By DALIA BALIGH
Associated Press Writer
ALEXANDRIA, Egypt — Prime Minister Shimon Peres of Israel and President Hosni Mubarak shook hands today and began private talks that both men said were aimed at reviving the dormant Middle East peace process.

It was the first Egyptian-Israeli summit in five years and the 12th since Mubarak's predecessor, the late Anwar Sadat, began the two countries' rapprochement by going to Jerusalem in 1977.

The private meeting began 30 minutes later than scheduled, at 4:30 p.m., at the 19th century Ras el-Tin presidential palace in Alexandria, about 130 miles north of Cairo.

Mubarak and Peres, who arrived at the palace separately in helicopters, shook hands but did not embrace. They then walked into a meeting room alone.

Israeli officials said there was no formal agenda.

"Both sides wanted an open-ended dialogue," said one Israeli official, speaking on condition of anonymity. "We view this as a positive thing which indicates Egypt's willingness to listen."

Security in Alexandria was heavy. Soldiers lined the seaside corniche leading to the palace, the site of the last Israeli-Egyptian summit in August 1981, between Sadat and Israel's Menachem Begin.

"We shall not permit the peace process to die away or to fade away, and we shall do whatever we can to bring life and spirit to the momentum for peace," Peres vowed in Tel Aviv before boarding a jet for Alexandria.

Whether the summit would take place remained in doubt until late Wednesday, when a last-minute accord was reached on a 4½-year-old border dispute. Mubarak had refused to meet Peres until the dispute was settled over the 250-acre Red Beach resort of Taba.

Senate plan on tax hikes under study

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN — A so-called "Senate tax bill" with two-thirds of the Senate listed as co-sponsors, has been sent to the Senate Finance Committee for a possible public hearing.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan. "I have not asked a hearing on the resolution," Caperton told reporters. "We just want to have something here we can talk over and gather testimony on so we will be ready to act when a tax bill comes over from the House, if one does come over."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said Tuesday the resolution was merely a means of "expediting the procedure."

According to the state constitution, any tax bill must originate in the House. The Senate cannot vote on a tax bill unless it is sent one approved by the House.

Throughout the unsuccessful 30-day first special session, the House held out for deep budget cuts to solve the state's financial woes. Hobby and most senators have contended an increase in taxes is needed, to augment the budget cuts.

Cut first, then tax, says Lewis

By MICHAEL HOLMES

AUSTIN — The Texas House will pass a tax increase if that's the only way to keep state government from writing hot checks, but the time hasn't arrived yet, Speaker Gib Lewis says.

"Some people's attitude is tax, then cut. Our attitude is cut, then tax," Lewis said Wednesday.

Lack of House support for a tax increase was blamed for the failure of the Legislature's first budget-balancing special session to solve the deficit now estimated at $2.8 billion.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, a Senate majority and Gov. Mark White have urged since Aug. 6 that a sales tax increase be enacted with spending cuts to balance the books.

Feds to stay out of absentee case

U.S. Attorney Bob Wortham announced Wednesday that his office and the Tyler FBI will have no part in an investigation into forged ballot requests for Saturday's District 1 Senate election between Richard Anderson and Edd Hargett.

Wortham's statement said "On Thursday Sept. 4, the U.S. Attorney's office for the eastern district of Texas and the Tyler Federal Bureau of Investigations were referred a potential voting fraud case involving 156 questionable absentee ballots requests. After reviewing the facts and finding no federal candidate on the ballot, there is no federal jurisdiction which will allow the FBI to become involved in the investigation."

Wortham's statement continued, "Harrison County District Attorney Bonnie Leggat will be conducting the investigation into this matter. She has informed the U.S. Attorney that anyone with information concerning this potential voting fraud case should contact Glenn Elliott with the Texas Rangers."

Harrison County District Attorney Bonnie Leggat on Wednesday called claims by county Republican officials that she is suppressing evidence in a forgery investigation an attempt by the GOP to "smear" her office.

Quinton Rogers, county Republican chairman, said in a written statement published in a news story in Wednesday's News Messenger that Ms. Leggat should release evidence in a case involving 156 forged absentee ballot applications for Saturday's senate race between Edd Hargett and Richard Anderson.

However, Ms. Leggat said, she has offered several times to make copies of the forged applications available to both campaign staffs or anyone else who wanted to see them.

JISD adds new computer program

By LAUREEN TEDESCO
Staff Writer

JEFFERSON — After just two weeks of school, Roy Wyatt is the most popular man at Jefferson Elementary School.

Children passing his classroom stare in, oohing and aahing. On the playground, he's constantly greeted by children he doesn't know.

The "computer man" taught third grade at Jefferson Elementary last year, but since the $60,000 computer tutoring lab arrived, he's enjoyed new status.

Wyatt will teach the first-, second- and third-grade classes that will use the lab three times a week. Children were skills-tested this week, he said, and computer programs will be "prescribed" to address each child's weaknesses.

"It's going to prescribe that child a program that is interesting to them," Wyatt said. "I'll prescribe that interest level for the age of the child, so a ninth-grade child won't be reading Dick and Spot."

The Prescription Learning lab is one of five of its kind in Texas. Wyatt told the school board when he demonstrated the lab Wednesday night. There are other similar labs in the state, but those are less efficient, he said.

"I think it's fabulous," principal Carol Harrell said. "The potential is just unlimited for what we can do with it."

The lab has five Apple computers tied to an IBM monitor, which Wyatt can use to write the children personal messages on their screens. "If the teacher sees a kid playing around," Wyatt said, he can write a message on the monitor so the child's computer screen says, "Get to work." Or it can wish the child well on an upcoming test. The monitor also records test scores and Wyatt can print and post the work children do on the computer.

"You've truly got the state-of-the-art in education," Jane Lovelady of the Prescription Learning company said. "This is truly ahead of the country."

Another lab station has Dukane machines, which show slides. Other stations have tape players, teacher instruction and workbooks. The stations are marked with color-coded shapes so students can find their own place, and each computer carrel has color-coded diagrams showing children how to load their computers. The Harrison County Commissioners Court announced at a press conference today that $10,000 for a Red Cross water safety program at a city swimming pool complex will be included in the county's 1987 budget proposals.

County Judge Richard Anderson said the press conference was not a meeting and no vote would be taken, but that the commissioners wanted to show their support for the city of Marshall's swimming pool project.

BULLETIN BOARD

Cutting horse association to meet

An organizational meeting of the East Texas Cutting Horse Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 18 at the Cap Ranch, between Lindale and Minden.

The association has recently undergone a thorough reorganization, said Mickey D. Smith, president. "We are striving to build a strong and creditable club that will be recognized throughout this area. We will also be working with other associations in our area in planning and organizing cutting horse events."

The first National Cutting Horse Association-approved show, scheduled for Oct. 11-12 in Athens, will be one topic of discussion for the meeting.

Dinner will be served at the meeting for $2.50 per person for a combination ribeye steak and rib platter. The dinner is optional should anyone want to attend the meeting only. Smith said. Reservations are suggested.

For more information or directions to the Cap Ranch, contact Ellen Wheeler at 214-587-4178 or 214-629-2611, or write to her at Rt. 5, Box 270, Canton, Texas 75103.

Hall to speak to bar association

GILMER — Federal Judge Sam B. Hall Jr. of Marshall will be the guest speaker at a Sept. 18 meeting of the Northeast Texas Bar Association at Gilmer Country Club.

Four other federal judges for the Eastern District of Texas have been invited as guests.

The meeting is sponsored by the Upshur County Bar Association. Ribeye steaks will be served for dinner.

The Harrison County Bar Association will sponsor a meeting in Marshall Jan. 15. The president of the State Bar of Texas will be the guest speaker. Members will sponsor "Ladies Night," and wives of Marshall lawyers have been invited. The program includes a half hour of country and western songs.

CPI family picnic set for Saturday

The second annual Conductor Products Inc. family picnic will be held Saturday at Rosborough Springs from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Events include roller skating, sack races, pie-eating contests and an egg toss. Department teams will compete in horseshoes, volleyball and tug-of-war. The winning tug-of-war team will represent CPI in the FireAnt Festival tug-of-war contest.

Other activities include a cake-baking contest, bingo and all-day dunking in the dunking booth.

Prizes include trophies, plaques, ribbons and money will be given away. Each person attending will receive a prize and one person will win an all-expense paid Dallas Cowboy weekend for two to see the Cowboy-Redskins game.

Workshop on teen drug abuse slated

The Willoughby Juvenile Center will host an Adolescent Drug and Alcohol Abuse Assessment and Intervention Workshop Sept. 23 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The workshop is free. The workshop is designed for area probation officers but limited space is available for public participation. Interested persons should contact Sara Garrett at the Willoughby Juvenile Center at 938-8576 to confirm space for the program. Participants should plan to provide their own lunch, Mrs. Garrett said.

The workshop will deal with the signs of teen-age alcohol and drug abuse, withdrawal symptoms and ways parents can intervene if they suspect that their teen has a drug problem.

Meeting on school bond issue set

The Greater Marshall Chamber of Commerce will host a meeting to discuss the proposed Marshall school bond issue Thursday at 4 p.m. in the chamber's board room on Austin Street.

School officials will offer a presentation on the bond issue and answer questions. The public is invited.

The school bond issue election is set for Sept. 16.

