping sometimes, check out the gig here: http://www.fiverr.com/users/backlinks_gigs/get-you-34000-backlinks.

If you want to use free services which I really don't recommend since I don't use them myself, you can check this one's out:

Submit your site to 2,500 whois sites

Submit your site to 800 whois sites

But the truth, I rather spend 5 bucks to get results that I'm really sure about.

"Now... you can take a break cos we are going to move to a tougher battle now and you need to be seriously prepared"

Your Contents and Your Money

Everything we've done in the "Start Building" section was all for this and whether you are going to rank and make money or not totally depends on what you do to your site from this very start.

So, you need to be really careful.

Because while Offpage SEO maybe limitless and whatever you do might not affect your ranking or money, Onpage SEO is highly limited and anything you do directly affects your ranking and money either positively or negatively.

So be careful...

It just can't be any more obvious

I mean you can't set your house on fire, you can be a bad guy outside but in-house, you've got to be a good guy or daddy will disown you (poof and Google will do you 20 to life).

Does these words "ban or sandbox" sound familiar?

Well, that's what you get when you don't play this part right.

But don't let those 2 words stop you from testing the limit of Google cos you need to squeeze out everything you can from the onpage SEO with your contents and the strategy you use in setting up your detonator site.

"First things first.... Lighten up the house let them know the owner of the house is back and ready to rock and roll"

Be totally blunt about this...

Just theme up everything with a simple, clean and high click-thru rate theme that is 100% search engine friendly

You see what I mean, because Onpage optimization is very limited, you can't afford to spare anything. You must squeeze out everything you can and very important, always get it right the first time.

They are tens of thousands to hundreds of thousands of different themes available in wordpress but believe it or not, less than 1,000 of them are developed with search engine optimization and high click-thru rate in mind.

You might think 1,000 is a big number that you could easily locate every other beautiful theme that will have high a click-thru rate and search engine optimized but it's not really easy.

The reason why I don't use those beautiful and ultra-sexy premium wordpress themes you could easily get for $97 is because they come with tons of flashes, heavy images and designs which is the reason why they take time to load and this is bad for my search engine optimization, I have always told you that making things easy for Google is great.

The second reason is because they are very complicated with a lot of widgets and designs, my visitor will be sold on those instead of seeing my affiliate links plainly and this reduces click-thru rate (bad for my money).

You need a theme that will easily load (Google loves this one) with a plain and clean layout so that your visitors can easily see the holes where they will drop your money for you. So, forget about all those complicated stuffs and just keep everything very simple and clean.

This is why I use the new default wordpress theme in about 30% of my sites, it loads very fast (not heavy and 100% search engine optimized), it's plain and clean and your money is easily located, please don't make it complicated for someone to give you money, make it completely hassle free and this theme does exactly that for you, tweaking that default theme can easily get 1 out of 10 people to give you money, I mean forcing your conversion rate in excess of 10% (I am currently experiencing this with some of my sites) but on average, I get about 3 – 7% conversion.

So, my advice is stick with this theme except if you have something better and don't mind the header image too, I'm not a designer myself... I just put up something together that will define my site and upload it there.

Just check <http://laintattoos.net/>

I mean isn't that my header image ridiculous?

I just brought 2 tattoo images together, captured it and uploaded it (really, it's nothing you can't do)

But I'm currently enjoying a very high conversion rate from that site than I enjoy from some of my other sites that are beautiful (I'm talking about over the roof conversions in excess 7.3%).

Other themes that I use every time and highly recommend is the Green Part 2 theme by Cordobo (free) and Studio Press Genesis themes (paid).

So, just keep it simple, clean and make sure that it's easy to locate your money (your affiliate links).

You can just keep using those themes for now until you understand more about how your theme affects you search engine ranking and click-thru rate then you can start using other themes.

Organize your home

I don't care what they've taught you in your college or at IMA but here is the holy truth, if you want to cap that #1 position and pull in high conversion rate, you've got to get the theme properly organized

Only that this time, it won't be the normal home declutter instead it will be money clutter, how ironic?

Naturally, if you are using the wordpress default theme, your site's sidebar will look awfully like this.

Man, you need to get rid of those craps and clutter that space with your money and you should also know how to do it right to pull in money.

You know the way you rearrange and remove anything that will keep your house in the market for too long without selling (you want it to sell out fast, right?)

Its same thing here...

Get rid of everything that won't make you money and arrange it in such a way that it pulls in profits from the day 1 it hits Google.

But the problem is that if you get your sidebar arrangement wrong especially the upper part, it pulls down conversation and really, it's not good to lose even 0.1% in conversion cos it means a lot so you need to find a stable formula for arranging your sidebar so that your site pulls in consistent profits.

And what if I told you I have the formula?

Well, don't sweat it cos that's what I'm here for hommie.

I have 2 formulas for getting this done the right way.

Formula 1: For product review sites.

- Product banner
- About me (with a picture preferably)
- Banner ad
- Youtube Video
- Recent Posts
- Pages
- Tags
- Any other crap I want to include.

See <http://carallumaactive.net/> to see what I mean

Arrange your sidebar cleanly in this formula and conversions will be over the roof.

Formula 2: For sites based on keywords

- About me (with a picture preferably)
- Product ad
- Recent Posts
- Categories
- Youtube Video
- Product ad
- Pages
- Tags
- Any other crap I want to include

See <http://laintattoos.net/> to see what I mean.

Over the roof conversions are just seconds away once you've done this.

About me: it's very important that you have this cos it gives your visitors a sense of communication, the few things to note is just always add a picture (stock or real), include your keywords in that short keynote because Google counts it too in the overall relevance of your site and don't make it boring, just keep it short, simple and sweet.

Youtube video: this is another piece of work, I have been using videos since September 2010 to move some of my sites stuck at a particular position for higher rankings like when my <http://leashtrainingpuppies.org/> was stuck at #3 position for my keyword, I squeezed every damn onpage SEO juice I can and bought more backlinks but the site was still stuck at #3 then I finally optimized and a youtube video and in less than a week, it moved straight to #1 and have been there ever since.

I also did other testing's that quantifies that optimizing youtube videos into your site improves your search engine ranking immensely and the gurus will even agree with me this.

Basically, I often include a video in one of my posts but if I can't do that, I will just drop it at the sidebar and sometimes, I will just do both like in my caralluma actives review site where you will see a video in my second post and also at the sidebar.

But here is the main drill...

If it's not your video, it won't improve your search engine rankings.

You might have not noticed this but I have used a lot of my stray sites to test this and I'm correct about it.

The reason is this...

The video needs to link to you and you need to link to the video too.

One, it must be your own video for you to be able to add your link in the description to link to your site and the actual link where the video is found on your site if you are going to use it in a particular page or post but if it's just only on your sidebar then linking the video to your site only is ok.

So, you need to create a video of just about 1 – 3 minutes and you have to make sure it's not some garbage video from an auto video bot, it seems like youtube and Google recognizes those as low quality video, to be on the safe side, always use a human made video, I mean a video made by a life person weather with a camcorder or video recorder software on your PC.

You could easily do it yourself with your HD cam, webcam or outsource it with someone else.

Me myself, I'm a fan of the $5 videos since I don't really use them to sell anything, it's just for my onpage SEO, they are ok to do this kind of stuffs, I often use this seller for making most of my videos, she delivers on time, follows the script, adds good tweak to make the video look natural and also has a good customer service.

They are a lot of video professionals you can outsource your videos with both at elance, warrior forum and other places.

So, when you have your video, create a youtube account if you don't have one then upload the video.

Configure the titles, tags and in the description... add the link to your site and if you will publish the video as a post or page on your site, also add the link to the post or page in the description.

The image shows the YouTube 'Video File Upload' interface. A red arrow points from the top annotation to the 'Title' field. A yellow highlight covers the 'Description' field with a red arrow pointing to it from the second annotation. Another yellow highlight covers the 'Tags' field with a red arrow pointing to it from the third annotation. A red arrow points from the fourth annotation to the 'Category' dropdown menu. A red circle highlights the 'Privacy' section, which includes radio buttons for 'Public', 'Unlisted', and 'Private'. The 'Save changes' button is also visible.

After you are done, go to your site or wherever you published the video on, just add a simple text like this "click here to watch this leash training puppies on youtube" if your site is talking about leash training puppies.

Probably, you might not even need to do all this if you get your #1 ranking on time but I always advice it for sites since it gives them an edge in their search engine optimization and eases their ranking on Google and I also recommend this process to sites that are stuck at a particular position other than #1 but the ultimate, just make your ranking easier and do it in time especially if it's those $5 that won't convert really well, you don't want to be to be on the forefront of your sites.

Establish legitimacy and Google love

Once you are done tidying up your site's sidebar, the next thing you should quickly take care of are the pages on your detonator site.

I always preferred doing it this way, my theme... my widgets... my pages... then finally my posts and it has always worked out for me.

Here is what I want you to have in mind, this pages you are going to create is not really going to making you money but they are very necessary for SEO, so when you are creating them you should have Google in mind but the funny thing is that you really don't need to optimize them, I mean why you might utilize them in your SEO by adding your keywords a few times in the contents of the pages, don't struggle to score 90% SEO score.

In fact, just damn search engine optimization, just make sure you add your keywords in the contents like 2 – 3 times then add optimized pictures where necessary because these pages will just add a tweak in your SEO efforts while the major reason is to establish legitimacy on your site with the rules guiding affiliates on the internet.

These pages include: about, contact us, disclaimer and privacy policy.

All these pages will take you less than 20 minutes to create and publish because you literally don't have to write anything, the contents are already written for you and they are standard static rules especially the disclaimer and the privacy policy page and Google won't penalize for any duplicate content and moreover, when you add your keywords and site name in the contents of the pages, they will make it unique so you won't have anything to worry about.

Privacy policy: just copy this one on my site at <http://carallumaactive.net/privacy-policy>, look at the contents carefully to see where my keywords and site link is inserted in the content so that you can change to yours.

Contact us: well, this one is pretty much same thing, once you change your email address, links and the keywords in the content then the whole page is yours, just copy it here: <http://carallumaactive.net/contact-us>.

Disclaimer: this is one is a little bit tricky, it's a standard static rule too but they is a little difference on the contents to use on site promoting a digital product and a site promoting a physical product. The change is really so small that you will hardly notice it but if you look deep, you will see it. If your site is promoting a digital product then use the disclaimer note found here <http://lainktattoos.net/disclaimer> but if your site is promoting a physical product then use <http://carallumaactive.net/disclaimer>.

About: Ok, here is the really tricky one. You need real tweaking here and write it in such a way that it will satisfy your visitors too cos I found out through analytics that about an average of 13% of my daily visitors check out my about me page. I mean if my site gets 1,000 visitors, about 130 of them will visit my about me page.

I don't know about you but I have checked this through all my sites and it's just same why my other pages like the disclaimer might be getting only 2 visitors in a month, my about me page will be sucking in about 13% of the people that visited my site that month, I don't really know why but my guess, they just want to get to know you.

So, you just have to give them exactly that...

That's what they want, right?

So, if you are running keyword based site, use the about me here at <http://lainktattoos.net/about> but if it's a direct product review site then I recommend you use the contents of the about me that I used here at <http://carallumaactive.net/about>. Remember to tweak it with a picture or even pictures if you have more time on your side, add some keywords and don't forget to leave your bank account details on the page, you never know who might be in the happy mood to drop some cash... lol.

“Now... put the whole butter in the frying pan”

What happens?

I guess you know...

You don't just need to crush your competitors what you need is to melt them so they don't have any fighting chance against you

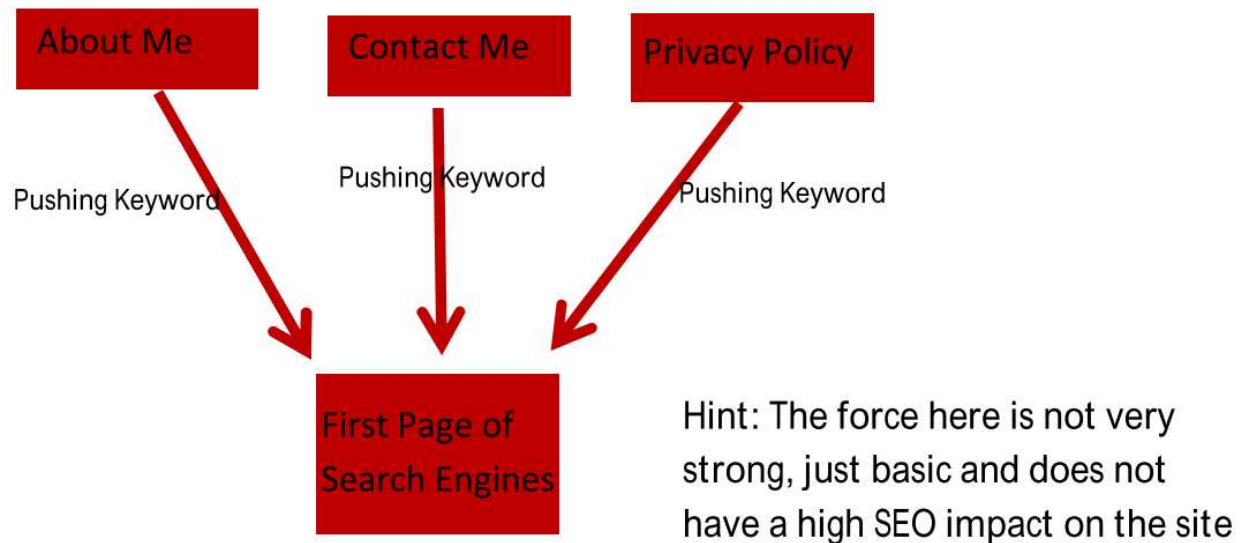

More pages will do the trick

Some of you on MMD who read my old good CBFK report are already familiar with how I use this simple trick to get my blogspot.com sites to the first page of Google every now and then and the icing is that this is the future of SEO in 2011 as it will also allow you to fully utilize the power of interlinking without reducing your conversion (this is the future of search engine optimization in 2011, Matt Cutts admitted this when he was talking about the unlimited times that Google algorithm might change in 2011 but if you incorporate interlinking and more pages, you will be on safe side) and the funny thing is that I already discovered this in 2010 and have been enjoying it.

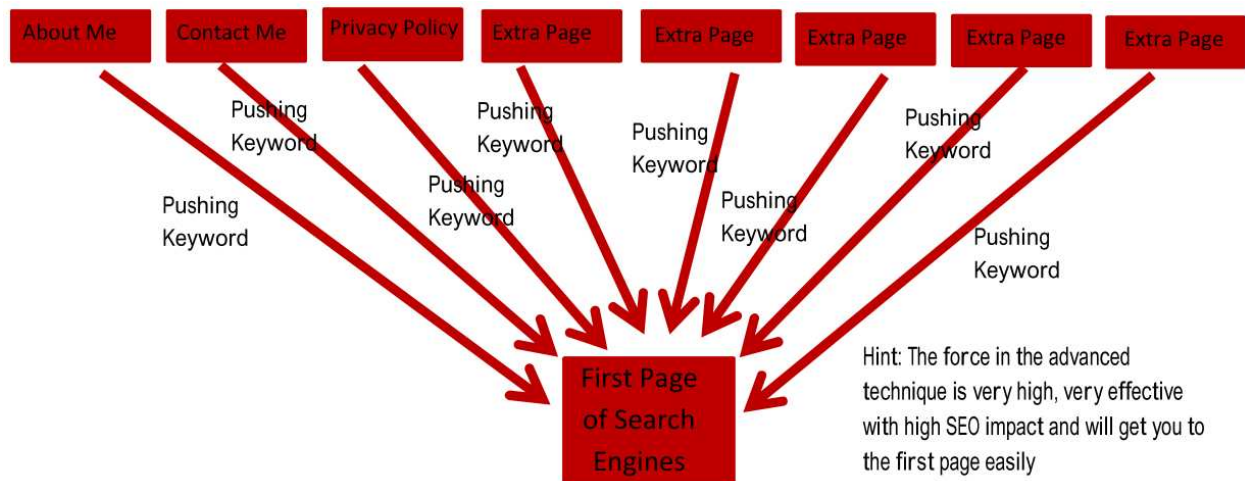

Don't dedicate a particular topic to interlinking and how you use these pages will be discussed later in this course but for now, let me treat this.