Craig to speak at ETBU convocation

Dr. Robert Craig, president of East Texas Baptist University, will speak at ETBU's fall convocation at 10 a.m. Friday in Scarborough Chapel.

Faculty and staff members will dress in full academic regalia for the event, which is part of the college's chapel assembly program.

Craig will be inaugurated as the school's 10th president Tuesday in a service of dedication by the trustees, faculty, staff and students.

Five Marshall men sentenced to prison by district judge

By SHERRI MOORE
Staff Writer

District Judge Sam Baxter sentenced five Marshallites to prison terms Wednesday after the men pleaded guilty to their respective offenses.

Larry Collard of Houston pleaded guilty to unauthorized use of a motor vehicle Wednesday, according to District Attorney Bonnie Leggat. Baxter sentenced Collard to two years in the Texas Department of Corrections, Ms. Leggat said.

Three men accused by authorities of breaking into K&B Drug on Pinecrest Drive in June earned a total of 22 years in prison Wednesday, according to Ms. Leggat.

David Cooks, 19, 1303 Elysian Fields Ave., pleaded guilty to burglary of a business Wednesday in connection with the K&B Drug break-in. Ms. Leggat said. Baxter sentenced Cooks to 10 years confinement in the state prison system.

Essau Lamkin and Jacob Lamkin, both 18 and of Marshall, were each sentenced to six years in TDC after both pleaded guilty to burglary of a business, Ms. Leggat said.

Jasper Jernigan, 30, of 206 Milton St. pleaded guilty to third-degree felony theft Wednesday, Ms. Leggat said. Jernigan earned four years in TDC under a provision of the state penal code designed for multiple "petty" offenders, Ms. Leggat said.

"People who have been convicted twice on misdemeanor theft or shoplifting can be fined on for a third-degree felony when they commit a third similar offense," Ms. Leggat said.

Ms. Leggat said Jernigan was accused of shoplifting a bottle of Scotch from a local liquor store.

New community education courses offered for fall; selection largest yet

By LAUREN TIEDER
Staff Writer

Courses in watercolor, floral design, career counseling, hunter safety, genealogy and stress management are among the new offerings in the Marshall community education program this fall.

This year's selection of 24 courses is the largest yet, partly because more and more people are offering to teach classes, director Nina Baxter said. "It really is a neat opportunity for people to share skills, knowledge that they have. By and large, our instructors have told us that it is very rewarding working with these people who are there because they want to learn."

Course selections are based on instructor abilities, suggestions of an advisory council and community requests. "What they want is what we want to offer," Mrs. Baxter said.

One new course, floral design, was offered at the suggestion of instructor Debbie Hoffman, who sometimes teaches horticulture for the program. Students in the three-week course will meet twice a week to learn floral design and arrangements using cut and silk flowers and make corsages, boutonnières and wreaths.

Experimenting with watercolor, one in a series of art classes, was included after repeated requests for watercolor instruction. Mrs. Baxter said. Instructor Sally Martin will stress color and design in the six-week course for all levels of ability, she said.

Consumers can save 30 to 50 percent on grocery costs by shopping with coupons, refunding instructor Pat Kirkpatrick claims. Mrs. Baxter heard of the refunding teacher's coupon-saving techniques, and asked her to teach the course. "She has it really refined," Mrs. Baxter said. "When I talked with her it was amazing to me the amount that she saved on groceries."

When friends asked teacher Beth Rustenhaven to teach them stenciling, she offered to teach it for community education. Mrs. Baxter said. The course will cover stenciling on paper, fabric and wood and creating original designs.

In furniture finishing and repair, another new class, participants will bring their own projects and get tips and hands-on experience in furniture restoration.

Other new courses are stress management, introduction to genealogy, hunter safety and career counseling.

Computer literacy, which focuses on personal computers using the Apple IIe, is the only computer course offered this semester. "The only computer course we offer, but we just don't have the instructors," Mrs. Baxter said. Enrollment in the course is limited.

Brochures listing courses are available at the chambers of commerce and in banks and supermarkets all over Marshall, Mrs. Baxter said.

Community education is intended to involve the community in the schools, she said. "We're utilizing a facility (Marshall High School) that people in the community are supporting with their taxes."

"We've had a really good response with this," she said.

Course lengths and fees vary with the topics and instructors, and some courses, such as watercolor, require materials not included in the fee.

Registration for the program is 4-6 p.m. Sept. 16 in Marshall High School's cafeteria. Mail-in registration ends Friday. Enrollment is on a first-come, first-serve basis, with a minimum of six to eight people in each class.

Deadline at hand for naming newest addition to FireAnt Festival 'critters'

By SHERRI MOORE
Staff Writer

Names are rolling in by the dozens for the soon-to-be addition to Freddie and Elvira FireAnt's mound.

The "blushing" couple, while on a break from their duties as official mascots for the East Texas FireAnt Festival, decided to start a family. The pair announced the arrival of their new addition last month at a press conference at the Greater Marshall Chamber of Commerce.

The baby is expected in early October, according to festival co-chairmen Jeff Floyd and Karen Scroggins. The baby fire ant will arrive just in time to join its proud mom and pop for this year's festival, set for Oct. 10-12.

The expectant parents will soon begin studying prepared "ant-birth" at Marshall Memorial Hospital, the site of the blessed event.

The East Texas FireAnt Festival committee began a "name the baby" contest to help Freddy and Elvira name their offspring.

Marshallites and Harrison County residents put on their thinking caps and the names began rolling in.

One Longview entrant wrote, "Congratulations on the announcement of the coming blessed (or unblessed, one more fire ant can't make that much difference) event of the new addition to Freddy and Elvira FireAnt. My choice for a name for the little one would be girl — Farah FireAnt, and boy — Little Hector FireAnt."

Entries should be submitted to the Greater Marshall Chamber of Commerce at 213 W. Austin St. or mail them to P.O. Box 520, Marshall, Texas 75670. The contestants' name, address and telephone number must be included.

Entries are limited to one girl fire ant name and one boy fire ant name per contest.

The deadline is noon Friday and the decision of the name selection committee will be final.

The winner will be announced at the birth of the baby fire ant in early October, Floyd said.

The person who submits the best name for the new addition to the festival's slew of "critters" will be an honored guest at this year's festival.

The grand prize for the winner will be an East Texas FireAnt Festival gift package, including a FireAnt Festival T-shirt, wind-breaker, cap, mug and other festival memorabilia. The winner will be a special guest of the East Texas FireAnt Festival committee during this year's event and will have the chance to ride with Freddy and Elvira in the annual parade and serve as a celebrity judge, according to Floyd.

Absentee vote on bond issue ending

By LAUREN TIEDER
Staff Writer

Walk-in absentees voting on the school district's $5.1 million bond proposal held Friday, and votes to date are just over half the absentee count in the last contested school board election.

The bond issue, up for election Sept. 16, calls for a ninth-grade addition to Marshall High School, 20 elementary classrooms at four district schools and a transportation center.

Pennberton High School, a ninth-grade school, would become storage and office space for maintenance and instructional services. Its auditorium, library and cafeteria would be preserved for community use.

Walk-in votes were up to 130 this morning, 13 more than Wednesday, said Wendell Jones, the school district's absentee voting officer. Jones expects the total to reach the 250 mark in votes in the last contested school board election, April 1984.

Thirty mail-in ballots have been returned so far, Jones said, out of 87 applied for. The deadline for applications was Tuesday, and ballots must be in by the Sept. 16 election.

Of the 438 mail-in applications in the 1984 school board election, 300 were returned, Jones said. Figures for the last bond election, in 1978, are no longer available, he said.

A four-grade high school would save the district money on buses, utilities, instruction and maintenance, superintendent Pat Smith says, with expenses and personnel concentrated

Unions take it in the chops with fee ruling

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK
WASHINGTON — Back in March of 1983, Annie Lee Hudson and three other Chicago teachers went to court. They were fed up with paying a "service fee" to the Chicago Teachers Union. They wanted some of their money back, and they wanted an injunction to stop the imposition on their rights.

Three years later they got what they wanted. On March 3, an unanimous Supreme Court, speaking through Justice Stevens, dropped a large bomb on labor unions generally and on public unions particularly. Six months later, thanks to the National Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation, we are beginning to discover what Annie wrought. The Hudson case is bringing whole flocks of chickens home to roost.

On Aug. 25 in Kalamazoo, Mich., U.S. District Judge Richard A. Enslin handed down an opinion, based upon Hudson, that can best be described as a shocker. The suit was filed by James P. Lehner and three other tenured members of the faculty of Ferris State College in Big Rapids, Mich. Their complaint paralleled that of Annie Lee Hudson. Under a union shop agreement between the college and the Ferris Faculty Association, they were compelled to pay a "service" or "agency" fee to the union. They were politically and ideologically opposed to many of the union's positions. Like Hudson, they wanted some of their money back, and they wanted a stop to the practice.

During the 1981-82 school year, which provided a benchmark for the Ferris College suit, every member of the bargaining unit paid dues of $284. Of this sum, $24.80 went to the Ferris Faculty Association, $211.20 to the Michigan Education Association and $48 to the National Education Association. It was the court's task, pursuant to Supreme Court guidelines, to determine what part of these sums went for collective bargaining, contract administration and grievance adjustment.

Only these expenses may be properly and proportionally charged to the non-union objectors as a service fee.

After exhaustive discovery proceedings and a long trial, Judge Enslin came down with some stunning figures. He concluded that the Ferris Faculty Association had done pretty well by the plaintiffs: 81 percent of the $24.80 in annual dues had been expended on permissible purposes. It was a different story with the MEA and the NEA. Only 3.4 percent of the state association's share and only 2.75 percent of the NEA's share were devoted to permissible expenses. Put another way, more than 95 percent of the annual dues paid to the state and national unions were not properly related to collective bargaining, contract administration and grievance adjustment. By stipulation, the findings as to 1981-82 were to be applicable to the next four years. The plaintiffs will get a nice bundle of cash in rebates, and they will get 10 times that much in satisfaction.

The principles of the Hudson decision are altogether sound. In most cases involving teachers, firefighters, social workers and other public employees, 90 percent to 95 percent of the affected workers are willing and voluntary members of a union. It is well settled that the maverick 5 percent to 10 percent may be compelled to pay something to the union for the services that willy-nilly they receive. But the dissenters may not be compelled to pay for services unrelated to a contract. For example, they may not be compelled to pay any part of the money a union spends in support of the Equal Rights Amendment or the candidacy of Walter Mondale.

Determining permissible and impermissible expenditures is no easy task. In the Ferris College case, the court noted that it was "not much aided" by the state and national unions. We may infer a certain amount of stonewalling at high levels. Henceforth the unions will have to produce audited records of actual expenditures. The burden of proof will fall squarely on them.

It has been a busy six months since Hudson for the Right to Work Legal Defense Foundation. It is supporting similar suits involving teachers in Cleveland, firefighters in Chicago, and state employees in Illinois and Michigan. The litigation culminates 30 years of unrelenting effort in behalf of non-union workers who resent the compulsions of a union shop.

There is more to come. The principles and guidelines established by the Supreme Court apparently protect the rights of non-union workers in private employment as well as in governmental service. Unions may be reimbursed for the actual services they can prove they provide. Beyond that, say the objectors, nuts to you!

Pool project in good shape, despite setbacks

You might think from the headlines of the last week that Marshall's bid for a community swimming pool was going down for the third time. It's not so.

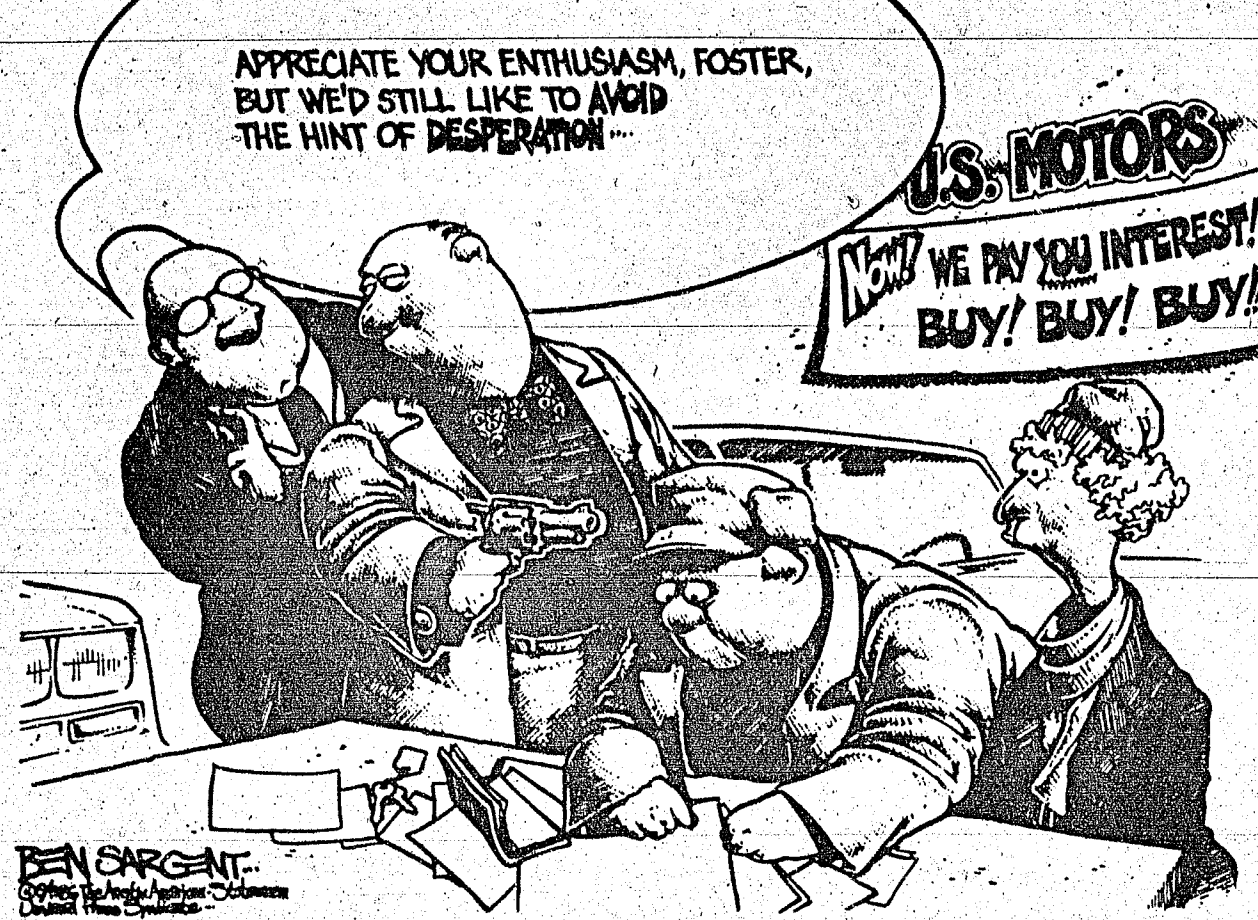

Despite some setbacks and misuses, the drive is going forward, with leadership provided by City Manager Tony Williams and especially by Ken Carile, president-elect of the Marshall Chamber of Commerce.

The biggest problem has been in the form of new federal guidelines that threw a monkey wrench into plans to lease Marshall High School land for the pool. The new rules require a 40-year nonrevocable lease and permanent dedication of the land to outdoor recreation. But Williams says he's confident the problems will be resolved.

Problems — frustrations, really — developed further Wednesday when confusion arose over what, if anything, Harrison County commissioners were committing to in terms of funding. That was resolved this morning when the county judge and commissioners called a press conference to say they will consider including $10,000 in funding for Red Cross swimming lessons in the county's 1987 budget. That's good news. It is almost automatic that such lessons will some day prevent a drowning.

This pool is important for Marshall — for our recreation and to help attract industry. We have a good chance to get it with help from federal and state funding sources. No one can expect to mount a campaign as complicated as this one and encounter no setbacks. We've had a couple of minor ones, but the drive is alive and healthy. Everyone working on the project deserves the thanks and support of us all.

Arrest of Daniloff casts shadow of uncertainty over arms talks

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
AP White House Correspondent
WASHINGTON — The Soviet arrest of American journalist Nicholas Daniloff has thrown the Reagan administration off balance just when officials thought arms control talks and the prospects for a new U.S.-Soviet summit were back on track.

President Reagan was talking about having reached "a turning point" in superpower relations. He told one group this summer that "for the first time... we're not only pointing in the right direction — toward reduction and eventual elimination of nuclear weapons — we have begun to move, both sides, down that road."

Administration analysts said privately they had concluded Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, after taking power little more than a year ago and cementing his position at home, was now prepared to move forward on key arms control issues. And just as important, they said, the Reagan administration itself was finally ready to deal seriously.

After six years of internal squabbling, "there's a very high degree of consensus within the administration," an administration source reported. "It took a long time to mature."

Reagan and his advisers were understandably reluctant, therefore, to retaliate against the Soviets' jailing of Daniloff and risk losing what they perceived as a precious moment in the long struggle to find agreement on limiting nuclear weapons.

While branding it an outrageous setup of an innocent man, they hoped some higher Soviet authority — perhaps Gorbachev himself — would intervene and find a way out of the crisis in U.S.-Soviet relations touched off by Daniloff's arrest.

"We're trying to keep from painting ourselves into a corner," said one senior official, explaining the government's hesitancy to take some action that almost certainly would draw an equally negative reaction from the Soviets and perhaps jeopardize the careful preparations for a Reagan-Gorbachev summit later this year.

However, the same source, speaking on condition he not be identified, acknowledged that the Kremlin seemed to be painting itself into its own corner by formally charging the U.S. News & World Report correspondent with espionage and displaying its evidence, however questionable, in the public press.

Reagan, who built his political career talking tough about how other presidents should have handled the Russians, was under considerable pressure from his own supporters to get tough about Daniloff, who could be seen as the death penalty if convicted by a Soviet court.

But while Reagan warned the Soviets they were erecting an obstacle to improved superpower relations, his spokesmen cautiously avoided saying what the administration might do if Daniloff is not released.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes noted that several talks at several levels are scheduled in Washington, Moscow and Geneva as officials from both sides meet to prepare for a U.S.-Soviet summit.

The most important of those meetings are scheduled for Sept. 18 and 20, when Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze are to sit down in Washington to discuss specifics and perhaps set a date for a summit.