I'm sure those of you who read the CBPS which is the upgraded version of CBFK saw these 2 pictures.

Did you notice the difference between the 2 pictures above?

Ok, before I go in to dissect those 2 images, let's do a little test to back up the theory following the success of this method in SEO.

"If 3 guys of 80kg each are pushing a truck weighing 800 tons with a force of 20 horsepower from point A- B that is 100 meters in length"

And

“If 8 guys weighing same 80kg is pushing same 800 ton truck with same 20 horsepower force from same point A – B that is still same 100 meters in length”

Which people do you think will get that 800 ton truck to from point A to point B first and easier?

Let's not lie to ourselves we all know that it's the 8 guys, right?

That's same way everything works in this world where gravity commands every move and Google is no game for this either. Defying Gravity (that's just series of fiction from ABC and CTV); they wish they did... lol.

I will still talk about how to use the pages to improve your search engines and have your site running on SEO steroids but what you need to know is that these pages are not like the other 4 pages that are just static, they need to be really unique like your main contents and fully optimized but at same time, you really don't have to have to stress yourself writing contents over and over again.

Personally, I use contents found on the sales page of the product I'm promoting to write the contents used on these pages so that means that these pages are just going to be related to the product itself.

For example, if I'm promoting caralluma actives then I could have my “more pages” as stuffs like:

- Caralluma Fimbriata: actually, caralluma fimbriata is the plant that caralluma actives is made from, so what I will do is just go to the website of caralluma actives and gather just about everything they have on caralluma fimbriata and use it to create my own unique content, I can search on Google to get more information on it and put it together as a new content for my page, I will also make sure it's completely search engine optimized, I'm going to teach you that in creating your post and in this part, I will link back to the caralluma fimbriata article on wikipedia for those who want to read more about it, I will also find a quality video on youtube talking about caralluma fimbriata and place it on my page and also link back to it on youtube.

- Caralluma Actives Videos: ok, this one is just another mini youtube page on my site, you know how much Google links to good neighborhood and most of those guys are just youtube, wikipedia, yahoo answers and amazon but Google loves youtube videos very much. So, what I do is just go to youtube and find about 2 - 5 videos that I will publish on this page whether they are mine or not and I will make sure that I link back to each of these videos on youtube.
- How Caralluma Actives Works: what I will basically do is just go back to the official site and gather everything they have on how the product works then I will go to yahoo answers and find a content that answers this question and link to it and even quoting the author if necessary, I might also find another good video on youtube about how caralluma actives works and insert it on the page then link back to the video on youtube too.
- Caralluma Actives Free Trial: I only use this option if the product has a free trial or if the product is offering some kind of 90 day risk free trial or 60 day guarantee then I will have pages like "caralluma actives 90 risk free trial or caralluma actives 60 day guarantee" respectively. Basically, I will just repeat same thing the owner of the product already said about the trial or guarantee on his product and if the product is also on amazon, I will link to it (with my affiliate link of course) as the one without trial but you get your free trial when you buy from the official site but if it's not on amazon, I will just link only to the seller... no worries.

See <http://carallumaactive.net> for a practical example of what I mean.

I want you to understand one thing here, you are not really creating these pages to power up your sales nor are you creating them in expectation that they will pop up as #1 for one keyword or the other.

The sole aim is to power up your overall search engine ranking by using an advanced search engine optimized internal linking structure which I will still talk about later in this course and the secondary aim is to show Google that your site is totally dedicated to that keyword you are targeting (detonator site's quality is always a secret winning recipe for #1)

So, you really have to optimize the pages clearly for the keyword you are targeting the way I will teach you in the next topic of creating your posts.

The common questions that people normally ask is how many “extra pages” should I create.

The truth is that there is no answer to that, it can range from just 1 page to even 5 pages but I normally like my “extra pages” to be within 2 – 4 sometimes I just have 1 extra page and it will just be enough.

Anybody who is talking about search engine optimization in this 2011 who didn't point this stuff doesn't know how to consistent #1 ranking on Google at least for this decade.

Google guys just said this stuff this year but I had already started using this method to outrank my competitors since 2010, that's what I mean by being ahead of your game. You will always know where the game is headed next.

The Real Content – The Real Money

Yours posts, how to optimize them for insane ranking and insane sales...

I'm sure that if you are following me by now you will already have that very first stupid crappy content you just put out there just for Google while you still try to tell your visitors to come back for the main articles on your site in case some kind of magic happens and someone decides to stop by.

So, basically this won't be your first content but this is going to be your first real content and everything you do onwards from here will now determine your real ranking in Google.

By now you should have installed and activated your SEO Pressor, if you haven't... you might be finding some parts of this section very difficult because you will need to squeeze out every single search engine optimization juice available in each of your contents and SEO Pressor is going to help you do it right, so click here to download and installed this plugin if you haven't.

You remember that I told you that Offpage search engine optimization is completely limitless but onpage search engine optimization is very limited within the boundaries of 100% and you need to get everything you can out of it while still maintaining the quality of the article and a high click-thru rate because some people while trying to optimize their contents for search engines, they will end up sending the human visitors away from their site but don't worry I'm going to teach you both.

Want a closer look at the baby again?

No way hommie! You are not getting it this time again; I think it's high time you learned how to make your own baby.

Ok... let me show you how to make your own momma baby in no time.

The secret to this is to stay focused and play really smart...

How many times do I have to say this...?

Stop trying to rank your site #1 for “shooting pegs review” and 40 something other keywords at the same time with one site or one article.

It won't work.

Once you rank #1 for the main keyword you are targeting, first page ranking will follow for many other LSI keywords related to your site.

Here is a typical example of what I mean...

I optimized my site for leash training puppies and once I got hit on it, I was also awarded first page ranking on about 42 LSI keywords.

So, once you are doing good on what you have , other things are awarded to you and even God emphasized on this too when he said in the holy book “Give yourself to thy creator, your God and every other thing (money, wealth, health, power) will be given to you in abundance”

Well, I don't know about you but as for me, I don't like competing with the forces of nature.

So, I guess Google's own quote should be “find that keyword... commit yourself totally to it, dominate it, command it and all other keywords will be ranked for you on the first page”

Pretty much same quote with that of nature...

But the problem is that Google doesn't have any quote, they only have their rules which they keep changing every other day. Matt Cutts said that in 2010 that Google changed algorithm like 300 times and it might even be changed more this year, boy that's too much for me and you to figure out the algorithm they are using at a particular time cos it's like just each new day they will be a new algorithm.

But all through that same 2010 that they changed their algorithm like 300 times, my site <http://leashtrainingpuppies.org> stayed #1 on Google for leash training puppies

So, damn the algorithm!

It's just some stupid complicated code developed to block spammers.

But hommie, I'm not a search engine spammer and if you follow this course, you won't be a search engine spammer either.

So, the algorithm will simply have no effect on you.

C'mon, how does that make you feel boy knowing that, that shitty code from Google will not determine your financial future anymore?

I bet you feel like a 1,000 pound truck was just lifted away from your head.

All you need to do is just understand the basic Google search engine optimization rules and focus on using it to get your site to #1 for one keyword.

So... let me break down the rules for you.

Onpage Black-hat SEO: I can't be any more blunt about this... onpage SEO is highly limited and you need to squeeze out every damn stuff you can out of that 100% so black-hat or grey-hat should have no place on website.

It's strictly against Human, Google and every other search engine rules, if you are really serious about getting that #1 position and dominating it for years then avoid black-hat techniques like the Egyptian plague.

They include keyword stuffing, cloaking, fake redirects, meta tag spamming, title tag spamming, H1 spamming, alt tag spamming, hidden text, pop server ads (like the types seen on adult sites).

Most of these tricks you play won't even get you any were with the new methods of pulling high SERPs in search engines these days and worst, it will get your site penalized especially the keyword stuffing technique.

Worst case scenario, your site will be de-indexed from Google and you run to over to WF and start crying in the forums like a baby "Google Sucks - They De-indexed My Site, Please Help"

Dude, I bet you are the one that suck...

Seriously dude, do you really want to build your income on trick that you go to bed every night praying to God that Matt Cutts doesn't spend the next few minutes on the computer in other not to stumble on your site and find out the little dirty work you've been doing?

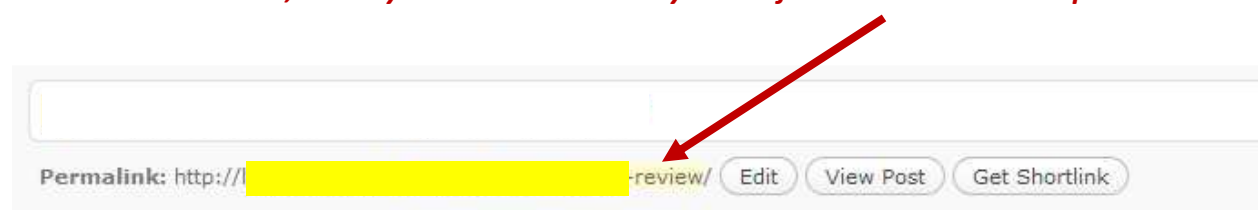

Save you black-hat and grey-hat techniques for the next search engine that will be created.

Website URL: I already talked extensively on exact match domain names which is pretty much a good recipe for winning the SEO game that some people still ignore even up till this 2011.

Remember that I keep shouting that onpage SEO is very limited so you can't afford to lose any point; you need to grab all the points you can and I don't want to go about rambling all about it again here so I will just give this instructions like an order from the commandant.

If you are planning to rank for a keyword make sure that the keyword appears in the links of all the posts you will publish on that site

Make sure the keyword you want to rank for is in the permalinks and if it's a niche site, also try to make sure the keyword of the site is also in the permalink

Page Title: This one I think should be very flexible. You can't say you are targeting a keyword if it's not even in the title of your article. Basically, when you construct your title, the permalinks structure will automatically pull it in as your new link URL which will also have your keyword in it.

Always include the keyword you are targeting in quotes in the title of the post or page you are publishing.

H1, H2 and H3 tags: they are about 10 of these H tags but the only relevant ones and the ones considered by search engines in ranking are the H1, H2 and H3 tags, they determine the relevancy and attention that Google should pay to each of your words used in your content.

H1 tag is the most important among them and it's highly considered in determining your site's search engine ranking so never ignore it.

The simple rule here is to have your keyword in H1, H2 and H3 tags.

Matt Cutts already said that it's "OK" to have more than one H1 tag with your keywords in it.

But I prefer to have one H1 tag at the beginning as heading, two – three H2 tags as subheadings in the article and one H3 tag at the end as my closing caption all with my primary keywords in it.

Configure Your H1 Tags

Akismet is almost ready. You must enter your Akismet API key for it to work.

Caralluma Actives

So, if I want going to write a post on leash training puppies, here is an example of how I will arrange my H1, H2 and H3 tags.

My keyword: leash training puppies

Post Title: Crucial Method for Leash Training Puppies

Post Link URL: <http://yoursitehere.org/crucial-method-for-leash-training-puppies>

H1 tag: Leash Training Puppies (as the very first content on top)

H2 tag: 4 steps in leash training puppies (as a subheading).

H2 tag: One secret every puppy owner must know about leash training puppies (as a subheading).

H2 tag: Best kind of leashes to buy for leash training puppies (as subheading)

H3 tag: If you want to start leash training puppies, click here to buy the best leashes for puppies (as my closing caption).

If you format your content this way, your onpage SEO is just seconds away to the finish line, you just have to tweak few extra things remaining and you are already winning.

Use the H3 tag to write the last sentence and make sure that your primary keyword is always present in the very last sentence even if you didn't use a H3 tag to close it cos sometimes, you may find using the H3 tag in the middle to be more effective for you but I always prefer it come last and it works out better for me that way.

Use the H2 tag for writing your subheadings, you can use the H2 tag only once or as many times as you want depending on how many subheadings your content has but always chip in your primary keyword wherever any of the tags is present.

To optimize your site for visitors while still optimizing it for search engines, it's best you stick to using H1 tag only at the top and very beginning of your content so that it appears immediately after your post title when published, using it in this manner will optimize your site not only for search engines but also improve your overall visitor's experience and it tends not to negatively affect your conversion and click-thru rates.

Image Alt Tags and Title Tags: Ok... this 2011, I have seen a lot of courses (just 3 to be precise) that in depth talked about dominating Google Images and I just kept laughing each time I saw them...

Seriously, I'm not laughing that these guys don't know what they are talking about but seriously I don't just know why I'm really laughing when reading those books, it makes a lot of meaning and I love what the authors said but the book was kind of a funny stuff to me.

Anyways, I finally figured out why I have been all those while just like 10 minutes ago (I know it's crazy, after laughing for about 2 months and I'm only figuring out why I have been laughing just now)

I figured why should I waste my time trying to dominate Google images when most of the people that will see my images are just other marketers that are trying to collect them and use on their sites, they are not really going to buy anything since they are selling same thing.

Example: after spending a month trying to get my image to the #1 position on Google images for “black sparrow fishing”, it’s obvious that the next guy who is searching for “black sparrow fishing” is just another marketer who is looking for an image in the fishing niche to use on his site or just some guy searching for black sparrow fishing image to use and design the wallpaper of his computer.

What stops someone who is really looking for a course or tutorial on black sparrow fishing from using Google search to get some real help?

Worst yet, when Google blasts the person with 11,003,738 images for black sparrow fishing, the first click is always at the middle not even the #1, I don’t know why but images within the center area gets more clicks

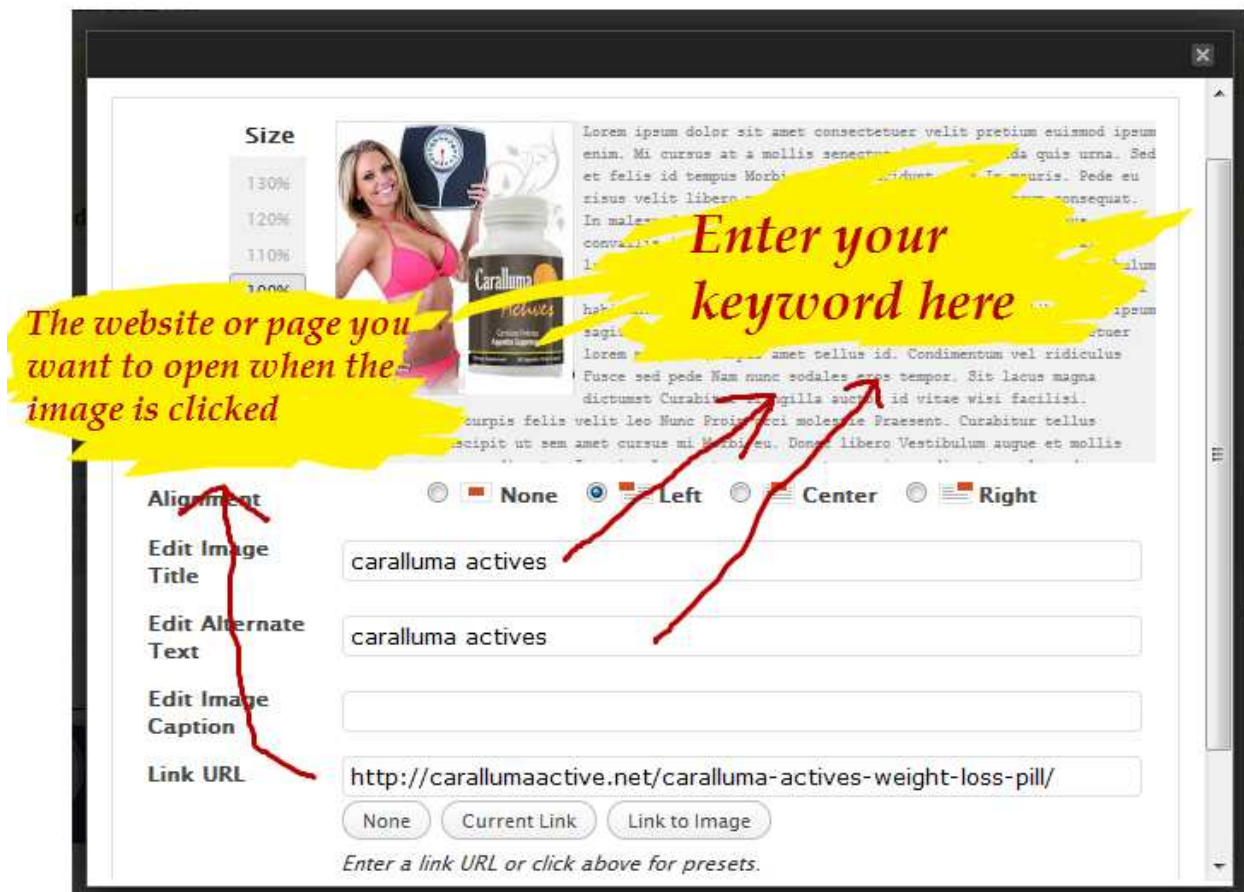

So, why spend endless hours on Google images trying to get at nothing when I can use that few minutes with same images and push my site to that #1 position that I so much want.