Although some officials said cancellation of the key planning session was under consideration, Speakes told reporters, "For the moment, there has been no change in the schedule."

"We would hope before the Shultz-Shevardnadze meeting that the Daniloff matter is resolved," he added, "but if it's not, it would obviously be a topic of major discussions."

Asked if Shultz would confine his comments to that one issue to emphasize the importance the United States attaches to the case, the spokesman said Daniloff would be an important element of the discussions but not the only one.

(Editor's note: Michael Putzel has covered the White House for The Associated Press since 1979.)

Tax bill could hurt nation's renters

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK — The contention of two recent documents suggest big financial problems for America's growing population of renters.

And, because many renters already are at the outer limit of their budgets, their problems inevitably become the problems of society in general.

The first document is The Tax Reform Act of 1986, soon to be passed by Congress and signed by the president. The other is a study entitled "Home Ownership and Housing Affordability" by the Joint Center For Housing Studies.

As written, the tax overhaul measure is likely to result in higher rents. But even now, according to the Joint Center study, one-quarter of those in the lowest income classes have rent burdens of more than 75 percent of income.

The Joint Center, operated by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University, terms "ominous" the outlook for such renters.

The rental impact of the tax act is likely to result from several changes in the law.

By general consensus, the law will be death on tax shelters which, in spite of any adverse effects on society, do a lot of good for the renter. The impact, in terms of less rental real estate construction, already has begun.

While new housing financed by tax-shelters almost never is available to those lowest on the economic scale, it does add to the supply of housing stock, and allows the poor to inhabit the least desirable units as others vacate them.

In addition to killing off tax shelters, the act would lessen depreciation of real estate assets for all investors and place limitations on deductibility of interest, in addition to raising capital gains taxes.

Deloitte Haskins & Sells, a large accounting firm, sums up the impact with this terse view: "As the tax benefits of rental real estate are removed or reduced, rents will have to rise if the rates of return are to be maintained."

The Joint Center findings document the already precarious situation of many renters.

Thirty-five percent of U.S. households rented their own housing in 1983, the latest year used in the study.

County to consider lowering specifications for road gravel

By FRANK HOLMES
Staff Writer

Harrison County commissioners Tuesday authorized the county engineer to investigate the feasibility of using lower quality gravel for next year's road construction.

Precinct 2 Commissioner William "Buddy" Power said current specifications for state road work require gravel containing 48 percent iron ore. Precinct 3 Commissioner G.K. Brumbe asked county engineer Art Knollman whether a lower iron ore percentage could be used.

"I would like us to just consider or get you to investigate how much we would lose in quality if you reduce the standards. It seems to be the consensus that the good stuff (iron ore gravel) is just about gone. We need to look at the cost-benefit ratio. How far down can you take the iron ore content?" said Brumbe.

Knollman said that as iron ore content is cut back, either clay or sand is used to replace it in gravel. "Clay is too plastic and sand is not plastic enough. When you reduce your standards, suppliers would want to sell you something that wouldn't set up," he said.

After more discussion, the commissioners instructed the engineer to look into the possibility of using gravel with less iron ore.

Commissioners Monday approved spending $107,000 as 40 percent of a contract with the city of Marshall to improve 1.7 miles of a road which runs by the Harrison County Airport, from Farm Road 31 down Memorial Drive to the intersection of Warren Drive.

Power said the city is responsible for deciding when construction will start because it is obtaining a contractor.

Carolyn Abney installs Marshall Camp Fire officers

By CINDY EDWARDS-RINKLE

Lifestyle Editor
The Marshall Council of Camp Fire Inc. will be "Growing With Camp Fire" during this year with a commitment to provide interest in the program, board members learned recently.

President Dot Woodruff told a group of board members Monday night the local council would be undergoing strategic planning, following a successful self-evaluation.

"We'll try to maintain our strengths," Mrs. Woodruff said. Those include high visibility and excellent public image, a competent, well managed council and an extremely capable executive director.

Carolyn Abney, a former board member of the council, installed the officers for the upcoming year. Mrs. Abney, Harrison County's Sesquicentennial chairwoman, used a basket of Texas bluebonnets for the installation.

Officers being installed with Mrs. Woodruff included Ken Conwell, first vice president; Frank Johnson, second vice president; Rodney Gilstrap, third vice president; Barbara Huffman, secretary; and Betty Richey, treasurer.

HAPPENINGS

United Methodist Women meet

Jannette Johnson, president of Longview District United Methodist Women, was present for the Sept. 2 meeting of local members at First United Methodist Church in Marshall.
Ms. Johnson, of Waskom, was joined by other officers in the district, including Mae Williams, president, and Patsy Cox, secretary of Program Resources of Marshall-Summit Church; Arnola Zaborksky, president, Donna Bradley, Secretary of Program Resources and Dorothy Williams, chairperson of committee on membership from Marshall Wesley Church; and Doris Fugler, district secretary, Marshall-First Church.

The Rev. John Cullen, Associate Minister of First United Church, gave the blessing prior to dinner. Circle 6, Ilene Pelz, chairman, arranged and served the dinner.

The general meeting in the Guy Jones Chapel was opened with prayer by the Rev. L.A. Reavis, associate minister of First Methodist. Lois Oliver, organist, accompanied group singing.

President Beverly Hines, Marshall UMW presided. Business was presented by Ruth Stark, secretary and Louise Gibson, acting treasurer.

An announcement was made concerning knit bandages and infant layettes to be turned in through circles. Bonnie Timmins, chairman of Christian Global Concerns Committee, requested that circle chairmen get them in by early October.

Margie Totten, mission coordinator of Christian involvement, introduced Dorothy Rose Williams, immediate past president of Marshall-First UMW, gave the introduction to the study, "Christian Social Involvement." The next lesson in the series is to be studied in home circles.

Each guest was recognized and made comments concerning the meeting and work of the entire organization.
The executive Board, consisting of local officers and circle chairmen, met in the parlor prior to the dinner and general meeting.

The next meeting will be Oct. 7 in the Chapel.

Legion auxiliary meets

Ramona Davis was host at her home on Pinecrest Drive for a party for the American Legion Auxiliary on Sept. 5.

Each guest was presented a gift from a secret pal. Refreshments were served to 23 members from the post and auxiliary. The group drew names for secret pals for the next six months. They will also have a Valentine's Day party at the post home on Bomar Street. Ten men from the post attended.

Wife wonders about hubby's affair

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I've been happily married for 10 years and have two children. I found out last Christmas that my husband had an affair. What a Christmas present that was to him; in fact, I was a virgin when we married. I thought we had a good marriage until he started acting strange around me, then I knew something was bothering him. I finally worked the reason out of him. I asked for all the details because I felt I had a right to know. He said a girl he works with came on to him, so he took her to a club, had a drink or two, then went to her apartment where the incident took place. He said he was not drunk, and knew what he was doing, but nothing really happened — he never completed the act because right in the middle of it he felt so guilty he wasn't able to!

MICHIGAN MISHAGOSS

DEAR MISHAGOSS: According to Webster, an affair is a "romantic or passionate attachment typically of limited duration." As limited in duration as your husband's romantic attachment was, it was an affair. And he is no less guilty because his mind made a contract his body couldn't fulfill.

Clements, White find polls favorable

AUSTIN (AP) — Republican gubernatorial candidate Bill Clements says a new poll shows him with a "comfortable" lead, but Gov. Mark White's campaign says its polls show the Democrat moving up.
Clements, the former governor ousted by White in 1982, told the Dallas Morning News that a recent survey he commissioned showed him leading White.

White campaign press secretary Mark McKinnon disputed that Wednesday, saying their most recent survey and those of other politicians show White rapidly gaining ground on Clements.

Neither side agreed to make the actual poll results public.

In an interview with a News reporter in Uvalde, Clements said a survey by his pollster, Richard Wirthlin of Washington D.C., showed him leading White.

The newspaper Wednesday quoted "campaign insiders" as saying the margin was more than 20 points. It said the survey of 600 likely voters was taken Aug. 23-24 and had a margin of error of plus or minus 4 percentage points.

Clements said the poll disputes suggestions by Democrats that White has closed the gap because of his leadership in calling the Legislature into special session and advocating a temporary tax increase to solve the state's fiscal crisis.

Suspects face charges in baby kidnapping

TEMPLE (AP) — A woman accused of kidnapping an 8-hour-old baby from a Temple hospital nursery may have been trying to replace the loss of her own infant, police said.

The 18-year-old Temple woman and a man described as her boyfriend were being held in Temple City Jail without bond after they were arrested about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and the baby boy found safe at a residence west of Temple, said Sgt. Theodore Cruz.

Jeremy Scott Bobo, born at 4:50 a.m. Wednesday and taken from a viewing room at Scott & White Memorial Hospital nursery about 12:30 p.m. when a nurse left the room to check on another baby, was unharmed, police said.

The baby was footprinted to verify his identity.
Police said neighbors and others told them the woman arrested may have been trying to replace a child she lost.

People told us "that she was pregnant and she lost hers through miscarriage," Cruz said.

Harris County sheriff plans drug testing

HOUSTON (AP) — All 1,700 employees at the Harris County Sheriff's Department will be subject to random drug testing beginning in October, a spokesman says.