And best of all... it’s even very easy to use.

No complicated stuffs, just add your keywords here and there and you are done, I bet that sounds really easy and sincerely, it’s that very easy.

Really, all you need to do is just to upload the image into your post then edit the Title tag, Alt tag then add it to your post.

And here is how...

Side note: make sure the name of your image is your keyword. For example: if I'm optimizing for "leash training puppies" then the name of my picture will be "leash training puppies.jpg"

Keyword Density: Ok... even the guy that just started SEO last week must have heard keyword density like 2 -3 times and the penalties associated with keyword spamming and stuffing.

Just know this...

We are no longer in the 90s in the Yahoo era where everything was all about the keyword density.

This is the 2000s and we are in the Google era, so keep in mind that the game has been changed.

Maybe in the 3000s, we will have another era with another set of rules but for now, Google rules...

And keyword spamming and stuffing won't get you any close to winning your competition so I'm going to basically give you just a few pointers.

Keep your keyword density between 1 – 4%, that's the best density for search engine optimization and also click-thru rate optimization but personally, I aim to keep my keyword density around 2% and it's pretty much working out okay for me so I will just advice to keep it around 2%.

Always use the SEO Pressor to check what your keyword density is.

Internal linking (interlinking): Earlier, I told you guys that this is way to go for SEO in 2011 and I wasn't bluffing about that. Basically, it's just link this your post to the other one with your contents so that your site's link juice will be fully saturated but for us niche based affiliates, I can't afford to place 4 links in just one post where only one will be the actual affiliate link while others are just links to my other contents, it will really decrease my CTR, I did a lot of testings before I came up with this and yes, it's proved. If you own a product review site and each of your contents has 4 – 6 links and only 1 is your affiliate link while others are just links to other contents, your conversion rate will be drastically depleted except if you are running big review sites and stuffs like that, the case may be different.

And unfortunately, having the all-new SEO Smart links plugin tidy up this mess up for you will only add insult to the injury, don't get me wrong, I like that plugin but not for product based or micro niche keyword based sites, you know what I mean, right? (It works better on big sites).

You remember what I told you within page 69 – 78 about making it easy for someone to give you money on your site, well... that's the law I'm trying to preserve here while still practicing interlinking to boost SEO.

We don't want clusters of links leading our visitors from post to post instead of giving them the actual solution to their problem before they get pissed and close our site then give our money to the next Uncle Sam.

So, you need to have only your real affiliate links visible and for that same reason, I did a ton of testings and I came up with a great canned strategy that we can use to cap Google and win them at their own game while still maintaining a very high conversion rate in our contents.

They are basically 3 different tricks but I combine all of them for the very best results that I could get.

First, let me explain a few things to you...

You know that if you are planning to rank your site for a micro niche keyword that it's more likely you will rank from the main domain (www.micronichekeyword.com) instead of ranking with a page on the main site (www.micronichekeyword.com/a-page-on-the-main-site) expect if you are running a broad site like <http://netzinereviews.co.uk> or something like that.

And when some comes to your micro niche site, the major post they will read first will be the last published article before taking action, nobody has time to read your next 10 articles, you only post them to optimize your site.

I once asked one of my guru friends, how many posts it actually takes for your affiliate site to start make money and he answered me just 1 post.

Only one!

Yes... and here is why.

If you can be able to publish a complete 101 review about a product on your site and get a presentable ranking for the keyword, you are already making money and naturally when you publish 3 or 5 posts on your affiliate sites, the actual one making you money is the last published post.

This is the reason we always advice you to save your major review post for the last. It's always more reasonable to post it after you've been ranked on the first page of Google cos it tells Google that your site is always updated for that keyword and also gives them just another reason why your site should be #1 for that keyword.

So, with that in mind... your last post is the major post and you write it mostly to convert your visitors into buyers not really for your ranking, it will be a complete 101 roundup about the product you are promoting.

So, here is what I'm trying to say...

Write your other contents mostly for Google then save your last article for the money.

But sometimes, you might get your different posts ranked for some other mini micro keywords that might send in few visitors, so also remember to write them so that they can pull in good conversions too.

But the real thing here is this...

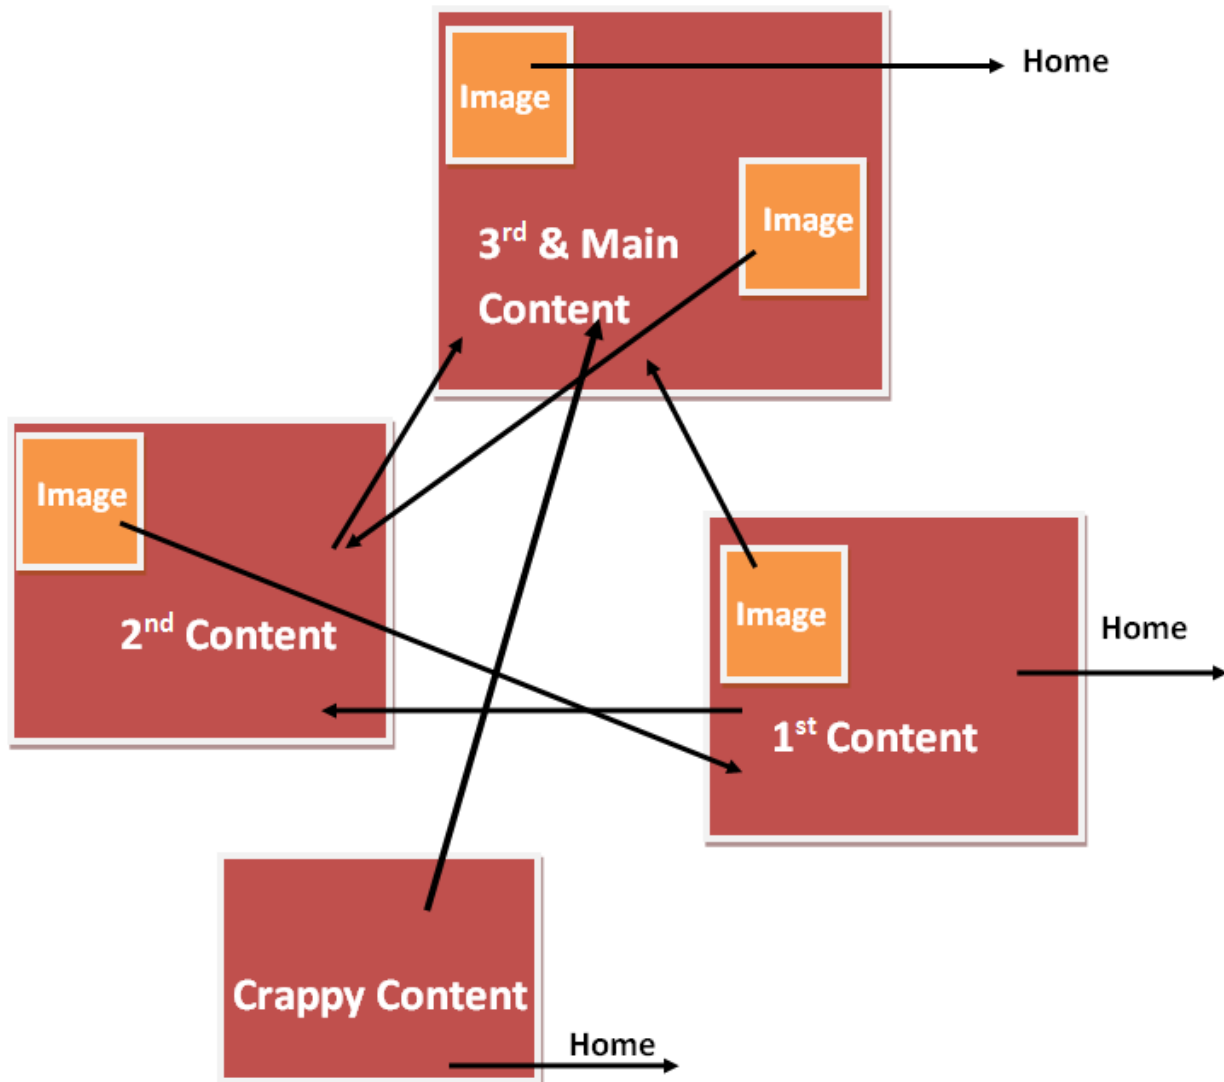

NEVER link contents in your very last published post to other posts in your site just for the purpose of interlinking SEO

It will KILL your money.

That's what I have been trying to say, so don't think I said, write for search engines or for visitors alone.

The reason is obvious, since the last post is usually the top article on each site and gets 80% of your visitors view, don't link it to others instead link others to it, you will still enjoy the interlinking juice with boosted profits.

I just figured out right now that saying this over and over again won't really do the trick especially for beginners, so I'm going to use an image to illustrate it a bit and watch the video in member area to see what I mean.

I'm pretty sure you are getting the whole idea of interlinking in a smart way as an affiliate right now, right?

I want you to take note of few things...

Home: you saw this a few times, yea. It's actually a link from your posts to your main website domain and in this case, you don't make any mistake of using another keyword, make sure the anchor text you use for linking to your home is exactly the keyword you are targeting.

Image: this is the one tiny little trick that I have been using to interlink my contents without reducing my CTR before I started incorporating other methods to improve it, just like the way I showed in page 91 when editing your image to add your alt and title tags, you will also see the link to URL, that's where you will add the link to the next post.

Main content: I like to believe that my interlinking structure is not complete if the last post doesn't link to another place on my site too and so instead of disturbing my money, I just like to keep SEO apart by using the images to interlink, if I have only one image in the content, I prefer to link to only my home but if I have like 2 – 3 images, I link to my home then to product site or any high CTR content on the site and if I have no image on the last post at all, I don't link to any place and it's not much of a big deal but I like adding images to enjoy the image alt and title tag SEO benefits and also improve the overall visitor's experience on my site.

If you don't know much about this interlinking stuff, just use the image to link your own site even if you have 5 posts (it's even better) and if you have just only 1 post, you can just link to your home then use the pages on the site and link to the post.

Warning: Link stuffing is black-hat. Avoid It!

I've already seen some sites stuffing over 10 links in one article just to get the benefit of interlinking SEO, this is called link stuffing and it's a huge SEO crime considered illegal and black-hat by search engines and visitors.

What you need to need to understand is that a site with only 1 internal link in his content will get same ratings as a site with about 2 – 3 or even more links in its contents and it gets worse when you start stuffing about 10 – 20 links in one single content, your site will be punished or even de-indexed.

So, why risk it?

Just keep it basic and simple at most...

Like 1 internal links (image) and 2 affiliate links in a 500 word content or something like 1 internal link and 1 affiliate link in 250 word content.

You get the idea, right?

Outgoing links (external/outbound links): this rule basically applies to all links that are not on your site like your affiliate links, the rule is simple. You should add the “Nofollow” tag to all external links on your site.

Though I’ve seen some SEO guys saying that it really doesn’t matter so much but I like just doing it, call me old fashioned, I don’t care.

To add the “Nofollow” tag to your affiliate links is very simple, just use this code: ``

And you are done!

Many people new to SEO are really afraid to optimize this much because some of the old junkie courses they’ve read already used sandbox to set some stupid barriers for them.

And they will be afraid to make their point clear but you need to know that Google is not some kind of mind reader so you have to be blunt about things and just come out bold and tell them what your site is all about.

But a #1 listing on Google never lies...

Let me not leave these remaining few pointers on your onpage SEO

It's just the last of SEO Pressor and All in One SEO plugins.

Just before you publish your post, here are few things to do on each of the plugins if you have carefully installed, configured and activated them properly.

Just below the content area where you are writing your post, you will see the "SEO Pressor" tab for you to insert your main keyword Side note: don't participate in link exchange programs, the sites that go into these programs are mostly scam sites, malware sites and adult sites.

Link out to bad neighborhood and Google will do you 20 to life. You are finished! So, don't put your site in that position.

So, when it comes to external links, I prefer to stick with the fact that the links on my site that are not mine are my affiliate links cos even when you link out to completely white hat sites, they may link out to adult sites, worst case scenario, their site gets hacked and a malware is installed then your site will drop in ranking too.

So, keep your site as simple as it can be and mind your own business, when someone asks you for link exchange just tell them to mind their own business too except if he's the CEO of Google... lol

The Final Recap on Onpage Optimization

Onpage SEO can get too complicated with all these little details that you even start feeling like you are riding on 2 rails burning at 3,000 degrees where you must ride straight with no distraction in other not to get burnt.

And I understand why...

It's just the fact that onpage SEO is very limited and whatever you do in there immediately affects you especially on the negative side of the equation, I mean just by tweaking a little stuff can practically drop or increase your site's click-thru rates and search engine rankings.

So, you feel like you are in between the red devil and the red sea...

No option seems to sound fair

And you just end up getting stuck at a point with a head blown confusion; it will be like you just hit the great wall

I know the feeling...

But just for a minute, I want you to forget all those confusing tiny little details; they probably won't even do you any good in the long-run after all

Just forget all those complex rules and recap on these few things

- Write for the human visitors (this where your money at)
- Put your keyword in your post title, post URL, H1 tag, H2 tag, H3 tag and image alt and title tag.
- Keep your keyword density within 1 – 4%

Just have these few pointers in mind and try to fulfill them, they are just the basic stuffs in onpage search engine optimization.

Don't allow all those complex stuffs to eat you up...

Offpage Optimization

Warning: For quality link building (offpage SEO) see Link Building Detonator report.

This is it...

The real back breaker of search engine optimization, completely unlimited and doesn't affect your site rankings negatively at least not to an alarming extent.

In just a minute I will show how you can start getting consistent #1 ranking on Google every 2 weeks just by doing your offpage search engine optimization the right way.

Do you still remember the Yahoo era back in the 90s when keyword density was everything?

Well, I do...

Here is the thing, that era sucked!

The reason is obvious...

Only the BAD guys succeeded online!

The internet then had no quality because of this, every article you read will just be full of crap like if you wanted an article on leash training puppies, the first site that will pop up as #1 will have something like:

Leash training puppies: leash training puppies is the art of training your puppies to walk on leash. They are many ways of leash training puppies but the best leash training puppies' method that will help you in leash training puppies properly will be using the leash training puppies guide by Mike Dennser, an expert in leash training puppies who just released a book on leash training puppies and I can tell you that his leash training puppies course is the best leash training puppies guide you will ever get to see in leash training puppies and crap... crap... crap.

You get the idea?

Everything was just all about the keyword density because the kingpin of the internet then made it so and nobody cared about the quality of what they release to the internet since the site with the highest keyword density for each keyword ranks #1.

Even site titles sucked too!

Site title: Leash training puppies – Leash training puppies | Leash training puppies

Everything on the internet was just crap and I tell you what, SEO guys are just so funny... we basically just over deliver

... Ha- ha ;)

You want keyword density? We will give 70% keyword density per content

You want link popularity? Man... you will get a shit load of that stuff

So, that's how it just was...

Sites with real and quality content never got any value because of this method of ranking, only keyword spammers rocked the internet.

Until a new era, a new kingpin and a new mindset came into play

And it was like they said "how can these losers be the winners"

Then they dropped the Google Bomb

And the internet was reshuffled...

New players, new cards and a completely NEW GAME!

That is what I call being a game changer ☺

So yea, Google changed how sites were being ranked

And what's the new method?

Well, it's based on popularity >> quality

Ok, Google wanted only quality sites with quality contents to rank higher but they couldn't determine which site delivered higher quality to the visitors since they can do it manually

So, Google played some metrics and figured something out...

It's only quality contents that you will want to link to, right?

Yea, Google also figured this out too.

Since people only link to sites or articles with good information, so basically, Google assumed it's the higher the number of sites or pages that is linking to a site or an article then the higher the quality and value that the article or site will offer to visitors searching for that keyword

Yes, Google based their whole quality SERPs on link popularity and it's working out pretty well

Then sites with 1% and even 0.3% keyword density started ranking #1 over sites that has 35% keyword density

Basically, if you can build a crappy site with just 0.7% keyword density and send hundreds – thousands of quality indexed links to the site, you can practically outrank your competitors and be the #1 for the keyword you targeted...

“See... I told you, the whole system can be gamed”

To achieve quality in their search results, Google based their ranking on two major factors though they are like a million other things that will affect your ranking but each of them is found under these 2 main factors

Your content (onpage factors)

Your link popularity (offpage factors)

Basically, there hundreds of other minor factors that are considered but you can game the whole thing if you really understand what a search engine is...

A search engine is just an application built with series of mathematical equations that pulls data from your sites and gives it rating according to the onpage and offpage factors then matches it with other sites competing for same keyword to determine where the site will be ranked.

See... if you basically understand search engine like this then you will have no problem getting consistent #1 rankings for all your sites and in worst case scenarios, you will get a first page ranking since all you will think, speak and do will be to make sure you score the highest in both the offpage and onpage factors for your site in search engines

But the problem and solution is...

“Onpage optimization is limited while Offpage optimization is unlimited”

So basically, this means that at a point of optimization, you might get enough of the onpage but you can never get enough of the offpage optimization.

Same reason, many people who knows 1 or 2 about search engine optimization will tell you that Google considers 30% for onpage factors and 70% for offpage optimization in ranking websites.

I've heard this a lot myself and while I can't really prove it since they is no official statement about it, I gotta tell ya buddy... that's just the truth

In fact, I might even be forced to say that Google considers about 90% in offpage optimization in ranking websites

And I do have something to back that one up

Because normally, if you just raise your keyword density just right above the roof, you will trigger the keyword stuffing filter and this will easily drop the onpage SEO score of your site but you can send thousands and thousands of backlinks to your site and you won't get even so much as a slap on the wrist...

Instead, you will get the golden crown for your efforts

See this....
71 million what?
Yea, you can never build enough backlinks
They didn't get penalized or any sort of that

I know what you are thinking now...

You are thinking that sites like adobe, facebook, wikipedia, answers usually get a special treatment on Google but that's not how I see it

In fact, I see it that just about anybody can build just about any amount of backlinks he or she wants to just about any site if you have a big SEO budget.

One of my one month old site swimming in over 7,000 laser targeted backlinks

Well... I didn't get penalized for that instead I got #4 position for a keyword getting 37,200 exact local monthly searches in just 9 days after back linking and while I'm still at #4, I already scored #1 position for many other LSI keywords and that site is already pulling in approximately $200 per week and seriously, I only spent only about $70 to backlink it.

That's why you should always pull your profit calculator before you build a site and always go after those big gun keywords getting about 20,000 local monthly searches (only after you've mastered those with low comp.).

Always use the exact match for your calculations...

One secret that I discovered is that the bigger the volume of search of a keyword, the bigger the number of keywords you will rank for automatically once your site shows up on the first page for the primary keyword and one other benefit is that once you rank for these big gun keywords on the first page of Google no matter the position, your site is already worth a lot.

I mean right now, that site is ranking for tons of keywords that I didn't even optimize for

So, always go after the big guns

Really, you can't build too many links

By the way, I didn't built that 7,000 links and got all of them indexed to my site, I just built same amount of backlinks I have always built on my other sites like <http://carallumaactive.net> but this site has only about 300 links indexed to it.

Why?

You are probably wondering why is it that when I build 20,000 links to my other site and got about 7,000 backlinks indexed to it while I built same 20,000 links to <http://carallumaactive.net> and only got about 300 links indexed to it.

I know it's crazy... do you even know the craziest thing? I bought these backlinks from same merchants so they were nothing really special about the other one.

So, is it a mistake from Google?

Well, I will leave you hanging on that until you read my topic on indexing backlinks and see how a simple trick skyrocketed the indexing of my backlinks from the normal 0.5 - 2% to a machinery 23% index rate that even those paid link indexing service can't even offer you and the best part, the method I'm using is 100% free. So, in few minutes... I will be saving you some dollar figures per month, right?

So, talk of back linking...

I've read some courses in search engine optimization that completely ignored this part of the optimization even though it's the part that commands about 70% of the whole process, the biggest thing they will tell you to will be to ping your site with pingomatic.com.

Well, HELLOOOOO!

Is somebody hearing me?

Pinging doesn't improve your search engine ranking. It only notifies search engines about an update on a site which wordpress does automatically for you and even blogger already integrated that feature too.

So, what's up?

I guess nothing is really up when your site at the bottom of the third page of Google

Do you even know the funny thing about all this?

These courses will even go out of line to tell you that once you send 100 backlinks to your affiliate site in a day that Google will sandbox your site, you should get like 50 links in a week...

Well, remember that my tattoo site? I sent about 20,000 links to that site in 2 days and I didn't even get so much as penalty and truth be told, since 2010, I have never sent anything less than 10,000 backlinks to any site I'm back linking and I do this within a very short period of just about 2 - 5 days.

The fact is that Google indexes only about 1 - 2% of those links when you ping, they only index about 0.5% when the links are not pinged and that's why most people throw in over $197 per month to link indexing services just to increase their link indexing rate to about 10% but remember, I will still show the secret I use for getting over 23% link index rate 100% free.

So, if only about 2% of the total backlinks are indexed by Google under normal circumstances that means for every 100 links, Google will only index 2 of the links and that means you will get only 2 backlinks to your sites when you've actually created about 100 links and this is usually very common with the forum profile links because of their URL structure which usually is not very search engine friendly.

Proof:

On 1 of my sites, I bought 3 backlink packages

1st package: 7,500 profile links

2nd package: 6,000 profile links

3rd package: 1,000 deep anchor text comment links

So, I built a total of 14,500 backlinks to that site but Google only indexed 197 backlinks to my site

Just do the math yourself... you will see that's just 1.358% of the total links I built was indexed.

The reason is that Google doesn't even know those other pages you created and inserted your links even exist.

So, your site won't get any credit from it and thus it's not counted as a backlink to your site.

Remember that all these links are not indexed in a day, Google might index 10 links the first day, maybe 23 links the second day and so on...

Now, tell me how building 100 links in a day to your site will sandbox it?

I told you earlier in this course that those guys who set up these stupid SEO rules doesn't know how to get consistent #1 rankings and they are not ready to test the edge of Google.

If at this moment, you are not in love with the results I keep getting for testing the edge of Google, you can as well stop reading this course cos it's even about to get more serious...

This course is only meant for those who are ready to do anything but not including black-hat to get a #1 ranking

So now, if anybody tells you to stop sending backlinks to your site that you will get banned, tell him to shut up cos he doesn't even have a clue about he is talking about.

And if you are one of those guys that have been ignoring backlinks totally as a major player in getting #1 ranking instead you keep writing thousands of articles like a ranting mad man then it's the perfect time to stop.

Cos I'm just about to expose the laser targeted back linking secret that I've been using in getting consistent #1 ranking for all my sites.

And by the way, remember that la ink tattoos keyword where my site is ranked #4 that I promised you I will rank #1 before this course is released, well... I'm already #1 for the keyword and do you even know the sweetest thing?

My site is now ranked both #1 and #2...

Well... I like to think I know what I'm talking about when it comes to SEO, do you believe me?

The screenshot shows a Google search for 'la ink tattoos'. The search bar at the top contains the text 'la ink tattoos'. Below the search bar, it says 'About 6,620,000 results (0.09 seconds)'. To the left of the search results is a sidebar with navigation options: 'Everything', 'Images', 'Videos', 'News', 'Shopping', and 'More'. Below these are filters for 'Any time', 'Latest', 'Past 24 hours', 'Past week', 'Past month', 'Past year', and 'Custom range...'. There are also links for 'All results', 'Sites with images', 'Visited pages', and 'Not yet visited'. The main search results area shows a grid of images for 'la ink tattoos'. Below the images, there are two search results. The first result is titled 'LA Ink Tattoos' and is dated 'Apr 17'. It says '24 Mar 2011 ... LA Ink Tattoos - Your #1 secret tattoo resource for the best LA ink tattoo designs here, we help you find those perfect and power voltage LA ...'. The second result is titled 'LA Ink Tattoo Designs Review | LA Ink Tattoos' and is dated 'Mar 31'. It says '24 Mar 2011 ... La Ink Tattoo Designs is a place that has everything your ...'. Are you ready to piss off 9 other affiliate marketers even your warrior buddies?

Yes or No

Cos this whole thing is just about to get very crazy right now and I want you to make a decision for yourself before you continue with my...

Laser Targeted #1 Ranking Strategy

Do you recall the very introduction of this course when I told you that “focus” is every thing

Well, it doesn't just play that role in preparing your mindset for business and success. In fact, focus is just what it takes to win any SEO competition.

Tell me, what's the need trying to rank for 5 keywords when you haven't even ranked very well for one keyword?

It's just like an aimless shooting

I know you've read a lot of courses that told you when building your site, you should find a primary keyword and 3 LSI keywords to target for that site (the big LSI fallacy).

Don't get me wrong, these methods are pretty good but it has a problem if you don't do it well.

The problem is that you will never rank #1 for any of those keywords at least not in a record time if you concentrate on all the 3 or 4 keywords at same time because you've not gotten your priorities figure out straight.

Don't get me wrong by thinking that I'm saying your site should not rank for other keywords after all... my <http://laintattoos.net> is ranking for major keywords (not just LSIs) apart from my primary keyword, it ranks for la ink studios, cute tattoo ideas for women, la in tattoo designs review, la ink tattoo designs for girls, la ink tattoos for girls and tons more and so are my other sites, I don't have time to keep mentioning them but they is a special strategy to get ranked at the #1 position for all these keywords while still making your point clear to Google...

That is what those courses never talked about and that's the reason you never got ranked on #1 for any of the keywords you target, instead you get first page ranking... sucks! (Especially for low competition keywords)

What happens when you follow those courses without the laser targeting techniques, your site will just be ranking for a bunch of terms but not really ranking well for any of the terms... "Your whole site will just be warm"

But with Google Detonator techniques "you will set your site on fire"

And that is what takes to be #1 for the keyword you are targeting plus you will also target 100 other keywords and still rank #1 for them too...

Now, how does that sound?

The power of laser targeted ranking

Send your backlinks to one site or one page for one keyword...

This will make your point clear

All you need to win the competition is simply to be blunt about it and just come out in the open and make your point clear

And you can't make your point clear and tell Google what you are really interested by warming up your site for 10 keywords...

Set your site on fire for one keyword, this will make your point clear.

Just the same way you can't make your point clear to a girl that you are interested in her by trying to entertain her with her 6 other friends at is the same you can't make your point clear to Google just by trying to rank #1 for 4 other keywords other than your main keyword.

If it's a girl, you have to man up... approach her and let her know you are interested in her (but don't forget the steps to getting a girl interested in you just like you won't forget the SEO steps to rank #1 in Google).

Here is something real...

In one of the Bollywood movies I watched (I've forgotten the name though), on a normal day in a plane flying from New Delhi to Paris, after few minutes of this guy staring at one of the gorgeous girls on the plane, he stood up from his seat, approached her and told the guy sitting by her side to stand up cos he wants to seat next to her (the girl he has been staring at for the past few minutes).

The lame guy said: what? This is my seat, why should I stand up?

The bold guy responded: cos I'm interested in her and I want to seat next to her?

The girl smiled and chuckled and the other lame guy was embarrassed then he stood up while the bold guy sat next to the girl he wanted.

You see what I mean, forget that this happened in a movie, just think of it as real life...

Making your point clear and staying focused on your point and being totally blunt about it and pursuing it with all you've got is what it takes to win (don't be shy... Google doesn't bite)

What I want you to do now are:

- Take that girl as Google
- Then take that love the guy proposed as the keyword you want
- Finally, take that bold guy as your site

So, now

You have to take up your site to Google just as that guy moved up to the girl then be bold and make your point clear about one keyword you want to be the #1 for just like that guy didn't waste his time beating around the bush and don't be scared of the site that is already ranking #1 just like that guy was never afraid to tell the other lame guy sitting next to the girl he wanted.

You just have to tell the site ranking #1 to go down to #2 cos you are interested in this #1 position and make sure your point is clear to Google.

And don't think the guy at #1 position will just go down to #2 without a fight, it's called competition so get used to it and to beat it, you need to stay very focused on your target (you don't need any distraction from any other keyword) once you are in, don't back out... just pursue it.

While your competitors are warming up their sites and ranking really low for a bunch of keywords, you will be setting your site on fire by staying targeted on one keyword.

And the best part is that the whole system can be gamed...

After you get that #1 position for the keyword you want then you now move over to the next keyword with a new page but still on your site and make your point clear too so at the end of the race, your site will be #1 for tons of major keywords while your competitors are just warming up and getting your left overs on the first pages.

I mean see it yourself... la ink tattoo designs review is a whole new major keyword but my site is still #1 and so is it for la ink tattoo designs.

So now, you can throw the other courses that will tell you about those LSI stuffs that have been causing you get low rankings out of the window and start using my course to get #1 ranking for a ton of major keywords that will turn your sites from a $100 per month site to an amazing $600 per month site.

How does that make you feel?

Now, let's get started with my method...

In the laser targeted #1 ranking strategy, I have been talking about making your point clear to Google like every other second.

So, how do you even really make your point clear to Google?

Here is how you will make your point clear to Google.

1. Target a good keyword that will make you money

2. Build a high quality site optimized for that keyword only
3. Then backlink the crap out of the site with the keyword you are targeting as the anchor text

We already talked about the steps 1 and 2.

The funny thing is that everybody tries getting the first 2 steps correct and leaving out the last step without realizing that it's their safe bet to the #1 position.

Sincerely, I don't even know how to start telling you this to make it rhyme, so I'm just going to come out blunt and say it.

If you want to keep getting consistent #1 ranking for any keyword you target then you must learn how to backlink the crap out of your site using the laser targeted strategy.

Seriously, forget about all those their long link wheels and link pyramids, if you use the laser targeted #1 ranking strategy to backlink your site, you will be ahead of most other search engine optimization experts out there.

The truth is this...

12 links won't do it...

And $13.95 cut it...

I know this...

Most gurus will tell you that to make money online that all you need is just a $10 domain then buy your $3.95 hosting to set up your site and after building your site, you should submit an article to these 12 high PR web 2.0 sites or major article directories and link back to your site

But that's the fallacy in whole truth

If you do this, the best you can get is the #3 position on the second page of Google and I believe you know how that story ended...

I know since I have been talking about building tons of laser targeted links to your site in excess of 20,000 links that most of you already wetted your butts thinking of how you can do that since you don't have $500 for xrumer or you don't have $300 for outsourcing...

Well... pretty much, I used to spend $250 on building my links and $77/month to get them indexed (just about 10% index rate)

Not anymore...

I now spend about $35 to build quality backlinks in excess of 30,000 PR0 links and index them with free trick that even pulls my indexation rate over the roof in excess of 23% index rate.

Now, how does that sound?

Trick or treat?

Ok... that is definitely a treat, I know most of you are already wetting you pants on this one...

The quality and charges depends the sellers you chose, don't worry... just check the Link Building Detonator for link builders you can use to get consistent #1 ranking. Now, I get to save over $300 for every new site I build plus I now get consistent #1 ranking for all my sites.

I know... I know... I know...

I have been saying laser targeted back linking strategy over and over again and right now in your mind, you will be guessing when will this kid stop rattling about and came out in the open to explain what he means by laser targeted back linking strategy.

So relax cos in just a minute... I will explain it to you but just give me few more minutes to get rid of all those SEO fallacies the gurus have hidden in your brain that have only been helpful in helping you get low rankings before I finally tell you how my method really works

So, damn that their high PR

I mean, just forget it... that thing is just a bunch of cover up that you really don't want to get caught up in.

Don't get me wrong, pagerank does count for something but with my laser targeted system, pagerank is dead

Personally, I don't have a clue about how to get even PR1 and all my sites even those that are 3 years old and making at least $400 a month are PR0 sites.

Pagerank has no contribution in getting your site to #1...