"What it entails is a random selection process for universal testing, and that means each person in the department is eligible to be tested at any given time," said Mark Kellar, director of planning and development for the sheriff's department.

In addition to the drug tests, the department will begin testing for probable cause in cases where an employee appears to be acting under the influence of abused drugs, he said Wednesday.

The urinalysis will be performed by the Harris County medical examiner's office. It will determine the presence of marijuana, cocaine, various barbiturates and amphetamines.

If an employee tests positive twice for the presence of abused drugs, the department will take "appropriate disciplinary action," Kellar said.

Tuition program may be started in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A New York businessman, once offering to pay college tuition for any sixth-grader at a Harlem elementary school who went on to graduate from high school, is trying to start a similar program here.

Eugene Lang, who made his first challenge six years ago, is now working with officials of the nonprofit STEP Foundation, a volunteer organization, to raise enough money and volunteers to ensure that any of the 1,000 sixth-graders in six Dallas schools can attend college if they graduate.

Officials said volunteers will also work closely with the children for the rest of their academic careers to encourage and advise them.

Lang said his impromptu offer in Harlem turned into "the most rich, rewarding experience of my life," said Lang on Wednesday as he worked on the Dallas program.

Officials said the volunteers, which may include Sunday schools or businesses "adopting" a class, will help students with academic problems and anything else affecting their schoolwork.

Lang said Dallas-area residents will be the first outside of New York to participate in the program he calls the "I Have a Dream Project."

Tourism council marks 24th year

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Tourist Council, which claims partial credit for Texas moving from 28th to third among the most popular states to visit, will celebrate its 24th anniversary this year.

The council was chartered Nov. 2, 1962, in response to a four-year decline in tourists coming to Texas.

Executive Director Don Epperson, who is retiring this month after 23 years with the council, said the council "was the prime architect and guiding influence in getting the Legislature to set up and fund the Texas Tourist Development Agency" in 1963.

The agency's budget for its first biennium was $292,000. The current budget is over $4 million.

Epperson said in 1962, the year the council was chartered, Texas attracted 9.6 million out-of-state visitors. "This year, we expect to attract over four times that many — 40 million. In 1962 those visitors spent $471 million in Texas. That year, that amount will have grown to $16 billion," he said.

Sierra Club praises inaction on proposal

AUSTIN (AP) — The Sierra Club is praising the Texas House for not acting on a bill to take $3.25 million from a fund that is used to establish local parks.

The House passed the bill in the first budget-balancing special session that ended Sept. 4. Debate was scheduled again Wednesday, but its sponsor, Rep. Edmund Kuempel, R-Seguin, said he wouldn't push the bill unless there were indications of Senate support.

"The local park fund is one of the most popular state government programs in Texas," said Ken Kramer, the lobbyist who represents the Sierra Club, as he praised the House for tabling the bill.

Mexican police may search U.S. law officers at border

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Mexican government has ordered its police to identify and search all U.S. law officers entering Mexico and to detain those carrying weapons, according to a U.S. Customs Service bulletin.

The bulletin was issued to American law enforcement agencies along the U.S.-Mexico border, and said the Mexican mandate applies to federal, state and local authorities crossing into Mexico, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported today.

"Federal police of the Republic of Mexico are instructed by Mexico City to identify, stop and search all federal, state and local law enforcement officers entering Mexico to ascertain if they have weapons or ammunition," the bulletin said. "If such items are found, the U.S. officer will be detained and the items seized."

Customs sources in Dallas and El Paso verified the existence of the bulletin, but said they are not yet sure whether the information is accurate, the Star-Telegram said.

The Laredo News also reported that law enforcement officials crossing the border would be searched for weapons. The News said the directive was contained in a telex intercepted by U.S. intelligence sources in El Paso. Webb County Sheriff Mario L. Santos told the News he advised his deputies Wednesday not to go into Mexico. And at the Laredo Police Department, 11. Ismael Alaridin, chief of detectives, instructed his officers likewise, a police spokesman said.

As of Tuesday, detectives were instructed not to go to Mexico without obtaining authorization from Alaridin, the newspaper said.

The Star-Telegram said the bulletin was issued Tuesday by customs officials in Arizona and was based on information from informants in Mexico.

Customs officials in El Paso ordered their agents to stay on the U.S. side of the border until further notice, but Drug Enforcement Administration and Department of Public Safety officials said they will conduct business as usual.

U.S. officials in Washington were close-mouthed about the development.

Jim Mahan, a public affairs officer with U.S. Customs in Washington, denied any knowledge of the Mexican directive.

A DEA spokesman in Washington, special agent Larry Gallina, said the agency would have no comment on the bulletin or its impact on the agency's operations south of the border, the Star-Telegram said.

But Phil Jordan, special agent in charge of the DEA regional office in Dallas, which supervises drug agents in El Paso, said DEA agents will continue their work — which often includes carrying weapons into Mexico.

Inmate gets stay nine hours before scheduled execution

By MICHAEL L. GRACZYK

Associated Press Writer

HUNTSVILLE — Just nine hours before he was slated for lethal injection early today, a convicted killer was spared from the Texas death chamber by a federal judge's order.

U.S. District Judge Ross Sterling issued a stay Wednesday in the case of Antonio Bonham, 26, who was convicted of the 1981 abduction, rape, robbery and slaying of a Houston business college instructor, Marie McGowan. Mrs. McGowan, 62, died when she was run over with her own car.

Sterling said he thought the motion for a stay should be denied, but said the request came so close to the scheduled execution time that he would allow more time for the trial record to be studied.

"All right! Thanks a lot," Bonham responded after prison officials told him of the stay. He already had been taken from his death row cell to a holding area outside the death chamber when word of the delay arrived.

Bonham's attorney, Michael Charlton, blamed the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals for the lateness of the federal appeal, noting that the state court, which received his request Aug. 18, did not issue a ruling until last Friday.

Charlton is challenging several aspects of Bonham's arrest. He also contends the death penalty discriminates by race, alleging blacks who kill whites are more likely to be sentenced to death. An all-white jury convicted Bonham, who is black, of killing Mrs. McGowan, who was white.

Bonham would have been the ninth Texas inmate to be executed this year and the 19th — tops in the nation — since the state resumed the death penalty in 1982.

In a confession entered into evidence at his trial, Bonham, then 21, said he included Mrs. McGowan and intended to steal her car. After raping her and letting her out in a secluded area, he said he intended to scare her by attempting to run her over.

"I hadn't realized that I had run over the woman already until the car got stuck in the ditch," he said.

Bonham was the first of four Texas inmates with execution dates this month. Attorney General Jim Mattox had predicted the two inmates most likely to die were Donald Gene Franklin on Sept. 16 and Raymond Riles on Sept. 17.

Police confiscate suspected bomb

AMARILLO (AP) — Authorities

confiscated a package bound for the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant Monday after a United Parcel Service center after suspecting that the package might contain a bomb.

Police were called at the UPS distribution center shortly after 6:30 p.m. Wednesday after doubts arose about the parcel, which was in a delivery truck.

Employees at the distribution center were evacuated from the building, and officers cleared the area while the police bomb squad was summoned to the scene, officers said.

Bomb technicians removed the parcel from the truck and packed it in sand before turning it over to FBI officials, who arrived on the scene shortly after 9 p.m., police said.

Late Wednesday, authorities would not confirm whether the package contained a bomb, or if it was a bomb, whether the device would be detonated or defused.

Police said if the package did contain a bomb or illegal device, the offense would fall within federal jurisdiction.

There was no indication from whom or where the package may have originated, officers said.

The FBI in Dallas was to issue a statement at 8 p.m. today detailing what was in the package.

A UPS official at the distribution center said the company also would issue a statement concerning the incident this morning.

The package was transported in a container on a truck escorted by a convoy of law enforcement patrol

Researchers say TV violence high

WASHINGTON (AP) — Violence is rising on television's family hour at levels exceeding those of other prime time slots, University of Pennsylvania researchers say.

Violence — "meat and explicit physical threats, hurting or killing in any context" — peaks in the 8 p.m. to 9 p.m. slot, when children are most likely to watch, at a rate of eight incidents an hour, the researchers from the Annenberg School of Communications said Wednesday.

But they told a news conference that prime time's diet of bloodshed and mayhem is overshadowed by the intensity of violence on weekend daytime programs for children and cartoons aimed primarily at kids.

Senator gives kidney to daughter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jake Garn probably will be hospitalized for a week and be able to resume campaigning in three or four weeks after a successful operation to transplant his kidney to his 27-year-old daughter, his doctors say.

Garn, 53, and his daughter, Susan Garn Horne, were both in fair and stable condition at Georgetown University Hospital early today after the surgery of nearly six hours Wednesday, hospital spokesman Tom Sites said.

"The best of our expectations have been met and everyone is fine," said Dr. Baird Helfrich, who transplanted one of Garn's kidneys into Mrs. Horne.

Lobbyists expect farm package soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some farm lobbyists and others think the Reagan administration soon may unveil a package of goodies to help farmers just in time for the Nov. 4 general election.

The package, which could be announced shortly before or after Congress adjourns on Oct. 3, was said by one source to be "a remodeling of existing programs to help put a good spin" on administration policies as GOP House and Senate candidates face the final weeks of campaigning.

No specifics were suggested except that further liberalization of some credit programs and easing of debt collections by the Farmers Home Administration might be considered. A boost in soybean price supports and an increase in grain storage fees paid to farmers are other possibilities.