When you buy something like 2,000 blog comment backlinks, you might even get over 20 PR7 links, bunches of .edu and .gov links

They is this one seller on Fiverr, I usually buy 1,000 deep anchor backlinks from before she stopped selling, in her service, you will get over 7 PR8 sites, about 20 PR 7, something like 50 PR6 and just as the PR gets lower, it gets bigger till you hit the rock bottom of a bunch of PR0 links.

You might wanna check her out, in case she ever changes her mind to build links on Fiverr again (I personally liked her service and recommended it):

<http://fiverr.com/users/seom>.

But that's just her service which was not even available anymore as of last 2 months and I only enjoyed her service within a month

But before then and after she stopped selling, I just build my tons of PR0 backlinks that I use to beat my PR5 competitors to dust and rank #1

And just so you know, I wasn't going after her service because of the high PR backlinks she includes in her services, I used her service cos

1. It's fast

2. She knows 1 or 2 things about SEO that we usually talk about
3. I like the places she builds her backlinks from even though they are PR0. They have quality, not some stupid auto-blogs that are never crawled even when you put them through an indexing machine.

Do you even know that the majority of link building comes from PR0 sites?

Yes... if you think this is not true, use your SEO Spyglass to check it, you will find out that over 85% of the backlinks found on sites ranking #1 are PR0 links.

Just so you know, all it takes to have a PR4 site is just another dofollow PR4 backlink indexed to your site though sometimes, it takes more than that but I have seen a site that is PR4 and it has only one backlink coming from another PR4 site but this will mainly happen if the link is on the homepage and not on the comment sections that have been spammed to death.

They are less than 50 PR10 sites in the world but they are more than 10 million PR0 sites in the world

So... go figure?

And what of those high PR web 2.0 links?

Don't give me that crap again...

Those links are coming from PR0 pages in high PR sites.

Get this straight...

Pagerank is calculated for every single page but I'm sure you already know

Example:

Squidoo is a PR8 site but the normal lenses you create every day to get backlinks from are just PR0.

So, when next someone tells you that he will give high PR 8 backlinks from wordpress, blogger, Squidoo and hubpages, tell him to shut up except if he is going to place your links right on the homepages of these sites but as far as he will create a post, hub or lens then all you are getting is just PR0.

Sure thing I've gotten rid of some SEO fallacies in your brain, I'm just hoping there is just about enough space for you store my game changing strategy...

So, laser targeting, huh?

What's even a laser?

Well, better get your dictionary or this might just be a long night...

Laser from oxford dictionary means a device that can make strong beams of controlled light with rays that are parallel and of the same wavelength.

Wow... that's some definition (physics isn't really my thing)

So, laser targeted backlinks will simply be a way of sending backlinks to one site for one keyword (backlink the crap out of one site for one keyword and you will rank #1 for it... haha, doesn't that sound too easy?)

Remember when I told you that if you use other courses that will tell you to optimize and backlink your site for 1 keyword and 3 LSI keywords, you will end up just warming up your site for each of those keywords though you might rank for all of them but you will not be ranking really well for any of the keywords (maybe just a first page ranking. What of #1?).

But with my laser targeted #1 ranking strategy, you set your site on fire for one keyword and rank #1 for it

And here is the icing...

Once you rank #1 for it, just pick up a content on your site and optimize it for your other keyword and backlink the crap out of it too then you will also rank #1 for that keyword

And all you get is a win-win situation.

Here is a case study that will make this clearer...

When I started building <http://laintattoos.net>, I wanted to rank #1 for both la ink tattoos, la ink tattoos designs, la ink tattoo designs review, tattoo ideas for women, cute tattoo ideas for women, cute tattoo ideas for girls, la ink tattoo designs for girls.

If you watch carefully, that's a bunch of good keywords and if you check them on Google keyword tool, they are all is getting good amount of searches per month.

I like to rank for meaningful keywords that are getting high volume search not when you select 4,000 volume searches per month keyword then you now look for 590 searches per month keyword that are related to your main keyword and choose them as an LSI.

For goodness sake, Google doesn't understand them as LSI keywords; they all treat them with same measures as keywords so pick something that will make you money not a lame keyword.

LSI keywords come naturally, you won't even have to optimize for them... once you write quality content they will be automatically injected since you will be mentioning them without even knowing.

See something like: la ink 9 11 tattoos, library of la ink tattoos, sun la ink tattoos, how hard is it to get tattooed and a bunch of them, my site is ranked for over 100 of these kind of terms and they all come naturally (I will still show you how to track your rankings for such terms)

But that's just by the way for now...

So, you can see... I have something big here... trying to rank one site for 7 major keywords can be easy if you know how.

The worst mistake that those gurus have taught you how to make is trying to optimize for all these keywords once.

The end result will be that you will just be warming up your site for all these 7 keywords even though you may rank for them, it will be really low and might not even guarantee a high ROI

And then you realize... what a waste of time

But luckily, here is a proven laser targeted strategy that will save you both time, money and make you your $1,000 a month from one detonator site.

So what to did...

Divide and Conquer

I optimized the whole of www.mydetonatorsite.com for the main keyword (my first major content will be highly optimized for it and so are other contents).

Then start back linking the crap out of www.yourdetonatorsite.com

Example: I wanted to rank #1 for la ink tattoos, right?

So, I sent over 20,000 links to <http://laintattoos.net/> for the keyword la ink tattoos

Wow... what a wonder?

You site didn't get banned?

Wow... this is really testing the edge of Google.

Now, what of the icings cos I know you always have that in stores...

Ok, you got me ;)

The next keyword in my project list to rank for was la ink tattoo designs.

So, I created a new topic in my site focused on la ink tattoo designs, you can see the topic here: <http://laintattoos.net/la-ink-tattoo-designs-review>

If you see that topic, you will notice that I optimized it mainly for la ink tattoo designs but I also kept 2.31% keyword density for la ink tattoos by inserting the keywords here and there in the topic but I didn't really use it as my primary keyword, I did it to maintain my onpage SEO for la ink tattoos which is the main keyword of my full site.

So, after creating that topic...

I checked on the competition of la ink tattoo designs, it wasn't really that high like that of la ink tattoos, so I just sent about 7,000 backlinks there and 4 days later, I'm #1...

Funny thing is that from a great onpage search engine optimization before I even started back linking the crap out of that page which was just less than 24 hours after I published the topic...

I already got a #1 ranking for another very close keyword to the one I was optimizing for and right that day made 3 sales from that single post which totally paid for the back linking I was about to do

Isn't Google so much in love with this method

In less than 24 hours: already got a #1 ranking for la ink tattoos designs before I even started backlinking for la ink tattoo designs

So what happens when TattooFinder.com artists appear on LA Ink? An overload ...

My competitors hate that Google loves me so much and they are willing to kill to know the secret I use for getting Google to be obsessed with me ::

Now, you are getting same secrets I use to get my competitors to hate me.

What are you going to do to your own competitors?

Murder them or beat them to dust?

Either way... they are dead

And just so you know, I did same thing for my other contents and got a #1 ranking in less than 72 hours for some pretty major keywords

Google so much trips for detonator sites and if you think that I'm a kidding then watch this video here to see where Google is bowing for a GD site.

And it just goes on and on for all my sites...

Consistent #1 ranking for any keyword I want and anytime I want it... isn't that freaking amazing?

You can start doing same thing today...

Optimize one content for one keyword then backlink the crap out of the content for that that keyword.

It's just as simple as it gets...

And trust me... it doesn't get any better than this.

The main thing I want you to get is this...

If you have a site say www.mydetonatorsite.com and you want to rank for my detonator keyword, detonator keyword 1, my detonator keyword 2, and my detonator keyword 3

If you try to optimize for your single site for all the keywords, you will lose focus and you will even deceive Google too and they don't like this any better than you do and when you lose focus, you will never get that #1 ranking for any of those keywords.

So, if I'm the one handling such project.... Here is what I will do.

- I will rank www.mydetonatorsite.com for my detonator keyword
- Then I will create a page on detonator keyword 1 then rank it.
- I will also create another page focused on my detonator keyword 2 and rank it.
- And finally, I will create another page focused on my detonator keyword 3

You see the trick, instead of trying to rank my site for a bunch of terms which will make me lose focus, I will just rank it for 1 term and make sure I get a #1 ranking for it then create new contents on site with each one focused on the other terms I want to rank for and rank each of them on #1 separately for each of those terms (remember to keep average keyword density of your main detonator site in all the new contents you will create).

You see how it works? You win in all of them.

Anchor text (keyword): How you confuse Google

Yes, I've been talking about setting your site on fire for one keyword and not warming it up for a bunch of keywords...

Anchor text is plays a very powerful role in this and it's a major point of focus in laser targeted #1 ranking strategy.

It can build up your dreams of consistent #1 rankings same way it will crush it in seconds with just one single mistake.

Look, I'm not going to be fancy about this so I will just be blunt about it and say it direct...

If your site is targeting detonator keyword 1, when building your backlinks, use detonator keyword 1 as your keyword and anchor text in all of them. But in fair play use detonator keyword 1 as you anchor text in 90% and use something like detonator keyword 2 and detonator keyword 3 as your anchor text in remaining 10% in other to achieve fast ranking.

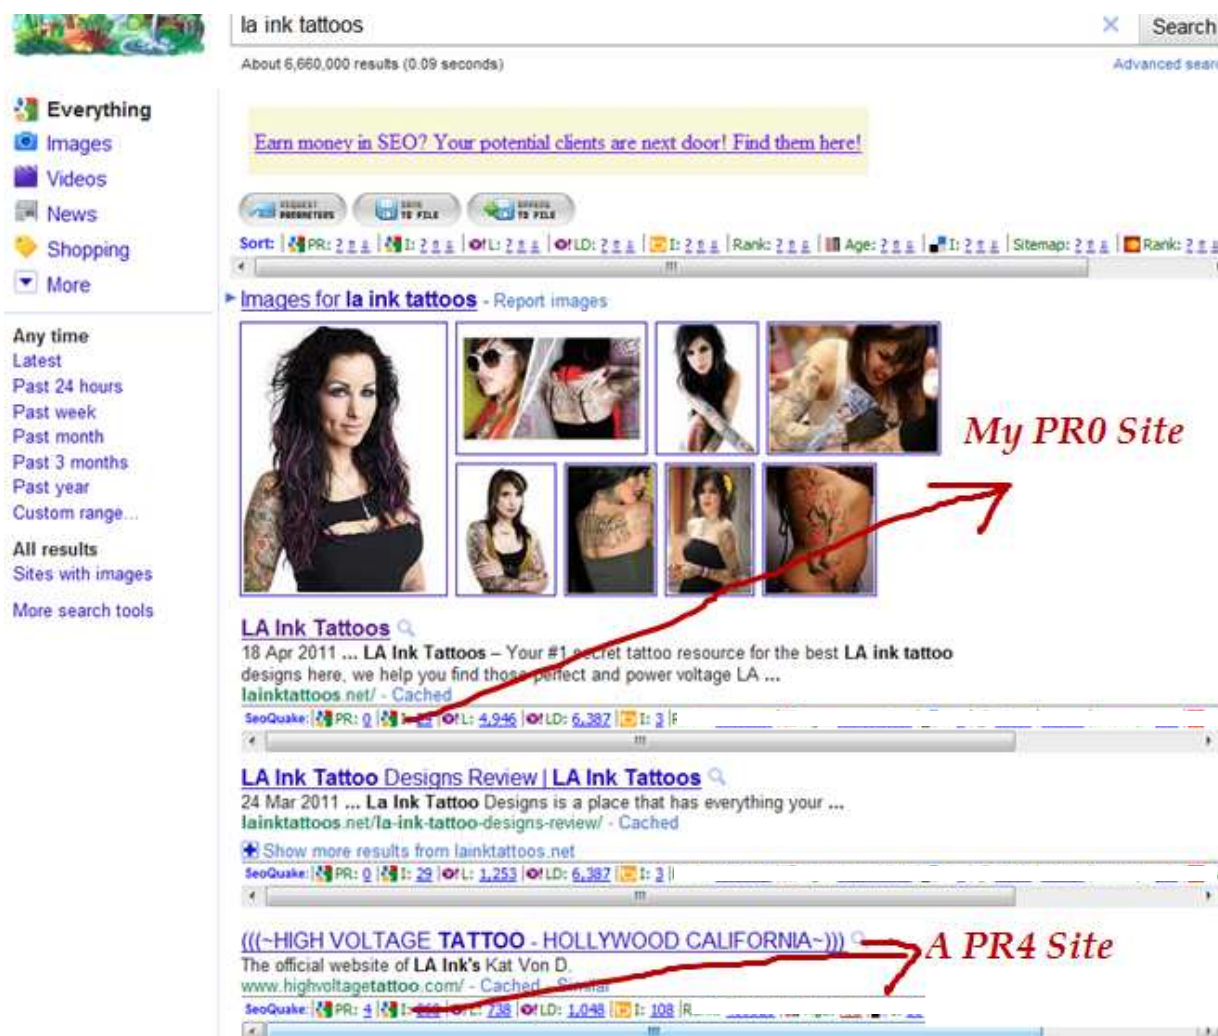

You need to make your point clear and tell Google that your priorities is only for detonator keyword 1, this totally speeds up the process and gets you that #1 ranking faster.

Besides, after you rank #1, you can then feel free to backlink your site for a whole bunch of other long tail keywords that your sites will easily rank #1 for without any serious competition and you enjoy a lot of traffic from them too, I will still talk a little more on this later but be remind that I don't recommend this for beginner detonators.

Post-panda update note: I no longer recommending using the technique I highlighted with red ink above.

See how a PR0 site who made his point clear outranked a PR4 site who is just out there to rank for a bunch of stuffs...

I already told you I eat PR5 sites for breakfast and I lick PR2 sites like ice cream, guess what I'm going to do to a PR4 site that is messing around my home...

Let me keep you thinking about that...

Basically, it's impossible for a PR0 site to outrank a PR4 site on pure numbers but the laser targeted #1 ranking back linking strategy I use helped achieve that...

Here is how it happened...

My site is clearly focused and targeting "la ink tattoos"

The High Voltage Tattoo site was targeting "LA Ink" and "High Voltage Tattoo"

You realize that both "la ink" and "high voltage tattoo" are some seriously related keywords (LSI) to "la ink tattoos", right?

Guess what...?

Google doesn't even give a damn about these LSI or related keyword though it does count for something (like few extra rankings) but when it comes to ranking a keyword, the only thing they know is what they see in your anchor text and that's why for you not to confuse Google or play yourself, don't give them tons of terms to think about, just make it easy for them and let Google know that this is the keyword you are interested in by using only the keyword in your anchor text)

You remember midway in this course near that place I talked about Google webmaster tools, I told you that Google always appreciates it when you make their work easier and they often return that favor with #1 ranking

So... damn the LSI cos that makes work harder for Google and also makes #1 ranking harder for us (but the icing is that you will still rank #1 for these LSI like a million times if you want to just like I taught you around that place I talked about the "divide and conquer" method. Ain't life a grand?)

I'm sorry if I just dropped your heart beat with these cos I know how you love LSI keywords and all the SEO benefits the gurus have told you about it and just now, one 18 year old kid from a country you never heard of in affiliate marketing comes out to tell you that it's all a lie

Damn... you are just hoping that I'm wrong

And yea, I may be wrong but a consistent #1 ranking from Google can't be wrong

Or that will mean that whole entire Google system is broken.

I want you to understand that I'm not entirely ruling out the idea of LSI keywords but I just want to let you know that their power is entirely limited cos Google is not yet very sophisticated at handling this even though at the bottom of their results, you will see stuffs like "related keywords", they are not yet that Google you think they are.

Here is what I mean....

"Caralluma weight loss pill" and "compar de caralluma brasil" are LSI/related keywords of "caralluma actives".

If someone (whether me or you) builds a detonator site based on any of those 2 keywords and backlink their site with any of those terms, they practically have zero chance of ranking for "caralluma actives"

While they are related and LSI keywords, Google considers each of those 3 keywords differently and if you think this is not true, just spare a few bucks and 2 weeks to prove this case study wrong.

If you prove me wrong on this, I will buy you an iPad 2 and I will take down the Google Detonator course for life.

I think that's a safe bet and you have nothing to lose except if you lose...

So, who is the challenger?

This course is the real game changer that you need to win the SEO game.

Introducing the SEO Power

Do you know that they are like a 100 really, really long tail keywords your detonator site is ranking for that you don't even know a thing about?

Now, don't get me wrong... I wouldn't waste my time building my sites around any of these terms my sites usually rank for that I don't even have a clue about.

The reason is because, those keywords are getting very low amount of searches per month, sometimes... they just get about 140, 90, 200 and even as low as <10 searches per month.

I bet you now have an idea of the keywords I mean...

The sweet thing is that they literally have no competition so sending just about 25 links there will get you the #1 position for them.

And the icing that tops it all is that if your site is ranking for about 60 of these keywords, say that on average, each of these keywords is getting 87 searches per month.

Just do the math... $60 \times 87 = 5,220$ searches...

So, all these 60 keywords combined with an average search of 87 searches per month will give 5,220 searches per month.

I think that's just about the kind of keyword volumes I like going after...

And it gets better since some of them can get up to 140 searches per month and all with no competition.

Remember that our target is to rank #1 for all these terms...

So, if you rank #1 for all of them with the normal 42.3% click-thru rate for #1 positions...

Remember how you do the math?

You will be getting extra 2208 potential buyers per month

And let's say for these keywords, your site pulls in a 1.75% conversion and your commission per sale is $16.45

Remember how to do the math with profit calculator?

That's an extra 38.64 sales per month and with a $16.45 commission per sale.

That's an extra $635.63 profits from one site in a month without a sweat.

And that's just as better as it gets...

Now, if you have 10 sites that are like this then you can do the math to see what it gives you.

I bet you are willing to murder any site owner that is blocking your way to another effortless 6k per month cos if you are ranking at #9 for these keywords, the whole game changes

I doubt if you will even make up to $50 extra from these keywords if you rank low on them

And that's a problem cos the rankings for these keywords are just so vigorously arranged; you will even see one stupid kamusta.ph blog created out of frustration ranking #1 for it?

So, what are you willing to do for an extra 6k per month from your 10 sites.

Ok... for me, I will start calling up the site owners of the other 9 sites ranking above me for each keyword and asking them to remove their sites.

Ok, that will be like making 9 calls to 9 site owners for each keyword "times" the 60 keywords for each site

Ok... that will be making 540 calls for each site and for the 10 sites, I will make 5,400 calls.

And let's assume it costs me $2.25 to call and convince these guys to delete that their stupid kamusta.ph and terapad blogs that has no future and give way to mine with an effortless extra 6k per month future

That's like blowing away 12k down the drainage pipe.

Ok, I just figured, I will drop my effortless extra 6k per month for 2 months for this job, which should cover the 12k expenses...

Ok, what if the owner is dead, what if the site owner doesn't place his contact, what if your site is still on page 3 for that keyword, what if the owner requests for $200 to do what you are asking...

I mean, they are like a 100 "what ifs" but damn the "what ifs"...

It won't just work and don't think I'm that stupid to start cold calling...

So, I will blow away $2,000 to Beanstalk SEO to get me on top 3 for those keywords, I think that's some good option, right?

Yea, but what if I told you that you can murder all those sites and even get a getaway from jail free card all for less than $50

Ain't life a grand?

"The CEO of one the Nigerian SEO firms is begging not to release this course yet till 2012 so that he will have time to change his type of business"

Cos this is going to murder his business since I totally exposed every single secret he thinks he's the only one that knows in Nigeria

Here are his reasons?

1. He won't be getting clients in Nigeria for SEO services again
2. Over 99% of the guys that blows away $150 to him every now and then to buy backlinks from him will disappear
3. And over 300 Nigerians that pays him $77 per month for indexing their backlinks will be gone for life

I mean... I'm literary sending someone into bankruptcy this 2011 by releasing this course and I can tell he's not happy with me...

- Not picking my calls again
- Sending me irritating and boring messages every now and then

I just hope it ends at that...

And I know that a lot of SEO firms will have a little shakeup in their client list after this course is released and even the gurus will go on their knees begging newbies to sign up for a $1 SEO service.

This is so embarrassing and game changing...

BTW (but that's by the way...)

So, murder the sites and escape Google jail for just $50, right?

Yea... right.

Link Building Detonator again, right?

Yea... right.

Warning: only do this after you've finally gotten a steady #1 ranking and not a shaky one or when you are still trying to rank #1 for your main keyword cos it will destroy all you have built.

Let me just be blunt about this cos it doesn't get any fancier than this, don't think the warning I just gave you is like that of those sales page warning where you see something like "offer closing in 10 minutes" and after 10 minutes, nothing happens (I usually sigh at those)

This is real warning and if you shit with it, it will shit with you.

If you are trying to rank your www.detonatorsite.com for detonator keyword 1, don't even try to do it when you are still pursuing the #1 position for detonator keyword 1 cos your detonator site will lose focus and it will confuse Google

And you already know what the end result is...

You won't rank well for your main keyword and you won't rank well the other keywords too.

That will be like throwing 2 stones at one bird once and losing them all...

So, if you just got ranked as #1, still wait a few more days like 2 weeks or even 2 months for #1 to be fully emerged into your site before you do it.

And if you have not even ranked #1 or your site is still jumping up and down between the #1 and #3 positions, don't even dream of trying it except if you want to lose it all and settle for low rankings.

In fact, I like doing this after about 1 - 4 months that my detonator site have been sitting at the #1 position cos by that time, my site will be completely set, that's like within 2 month - 6 months after I've built my site.

So how do you do it?

You simply do it by sending extra backlinks to your site for each of those low volume terms you want to rank for.

And remember that these keywords are so cheap that just 10 PR0 links is already enough to get you #1 position for them (most times when you have fully optimized your site, you don't even have to do it cos I don't do it these days and I get #1 rankings for most of them).

So, what you do is just build backlinks for these terms using forum profiles or web 2.0, that will really do it, I don't think it's worth outsourcing.

But if you want to outsource, I will recommend you use www.Dripable.com, they do a pretty good job in getting results.

Basically, they will accept a maximum number of keywords per site but you can still use other backlink building services or just do it with magic submitter.

But when you have 40 of these keywords at hand, you can just blow down $30 for them using Fiverr cos it's going to be cheaper especially if you are still a newbie with low budget investment so here is what you do...

Let them know that you are ordering for bulk like for 10 sites and you want them to offer you 20 or 30 keywords/per site for each gig on Fiverr.

They accept it 100% of the time once you are going to order in bulk.

So, for each site... you will spend $15 to get #1 ranking for 60 terms.

But remember, I don't recommend you do this until your detonator site have been on the #1 spot unshaken for 4 months straight, by that chance... you won't lose your current #1 position in expense of the other tiny keywords.

I have done a couple of testings with 5 sites to be precise and it's 100% confirmed that this is best done after you have gotten a constant #1 ranking, I mean when your detonator site have been sitting at the #1 position for about 2 - 4 months straight cos anything less than that may cause a little shake up in your rankings especially in high competitions.

Just so you know I use 2 guys for this if I want to use Fiverr. The other guy offers 7,500 profile links while the other one offers 10,000 blog comment links

And best part... they over deliver in excess, the forum profile guy will deliver 17,000 links and the blog comment guy gives up 14,000 links

And you only need about 15 PR0 links to become #1 for each of them.

Let's say we used the guy that offers 7,500 profile links

For the 20 keywords he will do for you in one service.

You will get 7500/20

That's over 375 non-indexed links per keyword that you only need 25 indexed links to get the #1 ranking.

Ok... let's say you don't use my laser targeted link indexing strategy and you got about 1% normal indexing rate on the links

That means only about 3.5 links which means approximately 4 links will be indexed to each of those keywords which is not up to the 15 that we need to in order to rank #1 for them.

So, you need to use my laser targeting link indexing strategy that will power up your links to a 23% indexing rate and don't worry, I will still show you how to laser target index your links.

With a 23% indexing rate...

That will give you 86.25 links which is approximately 86 links indexed to each of those backlinks in one service which is well over 15 links needed so #1 is guaranteed but sometimes, your detonator site will be doing so well that you won't even need to bother yourself about ranking for these really, really low volume and low competition terms.

Now, how will you even know these cheap keywords?

Naturally, most of you now will run off to Google keyword tool and pickup 60 keywords related to your main keyword that its search volume is below "n"

Maybe it will work but I wouldn't guarantee that...

Or at least, I haven't tried it that way cos I'm satisfied with the method I use for picking these keywords since that methods makes sure I get #1 rankings for each of these cheap keywords I pick 99.9% of the times.

The power of SEO Power

I bet that sounds funny "the power of SEO Power" ... ha-ha;)

SEO Power is a free wordpress SEO plugin that picks up all the keywords that your site is already ranking for naturally. Inside the “keyword list” section of SEO Power plugin, you will find a lot of these cheap terms that your site is already ranking for...

So, basically... it won't be a new thing to Google that your site is suddenly targeting a keyword it never was supposed to rank for.

Cos all the keywords you are going to be building new backlinks to your site for, your detonator site will already be ranking for then naturally and sometimes, it will be ranking #1 for these sites already so you won't even need to bother yourself with it anymore

But these occasions are usually rare, the common occasions will be ranking at #8, #13, #5 and #7 positions for these kinds of keyword since you really never targeted them.

So, you find out that all you just need is a little stuff to push your site over the edge to the #1 position something like just adding the keyword in quote to your contents or just sending a few more backlinks to your site with the keyword as the anchor text but if you use the Google keyword tools to pick up keywords that are just related to your site which your site is not even ranking for naturally, you might just be wasting your time, effort, blowing away your money and worst case scenario even displace your already #1 ranked positions since you might just be telling Google that your site is now going in another direction.

Just use those cheap keywords listed in your SEO Power dashboard that Google already ranked for you naturally, it won't change anything apart from getting you more #1 rankings and making you more money.

Warning: Just a slight warning... using Fiverr services can get really ugly, you may be able to find a lot of sellers offering to sell you heaven for just $5 and that's why I don't use it often but because I know some pretty newbies will be reading this course and may not have the $147/month for SenukeX,

I've spared a lot of cash and did a lot of testings on Fiverr and came up with few gigs that I can really recommend you try when it comes to link building (see the link building detonator report for details).

Post-panda update note: the part highlighted with red ink above only now works with big sites with big volume keywords, it's an overload for tiny niche volume site and may shatter your rankings but it works very well when big volume keywords is your main target.

23% Link Indexing, What A Hype?

Ok... I'm not going to get any funny or crappy in this topic cos this part is just as simple as it gets and any more than that makes it all complicated.

Note: when I haven't started using this method, I normally get the 0.5 – 2% index rate and when I started using it, I started getting over 23% backlink indexing rates.

Remember that it doesn't matter whether you built 50,000 links cos if Google indexed only 1% of the links, it means you built only 500 links so don't play with this cos it's very important to achieving your #1 ranking.

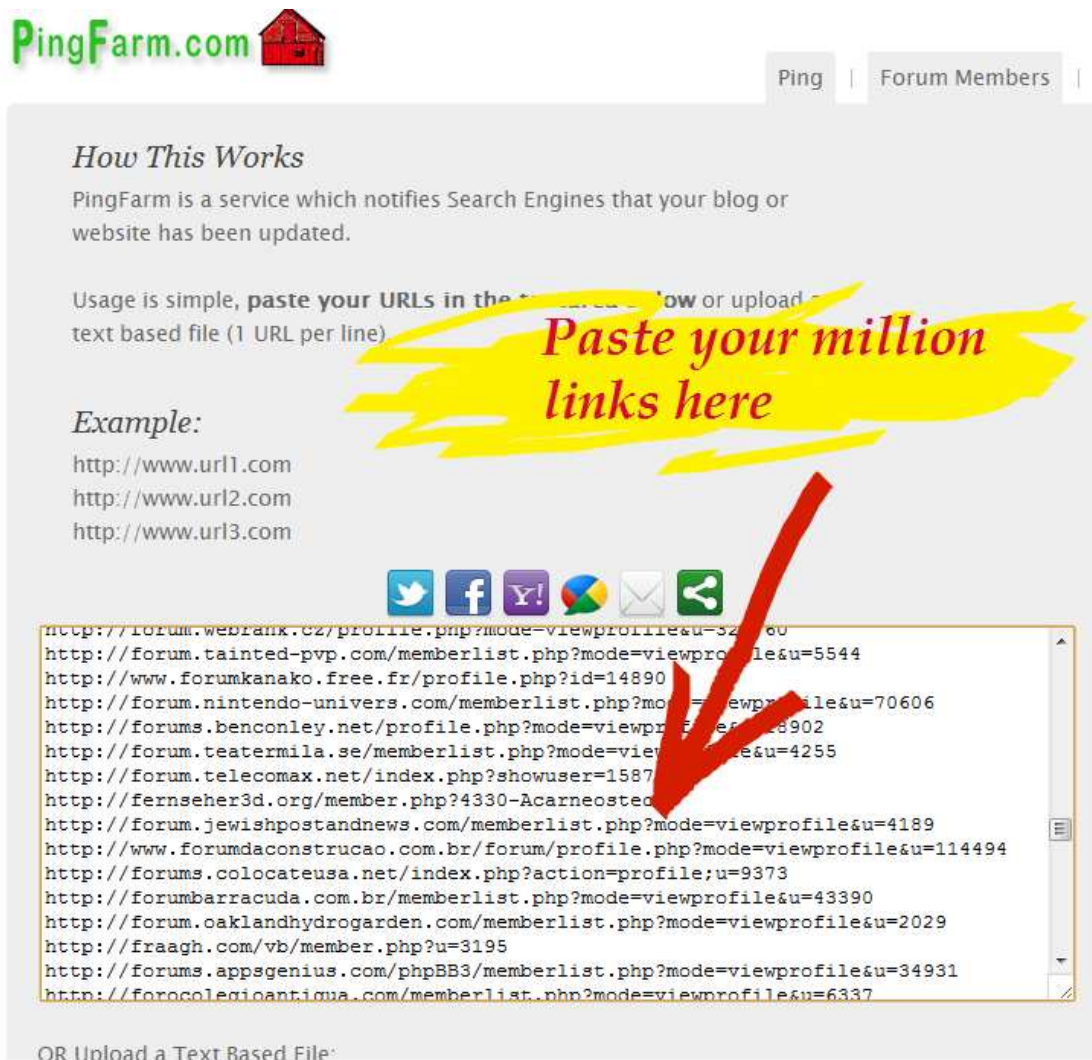

I suppose you already have your list of 20,000 backlinks, right?

I prefer to use flock browser for this part especially if I'm dealing with over 10,000 links cos my Firefox seems to start this "not responding" thing and sometimes, it will just crash if I try to process such large number of links but I guess it's because of the million SEO add-ons I installed on it so I don't know how this part will work out for you if you use Firefox.

Maybe, if you don't have a million SEO add-ons installed on your Firefox browser like me, it will just work out fine

Worst... don't even try using internet explorer (IE) cos it will just crash the whole computer on processing a large list. Use flock or Google chrome except if your Firefox works ok with it.

How This Works

PingFarm is a service which notifies Search Engines that your blog or website has been updated.

Usage is simple, paste your URLs in the text based file or upload a text based file (1 URL per line)

Example:

- <http://www.url1.com>
- <http://www.url2.com>
- <http://www.url3.com>

Paste your million links here

MASS PING!

URLs Pinged: 36510155

Just leave it running in your browser cos this is going to take some time like 30 minutes to even hours, I once processed about 57k links once though I split it up into 2 with Pingfarm running in 2 tabs in ratio of about 30k and about 27k links respectively and it took me up to 4 hours before they were all processed.