CBS founder returns to lead network

NEW YORK (AP) — William S. Paley, the 84-year-old founder of CBS, has returned to lead the beleaguered network, prompting speculation today of major management changes at CBS News.

"I think there would be a lot of changes," said Andy Rooney, "60 Minutes" commentator who has been publicly critical of CBS News' brazen trust, which includes news president Van Gordon Sauter. "I think that the news division is so important to CBS that a new administration would make news management part of the change."

The new corporate management includes Paley and Laurence A. Tisch, who controls, at 24.9 percent, the largest block of CBS stock.

County to include program in proposals

Wednesday after Ken Carille, president-elect of the Greater Marshall Chamber of Commerce, announced in a press conference that the county had already committed the $10,000, but a commissioner said the county had not voted on the item.

"We had talked with everyone but (Precinct 3 Commissioner) G.K. (Bramble) prior to making the announcement. There was some confusion on the paper's part. Judge Anderson was going to be there (at the Wednesday press conference) but the schedules didn't work out. I asked separate members of the court in the regular regime of their budgetary hearings to provide the services," Carille said today.

The $10,000, if approved in the 1987 county budget, will be matched by funds from the state, Carille said, making this a "one-time request" for funds from the county.

"No children in Harrison County can get swimming instructions unless they want to swim in snake-filled cow ponds. That is very dangerous," said Carille. He also said the $10,000 would fund not only Red Cross swimming lessons, but also life-saving techniques.

"For 15 years or so, there has been no Red Cross instruction in the county. It's a crying shame. Every year at Lake O' the Pines, we have teenagers and children drown. Our children don't know how to swim or help anyone who is drowning," he said.

Carille said the three-swimming-pool complex would be the "most elaborate pool complex in East Texas" and that each city in the county has participated in elaborate, time-consuming planning for the project.

"I have never known a project in Marshall with so much preliminary planning. We resent any comment such as yesterday's (News Messenger story) that there was a lack of detail in the planning," said Carille.

The News Messenger reported Wednesday Carille's announcement that the county "will include $10,000 for swimming pool rental and services for a Red Cross swimming instruction program in the 1987 budget." Precinct 2 Commissioner William D. "Buddy" Power was quoted as saying that he had no personal objections to the funding, but that the commissioners court had not discussed the matter and that it would have to be approved by the court.

Commissioners said today that they will consider the funding during budget hearings. Carille said Wednesday that he has the votes to get the appropriation.

Anderson said that there would be no need for a mid-year budget amendment. "This will be placed in consideration for next year's budget," he said.

Carille said he was not looking for a "contract" from the county, but that he wanted "to show universal support" for the swimming pool project.

The opening board has had representatives from surrounding cities," said Anderson. "The benefits of this will be enjoyed by all young people in the county. We appreciate Ken Carille's efforts and also Tony Williams and the Recreation Committee of the chamber."

Precinct 1 Commissioner James Mooney said that since the Red Cross instruction program would benefit the entire county, he was sure the whole county would support the project.

Feds to take no part in probe of ballot requests

Texas Assistant Attorney General Jerry Brinkley and Mr. Leggat said in a press conference Friday they are investigating forgery and tampering with government documents, not voter fraud since the ballots had not been mailed and would never be counted.

Ms. Leggat said late Wednesday that she has known since she learned of the forgery Sept. 3 that the U.S. Attorney and FBI had no jurisdiction in the case. But at the request of the Hargett campaign, she contacted Worham and told him she would assist him in any investigation of the forgeries.

Hargett's attorney, Leonard Davis, contacted in Tyler, said Wednesday he is disappointed the federal authorities will not be involved in the investigation.

"I was hoping they could come in. I knew they might not because it's not a federal election, but I asked them to come in under the voting rights act," Davis said, adding that the investigation would be "a lot better off" with federal investigators than with Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox, a Democrat.

Ms. Leggat said she understood Rogers' statement that she was not involved in the investigation.

Rogers declined today to comment on Ms. Leggat's statement, deferring any other questions to the Hargett campaign. Assistant Republican Chairwoman Lou Gav said she wanted to clear up some apparent misconceptions about when she was informed of the forgeries.

At Friday's press conference, Ms. Leggat said she understood Rogers' statement that she was not involved in the investigation.

her desk, Ms. Leggat said, and she has invited anyone who is interested to look at the evidence, but the Republicans had not indicated an interest until Rogers' statements Wednesday.

"If the Republicans want to go back on what they agreed upon (that they did not want the applications made public) as a smear on this office, then I think that is pretty low. Both sides agreed not to have copies of the forged ballot requests," Davis said.

"I offered to give them (the campaign staffs) these last Thursday and asked them last Thursday to look at them. I handed them to Democratic and Republican representatives. The Republicans reviewed them and had complete access to them at all times," said Ms. Leggat.

day night concerning the forgeries.

Mrs. Gaw said today she called because she had been told there were "irregularities" with ballot applications from Box 3A and was asked to tell the district attorney's office the name of the Anderson campaign worker who usually works the absentee voter program in that precinct.

"I called (district attorney's investigator) Bobby Metcalf and told him the lady's name. I knew nothing about how many (applications) came in. When I called in, I was told some applications had come in with questionable signatures," Mrs. Gaw said. She also said she did not know whether the applications in question were for Saturday's election or for Tuesday's school bond election.

Hunts' lawyer says bankruptcy a Louisiana case

By KEVIN METCALFE

NEW ORLEANS — A lawyer for the billionaire Hunt brothers of Texas told three federal appeals court judges today that the Hunts should be allowed to hash out their bankruptcy problems in Louisiana because that is home for their Placid Oil.

"Placid is here because its assets are here in Louisiana," Stephen Gordon told the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals. Gordon also told the panel that U.S. District Judge Barendt Sanders of Texas was wrong when he told the Hunts to keep the case in Dallas courts.

Sanders' order put a Thursday deadline on the Hunts to get the case out of New Orleans.

Companies owned by William Herbert Hunt, Nelson Bunker Hunt and Lamar Hunt have filed in New Orleans for protection under federal bankruptcy laws against 23 banks that are trying to foreclose on $1.5 billion in past due loans.

On Wednesday, the Hunts filed a motion in Dallas trying to get Sanders from bearing any more of the case. The motion argued for reconsideration of the earlier motion charging Sanders with a conflict of interest and seeking his removal from the case.

The Hunts had previously asked Sanders to disqualify himself because he owns stock in Allied Bankshares of Houston, which is one of the banks involved in the suit. Wednesday's motion said Sanders also owns 13.7 percent of stock owned by $183,000 and serves on the board of Texas-based Industrial Investment Corp. with C.P. Storey and E. Taylor Armstrong.

Storey and Armstrong are partners in the law firm Storey, Armstrong, Steger and Martin, which represents First National Bank of St. Paul, Minn., one of the 23 banks involved.

Sanders could not be reached for comment.

The Hunt interests involved in the cases are Placid Oil Co., a Placid subsidiary and the William Herbert Hunt personal estate

Aggies to travel to LSU Saturday

DALLAS (AP) — Here are highlights of this weekend's scheduled college football games involving Southwest Conference teams.

TEXAS A&M (0-0) at LSU (0-0), 8:45 p.m. (CDT). Early National Television — Defending SWC champion Texas A&M opens the season where it left off in '85 — against a rugged Southeastern Conference opponent on national television. The Aggies are ranked seventh nationally while LSU is 12th. Coach Jackie Sherrill's crew led Auburn 36-16 on Jan. 1 in the Cotton Bowl and renews a 39-game rivalry with the Tigers after an 11-year lapse. A&M is 68-20-3 in season-opening contests and has won four of its last five season openers on the road. After going 10-2 overall last year and 7-1 to win the conference championship, A&M is the pick of the '86 SWC Media Tour to repeat as winner. The Aggies took the last two games of the series with LSU before it was interrupted and scored a 39-8 win over Coach Emory Bellard in '75, played the Tigers. LSU has played more games (141) than any team from a major conference against SWC opposition and leads all time series against SWC teams 99-40-10. Sherrill is 79-35-2 (six bowls) in 10 seasons and 98-18-3 at A&M (four years) while LSU Coach Bill Arnsparger is 17-5-3 (two bowls) in two years at LSU.

SWC WEEKEND

TCU (0-0) at TULANE (0-0), 1:30 p.m. (CDT). — Another "howl game" for the SWC in non-conference play at Louisiana Superdome, season opener for both teams. TCU, coached by Jim Wacker for the fourth year, is 54-26-9 in season openers and 12-20-2 in the three previous years under Wacker. Tulane, guided by second-year Head Coach Mack Brown, is 21-31-1 against the SWC but leads TCU 2-1. The Horned Frogs won 30-13 in Fort Worth last fall. Both teams feature multiple offenses as Wacker has added the Wishbone formation, while Brown was noted for his multiple attacks as head coach at Appalachian State and offensive coordinator at Oklahoma and LSU before arriving at Tulane. Brown is 0-4 against SWC opponents and is 7-15 as a head coach at ASU and TU in two years. TCU's Wacker guided the Horned Frogs to their first bowl appearance in 19 years when he took the 1984 team to the Bluebonnet Bowl and fell 31-14 to West Virginia.