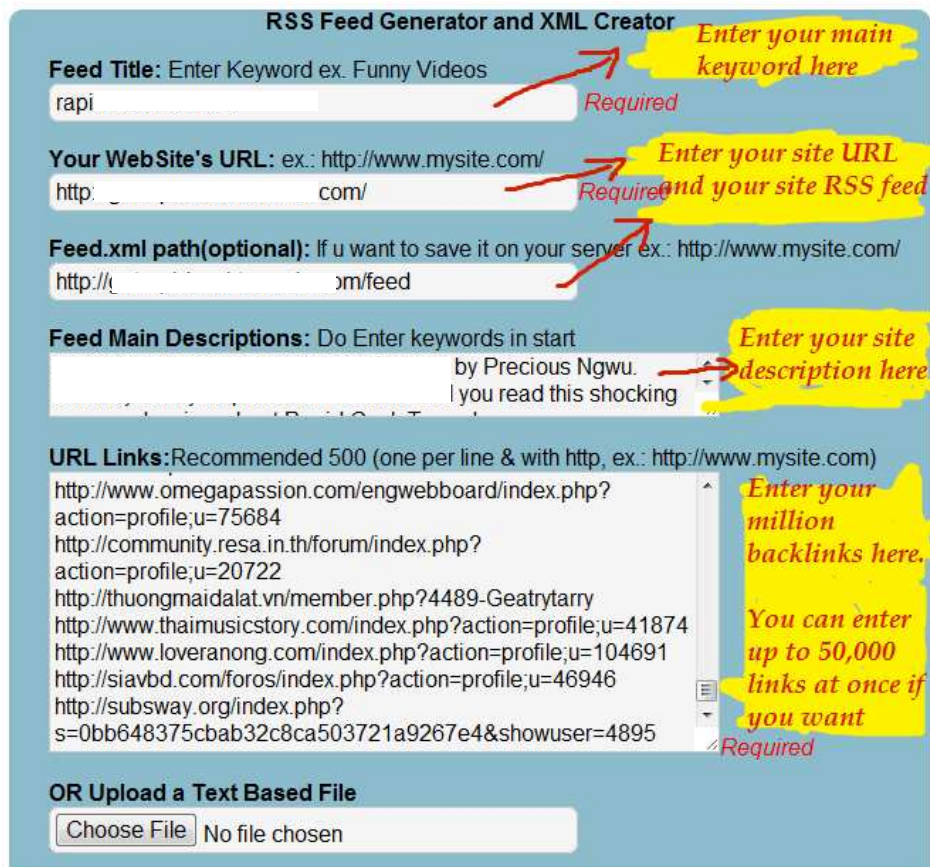

But I like to think that it's just 30 kilobyte per second Nigerian internet that made it take so long.

While the Pingfarm have started running smoothly, head over to www.bulkingping.com and follow these steps strictly cos this part is very important.

Once you are on bulk ping, go to the RSS feed generator page first to create an RSS feed for all you backlinks

Once the page opens, complete the details carefully

The image shows the "RSS Feed Generator and XML Creator" form. It has several fields with red arrows pointing to them and yellow callouts. The "Feed Title" field is labeled "Enter your main keyword here" and contains the text "rapi". The "Your WebSite's URL" field is labeled "Enter your site URL and your site RSS feed" and contains the text "http://www.mysite.com/". The "Feed.xml path(optional)" field is labeled "Enter your site description here" and contains the text "http://www.mysite.com/feed". The "Feed Main Descriptions" field is labeled "Enter your site description here" and contains the text "by Precious Ngwu. I you read this shocking". The "URL Links" field is labeled "Enter your million backlinks here. You can enter up to 50,000 links at once if you want" and contains a list of URLs. The "OR Upload a Text Based File" section has a "Choose File" button and the text "No file chosen".

After completing this part, scroll down to complete the remaining part then you create the RSS feed

Your SEO Frustrations

Ok... just give me a minute and I will be able to help you out through most of the SEO frustrations that can screw with your head, so...

Are You A Dancer, Get Ready?

Yea... if you have some nice dancing moves then get ready cos Google has a sweet music they are going to play for your new site and you must dance to that music.

But what matters is whether you are in control of the music or if the music is in control of you.

Here are the 2 possible case scenarios

- If you are in control of the music, when it's over... you will be ranked #1
- But if the music is in control of you, when it's over... you will be bounced from the entire first 3 pages and worst, you might even get thrown off the entire Google SERPs, I mean your site won't even appear in the first 100 pages.

That is just how bad the Google Dance can get...

Google Dance ::: The Fear of Search Engine Optimizers ::: The Horror of Most Affiliate Marketers

I won't lie to you...

Every day I visit warrior forum (WF), I will see at least 2 newly posted topics shouting "help... my site disappeared on Google"

I bet if you visit WF or any other IM/SEO forums, you will be seeing similar posts and it even got worse that I even see posts from some of the good search engine optimizers I know shouting...

“help... my site has been jumping between #1 and #20 and today it just totally disappeared from Google”

The fact: every new site must attend the Google dance.

Within this period, your site will be jumping through tons of different positions, it might be #8 and in the next 2 hours, it will be at #24 on the third page and maybe tomorrow morning, it will even be the #1 and when you refresh your Google search to see if your site is really the #1 or if it's a mistake, you will then see it at #9... it will just make you go crazy.

Google will just keep on screwing your head around.

And when the dancing gets dirtier, your site will disappear totally from Google SERPs and you won't even see it on page 100 and that is when newbies and even some pro search engine optimizers will start shouting and looking for help.

And that's the biggest mistake.

Instead of using that time in doing something that will make their site come back stronger and better, they use that time for shouting in forums, hating on Google only to finally see their at #13 after 2 months

But tell you what?

I always smile when my site starts Google dancing cos I know that when the music is over, my site will be #1 for the keyword I'm targeting.

In fact, I go to bed every day asking God to buy me a Google dance ticket for my new detonator site fast cos I can't wait to win the #1 price again and I'm always sad if my new site have not started dancing yet.

Here is why?

Because I know how to control the music

And I know how to control my site to stop when it reaches the #1 spot.

Google dance is like this...

Just a guy tied with blindfold and asked to dance around on a floor and once the music stops, whatever is on the spot where he is standing when the music stopped will be his price.

But the problem is that the traditional affiliates and most search engine optimizers don't even have a clue when the music will stop so that they can find a perfect spot to be on in order to win something big and they also allow the music to control their dancing steps

So... they literally have no control over what they are doing or where they are dancing to but a trained Google Detonator knows the dancing moves to make in order to land on the first price when the music stops and how to control when the music will stop once they are on #1 (the biggest price)

And that is why we detonator affiliates are always smiling and having fun once the Google dance starts cos we always know we are going to be the #1 very soon.

We stay in total control of the whole situation...

So, here are what we detonator affiliates do in order to stay in control once the Google dance starts?

Once our site starts dancing, we start building more links and tweaking keyword density no matter what happens

And even if your site drops off the whole search engine, don't stop cos that is when you should even put your link building on full steroids cos Google just pissed you off and you need to let them know that you are the owner of the music they are playing...

That is what I call complete Google Detonation

Here is how it works...

The link building will control your dancing steps and move you to the #1 position while the keyword density will control when the music will stop.

And this will all be in your favor to rank #1

What you need to know is that during this time, you can add or remove anything on your site to improve your rankings like adding those extra pages I talked about before but that won't be necessary most of the times.

Just tweak your keyword densities, I always tune in up a little bit higher this time but I don't allow it to get any more than 7% in overall then for each of the posts on the site, I will lighten up the keyword density a little bit higher from around 2.1% to something like 2.7% but I won't like to get it be higher than 4%.

And sometimes, after tuning all my keyword densities up... I will even tune it down a little to even as low as 1.3% for all my posts and around 4% for the overall site (use SEOQuake for knowing your overall site's keyword density).

But the only constant that never changes here...

Is building links

You just have to keep building more links, get your site on fire with backlinks for the keyword it's dancing for.

If you are not experienced enough to tamper with your keyword density, just keep building links constantly for the keyword you want to rank for and when the music stops, your site will come back stronger and with all those backlinks you built during the dance setting your site on fire, it will disgrace and murder any site at the #1 position.

But this site really made me fear...

After I finished building <http://carallumaactive.net>, within 5 days, my site became #10 for the keyword "caralluma actives" then I pumped in the first 14k links to the site and when my link builder delivered, they both delivered 17k and 21k links (in excess) instead of just the normal 7k links I bought from each of them.

In the next 24 hours, guess what happened...

My site disappeared from Google

I mean, it's no longer on page 1, 2, 3... not even on the first 100 pages (my SEO power plugin reported #10 - 0 Google ranking)

Traffic Travis even said my site doesn't exist in search engines...

This really got me scared

I mean it's not a coincidence, right?

A 5 day old site bombarded with 39,000 links for one single keyword disappearing from the whole of Google system.

Cos normally, my SEO power will be reporting around #82 when my site is dancing but this time, it reported 0 (zero)...

That means, my site is off the Google's system.

What's the worst thing that could happen? I hire a social media optimization company for $450 to promote the site through social media marketing

At least, that was the only safe bet left for me to play...

So, I said... I will just wait it up for 2 months and if nothing happens then I will throw $450 at some social media company or just forget about the site and take it up as one of my failed tests.

But Mike always told me that if he had this kind of problems, he will keep building links, so I decided to throw away extra $50 into the ditch for some cheap PR0 links

But I decided to use Fiverr for this stupid job since the site is already gone...

So, I figured... let me just spare extra $50 and put this whole site on steroids just the way I will tell my buddies when their site is dancing...

I bought backlink services from 10,000 blog comment blasts, to 5k profile links, 1,200 contextual links, 200 squidoo links, 800 micro backlinks, submission to 2,000 article directories, submission to blog networks and just about any kind of link building and SEO services I thought was good...

What's the worst thing that could happen, the site will disappear...

It already has...

I took everything to extreme when I pushed the overall site's keyword density from 4% to 7.32% (overall includes tabs, about me, footers etc)

Everything was a little bit shaky...

My site was already totally off the Google dance floor for over 10 days now

My only fear was whether Google was going to ban all the sites in same IP the site was hosted on, that will mean all my sites gone in Google.

So, I started making plans to share my site through 7 hosting companies... I figured, 15 for each company

By that way, I won't lose them all...

And on the 13th day which was the day I planned making payments to all 7 hosting companies

The craziest thing happened.

The site ranking #1 for caralluma actives was murdered in a disgraceful manner!

And the articlebase.com article ranking at #2 was shamefully sent down to #5

I mean, they was a total shakeup in the sites ranking on the first page, everything changed

Then I knew... a game changer is here

With all these new displacements in the rankings, I knew something out of the ordinary has happened

And I never looked at #1 position cos I wasn't even thinking close to it

So, when I said let me look at #1 and see whether it's a virus causing that kind of scattered ranking or some kind of mole...

Guess who is the mole?

Disgracing and murdering every site blocking its way to #1

The site came back stronger and literally refused to settle for anything less than the #1 position

Since then... it has always been like that, I don't give a crap if my site disappears from earth, I just keep back linking and tuning in my keyword density and by that way, I control the music, the beats and when it will stop, so that when it does, I will be standing right on the #1 position.

Remember, I told you that my #1 ranking strategy is so weird and so unique that it will get you to that #1 and you know it will but you will always be afraid to try it cos each time you do, you know you will be at the edge of Google and testing their limit and most people are afraid of that.

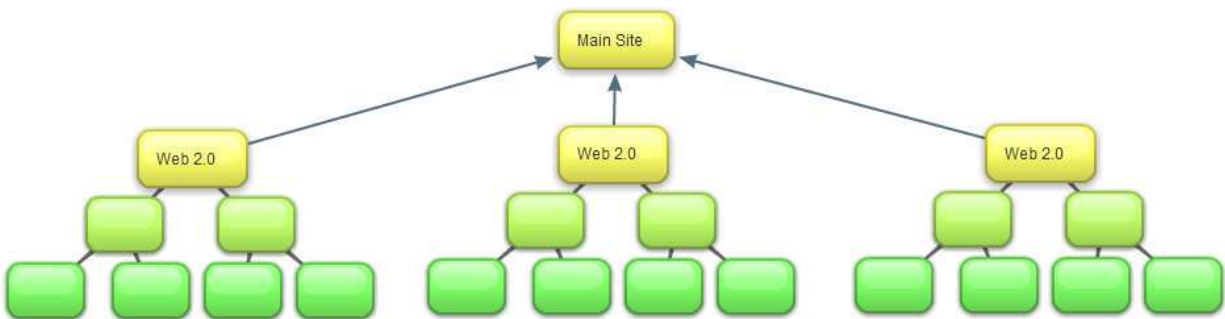

Not everybody is willing to take that chance...

But I do it every other time I build a new site and results as you already know are well over the roof

But I will advise you, if you are afraid and you think all these that I've been saying won't work and moreover, you don't want to put your other site on same hosting account in the Google limit risk.

Just spare extra $7.95 for a new good hosting account just for 1 month and $10 for a new domain name so that you will totally handle this project off the record and I tell you what, before the end of the month that your hosting will expire, you will already be #1 if not, ask for a refund.

Now, ditch those link pyramids!

The buzz from SEO service providers...

Now, they are really going to hate me after I'm done with this topic

Here is why...

When they are selling 3,000 links for $35

They will sell you "135 power link pyramid" for $100

The power link pyramid they claim to be stronger than God doesn't work

Don't hate me yet... you are not the seller or are you?

I'm just trying to save you another $100 that you will be blowing down the drainage pipe if you buy into their hyped power link pyramid scheme

It's all a myth; they wished it really works...

This is what those guys do...

They just show you 10 – 20 layered images with lines up and there displaying 100 linking to 1 and 1,000 link to 100 and all these stuffs is just to make it all look complicated and promising so they could sell you the next generation complex SEO package that will finally get you ranked.

Here is how they came up with this crazy idea...

They believe that new sites with too many backlinks are usually sandboxed by Google and tell you what...

I don't even know where they are getting that idea cos 70% of my sites just have too many links from just a week after their birth and none of my sites have been banned.

Don't say it's my hosting cos I don't even use VPS

And just don't think that its luck I've been flying under the Google radar

Cos if you say so, that means that this my course also has a secret power of making your site fly under the Google's radar no matter what you do

Since all my hommies that I role with downtown here in Nigeria use separate hosting companies from mine and we don't get sandboxed no matter how many links we send to our detonator sites

We only dance a little and the crazy thing is that we even send more links when we start dancing...

You need to let Google know who is in control...

So, when I'm done... I will add that this course also helps you fly under the Google alarm radar no matter what you do on your site.

I bet that will be one hell of a feature...

So, I guess that either those guy's site started dancing after sending a few links there and they panicked and vowed never to send links directly to their site again

Or they really did something to piss Google off.

Either way... it doesn't work out well for them

So, after they made the vow never to point a 100 thousand links to their money site, they came up a strategy on how they will still enjoy the link juice following 100,000 links while they are not really pointing the 100,000 links directly their sites once.

See the lame game plan here

- They will create different layers for the link building say about 5 layers for example.
- In the layer 1, they will create 100 web 2.0 sites which we will point to your money site
- In layer 2, they will create 1,000 links and point it to the 100 web 2.0 sites in layer 1
- In layer 3, they will create 7,000 links and point it to the 1,000 links in layer 2
- In layer 4, they will create 28,900 links and point it to the 10,000 links in layer 3
- In layer 5, they will create 63,000 links and point it to the 28,900 links in layer 4

So... with this plan, they will be getting the link juice for 100,000 links on their money site while they are actually sending 100 web 2.0 links to their money site which is not alarming

Game on boy...

You can game the system if you are a game changer but you can't play the system even if you are a player

What they didn't realize...

Just as the number of links reduces as the layer goes down so does the link juice also reduces

And here is a question I have for you

Is 100,000 PR0 links more powerful in getting you ranked than 100 PR0 links?

Yes or No

I guess the answer is “Yes”

I know what’s next on your mind...

You are thinking what if those web 2.0 sites I sent links to gains something like PR3 or higher, right?

Ok, what if you sent those links to your money site once and it gained PR3, which one sounds better?

The actual number of sites pointing to your site is 100 and let’s say you get a 23% index rate then that means Google will only count 23 links in credit to your site and they is no way that will compete with 23,000 links indexed to another site of a person who built 100,000 links with same 23% index rate.

I don’t just see the argument line here...

Stop being afraid of other affiliate marketers

Cos when they see my detonator signatures, they shit on boots...

Seriously... do you even know my signature?

Ok... here is it.

Tons of links, rapid ranking, controlling the Google dance, disgracing and murdering any site on #1

And once other marketers see this signature, they shit on their boots cos they know the game changer with complete control over Google is here and that the whole ranking on the first page is going to be shaken up.

And even the guy with his site on #1 deletes his site immediately because he doesn't want to be disgraced and still murdered at the end.

They are afraid of the footprint of the guy who have tested the edge of Google over 100 times

And every day, they beg to know my Google ranking secrets...

So, boy... don't be afraid to compete for "project payday review" anymore

Cos with this course, you are already in my mind and they will just see same signature of me when you are coming.

I like to make them live on the edge cos I love the edge too...

You know that affiliate marketers especially the clickbank affiliate marketers promoting IM products build their product review site like 2 – 3 months to the launch of the actual product so that they will start enjoying the aging and stuffs and they spend all those months trying to get on the first page.

Well, I don't... at least not until the last minute

They will be toiling for hours every day in preparation for a product that will launch in 4 months' time but I use those periods to take care of other important things, have fun with every opportunity I get

And in just 6 days to the launch, I will buy a crappy domain like www.projepay-dayrevie.org to target "project payday review" since the "I'm a smart marketer" around must have taken all the closest domains to exact match that is available and then I jump into the competition with my crappy domain with that shameless default wordpress theme

Create a 1,000 word full review and publish on the post (just 1 post to make my money and get out) then backlink and optimize the heck out of it and in less than a day to the product launch, the whole first page ranking will turn upside down with my detonator site at #1 giving them not much time to do anything about it.

Before they gear up and get their site back on track in 2 weeks, the main sales buzz is already over and the guy that walked out in the last minute will be the guy walking out with the biggest payday

They hate me so much for this...

But the worst, they won't even see it coming cos they have no clue that I exist at least not until now that I'm coming out to open up about my secret with my full identity in display

I've been doing a pretty good job in keeping my identity a secret by flying under the radar while walking away with big days (damn... I love IM product launches)

Here is why...

Many of the marketers are clueless on the method I'm using and even those that have a clue about it are literally afraid to test the edge of Google

Most affiliates, when they hear 40,000 links bombarded to a single site once, they go into a very intense shock for you

So, just imagine an army of corn pap... nothing is hard in the meal, right?

That's just how most of the affiliate marketers you fear are, their Google rankings are not that strong and they really don't even have any clue about the fact that they don't really have a strong Google ranking so they are literally doing nothing about it (even when they build links, they mess up).

So... this is your BIG chance to start walking away with huge paydays especially on every clickbank IM product launch.

Marketers hate me so much...

Because I just walk in on the competition at the very last minute (just few hours before product launch) and walk away with all the profits they've been struggling to keep for months

And worst...

After the 2 weeks when the main launch buzz is over, I just delete my site and they will literally have no clue about what just happened

With my strategy, other marketers stand no chance

I just embarrass them and if you follow this course, you will do same to them too, so...

That means that your real competition is not even with all those 1 year old affiliate sites

You should be thinking big...

Think about beating those 4 year old sites with PR3 and above...

And trust me, if you follow this course strictly...

Not even any of those big sites stands a fighting chance

Trust me... your sites will spit fire!

And you will be the fire man

You will establish your own Google Murder terror era, so...

The Google Bump Nightmare

Ok, I hate to admit this but it's true so I'm just going to throw my ego in the shelves for now and tell you about this tiny secret.

Just here me out first, don't panic...

It's just a little problem we meet every now and then in this Google War
Sometimes, it will be as if you just hit a road block in your ranking...

You will be doing so well and all of a sudden, you site will stop moving further once it hits #2 or even around #3 position or so.

And at this point, no matter what you do and how many backlinks you build, it will just look like it will never move forward ever again.

You just hit Google bump

It only means one thing...

Forum profile links and blog comment links just can't cut it anymore...

Google wants more from you, I mean you can do better than just giving them a huge assignment of indexing 100,000 forum profile links every day.

Though this doesn't happen often but it occasionally does. At least, I experience this problem with about 3 – 5% of my newly built sites

And there is every possibility that you might experience it too even with your very first site.

I mean, you literally know that you suppose to rank higher than the site above but you are not just seeing it happen no matter how much links you build or no matter how far you optimize your onpage SEO

The Google bump is one of the most frustrating things I've ever seen in search engine optimization

But just a mere understanding of what Google wants from you makes crossing over the bump placed in front of your site rankings as simple as spelling "Google".

When you notice that your site just hit the Google bump, here is what to do immediately...

Repair your title: If that you have your primary keyword appear only once in your site's title then increase to 2 or 3 and if you don't have it quotes then repair it and put it in quotes.

Example: if you have your primary keyword only once...

Caralluma Actives - Discover How You Can Lose Weight Taking this Weight Loss Pill

Change it to something like...

Caralluma Actives - Lose Weight with Caralluma Actives Today

Another Example: if the primary keyword is not in quotes when trying to rank for something like "leash training puppies"...

How to Start Leash Training Your Puppies (not in quote)

Change it to something like...

How to Start Leash Training Puppies (in quote)

Same rule applies to your site's description, you need to have the primary keyword in quote if it's not there or increase the number of times it appears from something like 2 - 3 times if your keyword is already present when you hit the Google bump.

Note that upping your keyword density doesn't really matter here as it won't change a thing except if your site has a really low keyword density of something like 1% then you can up it to something like 3 - 4%

Now... the major thing

Once you are done, tighten up the loosened screws in your onpage SEO then you move over to actually tidying up the main part that will finally push you over the Google bump and get your site to the #1 position.

Build more links...

But this time, only web 2.0 and contextual links

This is mostly the reason why most sites are stopped by the Google bump, if their competitors build most of their links from web 2.0 and contextual texts or just that Google wants you to get links from actual contents before your site moves in ranking.

But either way, you will cross over the Google bump on your site once you've built these contextual links from web 2.0 sites.

Getting these links...

On the long-run, all Google wants and all it takes to cross over the Google bump is just a couple of contextual links, nothing big

They are 2 ways I use for getting them...

1. Submit my site to high PR blog networks and private article networks
2. Submit to Ning power

High PR Blog Networks: this is basically the first thing I do once I discover that my site has hit the Google bump and it basically pushes my site over within a couple of days but if my site is still trapped then I will integrate the ning sites

These high PR blog and private article networks are pretty much monthly services and I have 4 accounts with different networks myself but make sure that before buying different networks of high PR blog/private article networks to get contextual links that it's still profitable for the site you want to push over.

Note: I just love using this method cos my contents gets to be spread across a lot C-class IPs and moreover my links will appear on homepage of high PR networks which is pretty good in improving ranking.

Here are the networks I use are

- SEO Link Vine

- Unique Article Wizard
- Article Ranks

Some people on Fiverr will also offer to submit your site to these networks for just $5, see the link building detonator report for details but I recommend you join the private article networks since their charges are not much and you get to submit your contents in an unlimited manner.

You can submit to as many as you want, I will also advise you to just buy some these services once you start back linking your sites so that you won't even have to keep one open waiting till when the Google bump will hit your site before you do it.

I just basically include it as one of my back linking tactics these days and it's been working out so well

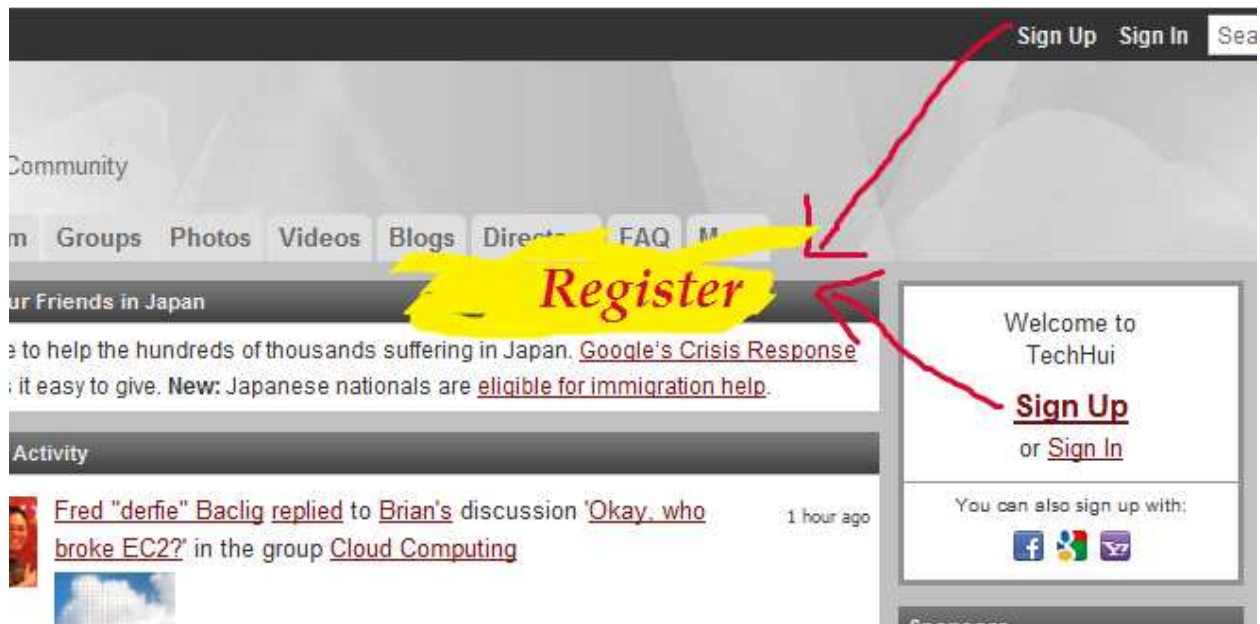

Ning Power, from the gods: The ning power, my close ultimatum to crushing the Google bump. Basically, all your links will be PR0 but the power is so much that it can be compared with a PR2 link.

It's just so powerful especially for crushing Google bumps...

You don't even have to go all through the list, just about 20 is good enough to get over any bump, sometimes... I will still be at #11 and my site will already cross, these sites are very much respected by Google and they are also great in moving SERPs so basically these days, I just include them once I'm setting up a new site, I will just create about 20 – 30 of them and once they start indexing and when Google bump comes anywhere close to your site, they will just crush it.

Enough talks on how amazing they are... let me just show you what to do

First register on a network

Once you hit those signup links, a new page will open where you will enter your details like email and passwords.

Then hit the signup button on the page after entering the details and you will be taking to a new page that looks like the one below to complete your registration.

The registration form includes the following fields and instructions:

- Full Name : Enter your name, maybe a pen name or something like that.
- Gender: ☐ Male ☐ Female ☐ Don't Display. Instruction: chose gender, your country (USA, Canada & UK always works better) then select a few stuffs there as your occupation.
- Country : Select... (dropdown menu).
- Occupation: A list of checkboxes for various professions including Analyst, Aerospace Engineer, Blogger / Vlogger / New Media Writer, Chemical Engineer, Civil Engineer, Computer Hardware Engineer, Consultant, Database Administrator, Database Developer, Digital Designer, Educator, Electrical Engineer, Environmental Engineer, Executive, HTDC Employee or Board Member, Industrial Engineer, Investor, IT Technical Support/Help Desk, Manager, Materials Engineer, Mechanical Engineer, Network/Systems Administrator, Nuclear Engineer, Project Manager, Quality Assurance Engineer, Software Developer, Student, Web Developer, and Other.
- Company: Your Keyword Firm. Example: Caralluma Actives Firm. Instruction: Enter your company name, something like "Your Keyword Firm".
- Areas of Interest (Robotics, Software Architecture, Green Energy, Web 2.0, etc.): : Enter your interests here and make sure you include your keyword. Instruction: Write a few things about what you like and make sure you include your keyword in it.

Example of what I will use in the area of interest: I'm a blogger and I love reviewing IM products as an affiliate, check out my latest review site on my detonator keyword at my detonator site, I wanted to learn programming now that's why I joined this site

Company: My keyword firm

The screenshot shows a registration form titled "Software Language Proficiencies / Interests:". It contains several sections with red annotations:

- Software Language Proficiencies / Interests: A grid of checkboxes for various programming languages and technologies. A red arrow points to the "C#" checkbox with the text "select a few".
- About Me: A large text input field. A red arrow points to it with the text "Write a little about you and make sure you include your link and keywords but they should not be alarming."
- Website: A text input field with "http://" pre-filled. A red arrow points to it with the text "Your affiliate site".
- Secondary Website: A text input field with "http://" pre-filled. A red arrow points to it with the text "Maybe a topic in your affiliate site".
- Twitter Username: A text input field.
- Join Button: A red button labeled "Join" is circled in red.
- Terms of Service: A link labeled "Terms of Service" is visible at the bottom of the form.

Note: some of the website will "pend the approval" of your membership in other to approve it manually cos that's what retains their quality so don't put up anything that will spell a desperate link builder.

But some of them will just accept you automatically

Ok, here is a little thing I forget that you need to know...

Exactly how you tidy up your "about me" so that it won't shout. Ban me... I'm just using you to cross Google road Bump

A screenshot of a web form. At the top, there is a text input field. Below it is a section titled "What are your areas of interest?" with the text "mommyhood, business, blogging, work-at-home, reality tv". The main part of the form is a large text area containing a paragraph of text. A red arrow points to the text area. At the bottom right of the text area, there are two buttons: "Save" and "Cancel". The "Save" button is circled in red.

Well, what can I say... I'm just a 29 year old single mother of 3 who is trying to get her life together and hanging out with friends when I can. I work at the Maryland General Hospital, Baltimore and it's been going great so far. I love my body so much and how it appears so I try working out every weekend for about 3 hours and about 30 minutes every morning on weekdays to stay smart, slim and sexy, recently I heard about caralluma actives, a new weight loss product and I'm sure that most of you might have heard about it somewhere or in the media, I tried the stuff and it works but the most amazing thing I found out about this weight loss pill is the appetite suppressant ability unlike the green teas and hoodia that I have used that will make you tired and hungry after taking them, this one takes care of that.

Closing Recap

Just before I wrap it up, let me just let you in on one little dirty secret. Someone, actually tried persuading me into selling you this one full course thrice as a double through upsells

Yea, one of my buddies who came close to a sneak peak on this course today told me that I've given away so much that I should have divided it into 3 and sold out for upsells, sound like a pretty good idea, right?

But no... at least not to me, if a course is not complete then it's not a complete course.

And what I'm giving you is a complete course with the A - Z of how I get my consistent #1 rankings and if I cut out anything then that means I'm no longer giving you the A - Z, right?

Now, what will do with my A - Z consistent #1 ranking course?

So, I basically rejected his greedy offer because of how much joy I will get when I see those testimonies of your successful #1 ranking flooding my email box day in day out.

And that's why I took so much time to lay it all down so that you can start doing something that will be really putting in some serious cash into your bank account every other payday.

So, what will you be the doing to you competitors with this course?

Nuke them to the ground or kick their butts?

Either way, something must is going down

But on a more serious note here...

You are really going to nuke competitions with this course

Trust me; I know cos I kick a lot of butts myself...

Just get out there and murder your competitors

Rank #1 when and where you want...

You will be in complete control of Google

Google dance and Google bumps have stands no chance against your detonator sites...

Note to newbies: let me not be fancy here or it will affect you. If you are a regular affiliate or you already have some good background experience in affiliate marketing and SEO, you will have immediate success spike with this course, I mean consistent #1 rankings and exploded affiliate profits but if you are newbie, I mean if this is your first time of setting up a site and trying to rank it on Google or you don't have a good background in some basic SEO, you might have few ups and down.

But if you are serious and you pick a good keyword that you can easily dominate, you won't really have much of a problem. SEO is just like a ladder, you move up in steps, you can't jump to the top just that once. First dominate low competition keywords and stay on it until you start getting consistent #1 rankings for that grade of keywords then move up to higher ones and up and up you will go and before you know it, your sites will be spitting fire and your sites will start having the Google Murder footprints that is the horror of every affiliate marketer.

It's very much necessary you follow these steps because once you do, this course is guaranteed to give you an edge over traditional affiliates (they will stand no chance).

Do you even know that sites considered as failed sites by those who followed my instructions in Google Detonator are those their sites are ranking on the first page of Google only that it's not the #1 for the keyword they were targeting.

This means that as a GD affiliate marketer, you will never get anything short of first page ranking on Google if you follow my guides and instructions in this course...

Fact is this... you can never fail with Google Detonator, its #1 or nothing else and worse comes to worst, you get a first page of Google rankings. It's a win-win situation for you here. Tell me... any other IM course ever gave you this kind of opportunity with Google before?

See man, when I talk in IM/SEO seminars anywhere I go (especially in my hometown), 42 year old affiliates listen to me even if they don't know a thing about me cos they know only one fact about which is that I know how to get results and that is exactly what I'm teaching you now...

So buddy...

Just get out there and kick some butts for me...