TEXAS TECH (1-0) at MIAMI, Fla. (0-0), 8:30 p.m. (CDT). — At the Orange Bowl, first-ever meeting in football between the Red Raiders and Hurricanes. Texas Tech started the season with a 41-7 triumph over Kansas State last week in Lubbock to begin the head coaching career of David Williams. Miami Head Coach Jimmy Johnson is an Arkansas grad and stands 49-33-3 in his eighth season as a head coach, with five bowl teams at Oklahoma State and Miami where he is 20-7 entering third season. Johnson is 2-2 against SWC opposition while the Hurricanes are 16-11 all-time against SWC. Last game with an SWC team came in '85 when the 'Canes downed Rice 48-20 to begin a 10-2 season. Miami Miami is rated No. 2 in nation.

MISSISSIPPI (1-0) vs. ARKANSAS (0-0) at Little Rock, 7:00 p.m. (CDT). — Traditional rivals meet for the 33rd time, and the Razorbacks are the Rebels' most-faceted SWC opponent. Arkansas claims a 16-15-1 advantage, while Ole Miss insula it owns the 16-15-1 edge. Over the last five years, the Hogs are 5-1-1 against the Rebels, including a 34-10 triumph at Jackson in '85. Arkansas is 21-17-4 in openers, and Head Coach Ken Hatfield stands 17-4-1 after last year's 10-2 mark and 18-17 triumph over Arkansas state in the Holiday Bowl. The Razorbacks are ranked 18th nationally. Mississippi Head Coach Billy Brewer is 73-56-5 in his 13th season and is 16-17-2 in his fourth season at the helm of the Rebels. He's 1-1-1 against Arkansas and has the same record against SWC opposition. Ole Miss is 20-23-1 against the SWC while the Razorbacks are 27-40-2 against the SEC. Mississippi Head Coach John V. Vandehey (1947-70, '73) was an All-SWC guard at TCU while the Hogs' second-team quarterback, John Bland is the son of former Mississippi State standout Dan Bland, who led the nation in kickoff return average in 1964.

SMU (0-0) at RICE (1-0), 7:00 p.m. (CDT). — SMU opens the season and the 72nd campaign of SWC football activity against the Pacific 10 Conference. The Longhorns historically are almost unbeatable in season-openers at 84-9-3. Last team to stop UT in its first game of the season was the College 16-13 in 1976. The Longhorns are coming off an 8-4 year and 24-16 loss to Air Force in the '85 Bluebonnet Bowl. Stanford was 4-7 overall last fall, but Coach Jack Elway's Cardinal has 20 of 22 victories returning. Texas Head Coach Fred Akers is 11th among the nation's active coaches in winning percentage at 61.382 for 11 seasons — two at Wyoming and the last nine at Texas — for a 700 percentage. Akers is 81-25-2 at UT while Elway is 64-44-2 entering his 11th year as a head coach at Stanford and San Jose State. Last year Texas scored on a three-yard run by Charles Hunter with 3:55 left in the contest to down SMU 38-34 in a game filled with 975 yards of total offense.

LOUISIANA TECH (1-0) at BAYLOR (1-0), 7:00 p.m. (CDT). — In a battle of unbeaten 12th-ranked Bears face the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs of the Southland Conference as the Bears play their home opener. Baylor used a pair of Thomas Everett interceptions, one for a 42-yard touchdown return, and a career-best 314 yards of total offense by QB Cody Carlson to down stubborn Wyoming 31-28 at Laramie last weekend. Tech took a weekend off after downing Tulsa 22-17 at Tulsa, Okla., to open the season on Aug. 30. SWC teams have a composite record of 8-0 against Tech as every university except Texas owns a 1-0 record against the Bulldogs. Baylor Coach Grant Teaff is 124-119-7 in his 24th season as head coach and stands 82-73-5 in his 15th season at Baylor. Baylor has won 12 of its last 15 games since the final two games of 1984. Tech is guided by Bulldogs' alumnus A.L. Williams, who owns a 62-60 record in his 10th campaign overall and is 23-15 in his fourth year with Louisiana Tech.

STANFORD (0-0) at TEXAS (0-0), 7:00 p.m. (CDT). — Texas, with nine straight season-opening victories, starts with a tough intersectional opponent in Stanford of the Pacific 10 Conference. The Longhorns historically are almost unbeatable in season-openers at 84-9-3. Last team to stop UT in its first game of the season was the College 16-13 in 1976. The Longhorns are coming off an 8-4 year and 24-16 loss to Air Force in the '85 Bluebonnet Bowl. Stanford was 4-7 overall last fall, but Coach Jack Elway's Cardinal has 20 of 22 victories returning. Tommy's campaign with the support of Harrison County, when they elected me County Judge, and I think I've kept my word. I want to put my experience to work in Austin so that we can get East Texas moving again."

"When my late husband, Royce, ran for County Judge against Richard Anderson in 1978, it was a good, clean campaign where both men discussed the issues. Even though Royce and I were disappointed when we lost, we knew that Harrison County had elected an excellent County Judge."

"My name is Liz Larned. I've known Richard for over 20 years. He and my daughter, Jennifer, were high school classmates. I know when her dad ran against Richard it was real hard for her, because Richard was a good friend.

"But that was a campaign where two good men had different ideas about how things should be done. And they debated those differences in front of the voters, right out in the open. On election day, the voters made their decision.

"Edd Hargett doesn't want to play by those rules. He doesn't like debating Richard. Instead, he uses trashy TV commercials to insult Richard, and then tries to get three judges to proclaim him Senator, rather than letting us vote for who we want.

"I don't think that's the way we want to see things done in East Texas.

"Richard Anderson is an honest and compassionate man. He's helped deliver better services to us here in Harrison County, like 15 new volunteer fire departments, five new senior citizen nutrition centers and more sheriff deputies on patrol. He's brought industry and jobs to our community, and he can do the same for all of East Texas if he's a Senator.

"I'm voting for Richard this Saturday."

"I'm Congressman Jim Chapman. When I ran for Congress last year and defeated Edd Hargett, I found out what Edd didn't know about government he made up for by being an expert in dirty politics."

intelligent public service. He thinks people have a right to a decent job and a good school for their kids without having to pay crippling taxes.

"Hargett, on the other hand, has a record of wanting to be elected to something. The question is: what would he do if ever elected? He could no longer throw mud or sue to get what he wanted. And if you don't like to debate, then serving in public office is not the place to be.

"I hope you will join Betty and I on Saturday in voting for the most qualified candidate to be our next State Senator, Richard Anderson."

"Now we can elect another good Democrat, Judge Richard Anderson. Richard has a record of efficient, compassionate and

"I'm State Representative Pete Patterson. I'm proud to represent some of you in the Texas House. In the first round of this special election to replace Sen. Howard, I asked for your vote. Now in the runoff, my vote is going to Judge Richard Anderson.

"I sincerely appreciate the confidence expressed in me by those who supported my candidacy and voted for me. I'm proud to share your vision of what East and Northeast Texas can be.

"On Saturday, I hope you will join me in voting for Richard Anderson as our new State Senator."

"We need to elect someone to the State Senate with proven government experience and a record of helping people. What we don't need is a Senator who requires on the job training!"

"My name is Tom Ramsey, and last month I was an opponent of the two men on Saturday's ballot. Now I'm a Richard Anderson supporter."

"Richard is a man of integrity who has proven he can run a government like a business, attract new industry to East Texas and keep people working even during hard economic times like these.

"With over 30,000 people out of work in this Senate District we don't need to vote for a Republican who will do anything from slinging mud to trying and take away our right to vote just to get himself elected.

"Richard Anderson is clearly the most qualified candidate on Saturday's ballot. I hope you will join me in voting for Richard."

After the August 9th election, Mr. Hargett said "Now we'll find out where Richard Anderson stands on the issues". Yet it seems Hargett would rather hide behind a media campaign that attempts to smear his opponent than face him in debates and forums.

Who Would Senator A. M. Aikin Want to Fill His Chair?

For 42 years, A. M. Aikin of Paris represented the 1st Senate District, giving our corner of the state a very special voice in Texas government. It may never be possible for anyone to ever fully match the legacy he left behind. Sen. Aikin has been called the father of Texas public education, and a list of all his accomplishments for Northeast Texas and the entire state would seem endless.

To carry on in the tradition of A. M. Aikin should be the ultimate goal of the person elected Saturday in the special election runoff. That will mean a dedication to compassionate, caring government which always seeks to help people, while also being run efficiently and conservatively.

A. M. (Bob) Aikin, III

On Saturday we have a tall order to fill—selecting the next person to have the honor of following in the footsteps of Sen. A. M. Aikin.

Mr. Hargett's people will say anything they can think of to keep voters from focusing on the critical issue of this campaign: Richard Anderson's excellent record of public service and Hargett's total lack of the same.

Dear Friend,

On Saturday you are being asked to choose a person to speak for us in East Texas. At a time when our part of the state is one of the hardest hit by economic bad times, the choice is a critical one.

To me, the choice is clear. Judge Richard Anderson can best continue the tradition begun by my Dad, A. M. Aikin, and upheld by Sen. Ed Howard.

Anderson is running on a record as County Judge that he can be very proud of. Like my Dad, Richard is dedicated to making sure people can find a job that pays a decent salary, that they can send their kids to good schools, and that the taxes they pay are fair for the services they receive.

If you put Richard's record side-by-side with Edd Hargett's, they are as different as black and white. Only Richard Anderson has shown what it takes to fill A. M. Aikin's chair in the Texas Senate!

On Saturday, I hope you will join me and all the other Aikin family members across East Texas in supporting Richard Anderson.

Sincerely,

A. M. (Bob) Aikin, III

The late Senator A. M. Aikin

"When Ashley was born I was struck by how small were the hands that hold our future. I'm deeply committed to seeing that those hands hold a bright and hopeful future for East Texas."

"I'm Ashley Anderson. I hope you will go to the polls this Saturday and vote for my Dad to be your next State Senator. I know my Dad can do a good job. He understands the East Texas values of hard work

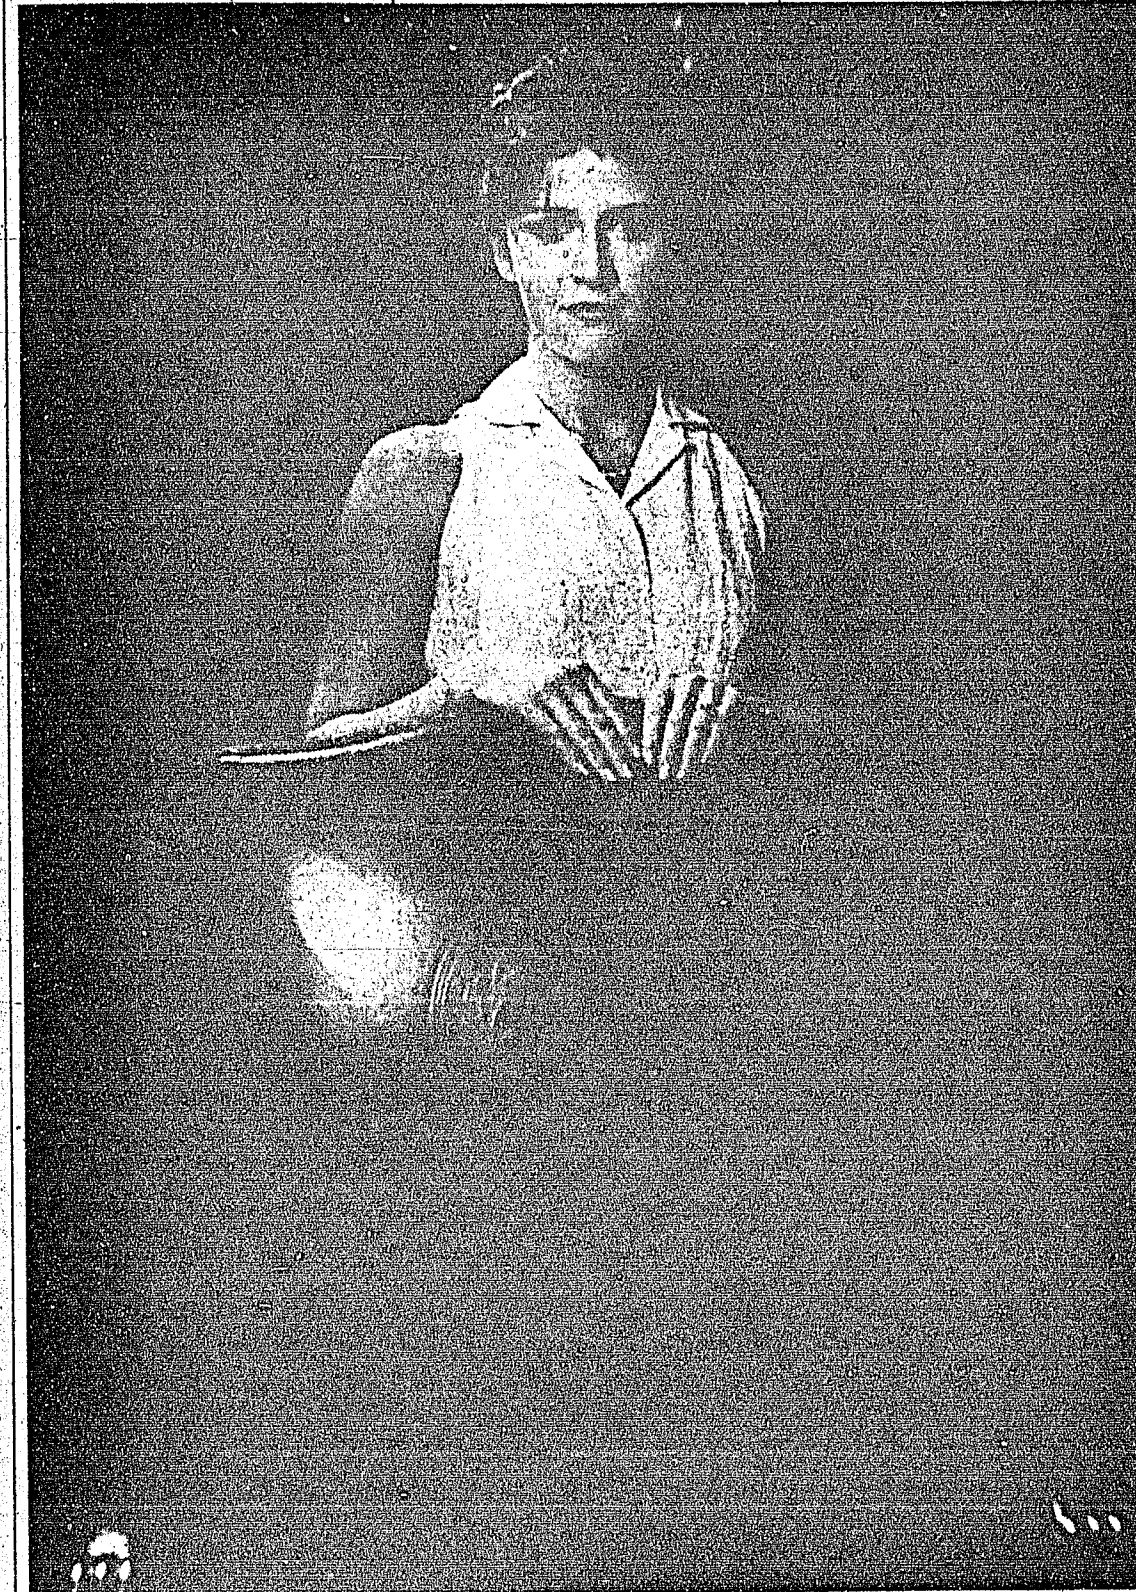

"I'm proud of my Dad, and I know he has what it takes to fill Senator Aikin's chair. Please vote this Saturday for my Dad, and maybe someday you will be just as proud of Richard Anderson as I am."

"If you elect my Dad on Saturday to fill this chair, you will be asking him to live up to a Texas tradition going back over 50 years."

and caring about others.

"Dad's opponent, Edd Hargett, has tried to use me to keep my father from ever filling this seat. He doesn't mind throwing mud at another man's family just to try and win an election.

"Those weren't the values I was raised on. I don't think it's right for someone to run for office by saying unfair and untrue things about his opponent's private family life. I still hope that in East Texas we vote for a candidate based on what he says about the issues.

A ANDERSON
DEMOCRAT ★ TEXAS SENATE

"My name is Ann Yappen, and I'm a business woman from Marshall who has watched Judge Anderson at work for eight years. He's not all talk. Richard has made things happen in this County.

"Most governments aren't run like a good business, but our county is! Taxes are down, there is a budget surplus and we have better services than ever before."

business, and that's why we've attracted new industries here over the last few years, even while the economy has been down.

"Hargett keeps saying he's conservative too. That

"Elected officials must remember that the people are both the owners and consumers of government. They have a right to expect honest, efficient and quality service without backbreaking taxes."

"Richard Anderson is a fiscal conservative who makes government work. That's good for means he should want government to stay out of our lives as much as possible. So why is he trying to have the courts decide for us who our next Senator will be?

"Richard has done in this County what we need to have people doing up in Austin, which is to make government work efficiently. I'm sure Richard will be that kind of Senator. That's why I hope you will join me in voting to send Richard to Austin so that maybe he can help straighten that mess out down there."

"My name is Pat Owens. Both my wife, Cindy, and I work hard so that we can give our two little girls, Cammie and Patti, a really good start in life. So when we were looking for a house to buy, it was frustrating to find out high interest rates at the time were keeping us away from the houses and neighborhoods we wanted to look at. "But with the help of the Harrison

County Home Mortgage Bond money program that Judge Anderson helped to set up, we were able to buy the kind of home we dreamed about having at monthly payments we could handle.

"During this special election, Judge Anderson's opponent has said a lot of things about him that I don't think are true. But I can tell you one thing I know is a fact. My family and I live in proof that Richard Anderson does more than just make promises, he makes things happen.

"They say the American Dream is owning your own home. But buying our first home was turning into a nightmare, until the home mortgage bond money Judge Anderson made available helped put us in the house we wanted and needed."

"Edd Hargett didn't want us to have a chance to vote in this runoff election. But I know when I wake up in my bedroom and look around my house, which I'm able to live in because of the help of Richard Anderson, you can rest assured it will take a lot more than Edd Hargett and a team of lawyers to keep me and my wife away from the polling place."
